THE 1,000 WHO FORGOT

A community, like an individual, must in the end be judged by its actions rather than its words. When all the talk is finished, when all the plans, hopes and promises have been voiced, it is what a city does that counts.

Victorians pride themselves on being a city of homes, on maintaining a good neighborly feeling among themselves, on responding to appeals for help in a way that demonstrates their sympathy and warm-heartedness. They have shown on many occasions that they are alive to the needs of those less fortunate, and that when faced with the need for generosity they can do more than talk about it.

Because these things are largely true, it is all the more difficult to understand why last year was the first time in many years that the Greater Victoria Community Chest made its objective.

It is difficult to understand why, after several weeks of fine effort by officials and canvassers, this year's Community Chest collection seems headed for a shortage of nearly $30,000.

It is difficult to understand why, when so many people give generously and cheerfully, so many others who could help dodge this civic duty and refuse to part with a thin dime.

The needs of the 20 agencies which appeal for funds through the Community Chest have been well publicized. Everybody in this area must know that they cater for the blind, the sick, the aged and homeless; that they provide nursing service, family counsel, help for youngsters both sick and well, treatment for citizens crippled by arthritis and other diseases; that their assistance runs all the way from Christmas treats and summer camps to homes for orphans and jobs for ex-prisoners trying to go straight.

These are facts known to all.

Yet the records show that 1,000 business firms, large and small, in this area have not given a cent to the Community Chest and have made no provision for their employees to do so.

That is worse than apathy. That is moral negligence.

Many commercial and industrial establishments in this city have given generously—they do so every year. Many of them have made it possible for their employees to contribute to the Chest through payroll deductions.

Such firms and individuals are the backbone of any community. They are participating properly in the group life from which they obtain their livelihood. They are carrying the burden of those who could give but do not.

Chest officials report that without a heavy flow of contributions within the next few days, the funds for next year will be $30,000 short of what is needed. There will be $220,000 for the work instead of $250,000.

That is not just a bookkeeping item. Translated into reality it means that charitable agencies in this community will have to curb their activities. Here and there a child will have to go without needed attention. Here and there a nurse may have to be laid off or put on part time with the result that some elderly folk will not get the care they should; a few blind people may miss an outing; a cripple may have to wait another year for the help he needs; almost certainly plans for the home for delinquent girls, so badly needed here, will have to be abandoned.

That is not a picture of the sort of community Victorians think they live in, but the facts cannot be dodged.

Of course, there won't be a big hullabaloo. Nobody will die in the streets. Most folk won't even know what is going on. But the social workers will try unsuccessfully to stretch their money to cover a little more than it can, the needy will quietly pull their belts a little tighter—and our town will become a little less the sort of place it should be.

There are 30,000 homes in Greater Victoria. One additional dollar from each of them—and many of them already have given handsomely—would put this year's campaign over the top, would do the job that should be done, would avoid the bad effects that a shortage of funds will cause.

This newspaper recognizes that a failure of the Community Chest campaign would be a serious thing for Greater Victoria. It would mean not only that the community's charities would be short of money—the community itself would be shown to lack the spirit, the group feeling, that any successful city must have.

This editorial is to point out the need to those who have already contributed and to those who have not. It is an appeal to "finish the job" at this critical stage in the campaign.

There is more at stake than money. Let's finish the job.

U.S. Orders Two Missiles Into Mass Scale Production

MORE OF SAME TONIGHT

Sunshine is nice, but at this time of year it invariably is the forerunner of cold nights and frost on the windshield. One of hundreds of Victorians who had to claw their way through ice and frost this morning in order to see was E. Crowley, 588 Burnside. Weatherman William Mackie predicted another cold night, with fog patches, and cloudy skies with rain late Friday.

TORIES PLAN CAR TAX CUT, SAYS TELEGRAM

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says in an Ottawa dispatch it was learned reliably that the federal government plans a 50 per cent reduction in the excise tax on automobiles this session.

The story says halving the present 10 per cent tax would reduce the cost of a $2,000 car by $100 if passed on to the consumer.

It adds that the move, in line with an election campaign pledge by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, is aimed at stimulating employment and sales in the auto industry.

The loss in revenue to the government is estimated at about $40,000,000 a year.

Ready for Use In Year Is Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, striving to catch up with Russia in medium range missiles, has ordered two rival types into production. The goal is to have them ready for use in another year.

The Senate preparedness subcommittee, to which defence secretary Neill McElroy made the announcement at a hearing Wednesday, welcomed it as "good news" and termed McElroy a man "with both the power and the willingness to act."

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (Dem., Tex.) said McElroy is the "real czar" in the battle to surpass Russia in missile development, and told reporters he hopes that other decisions which McElroy promised "will come just as soon as possible."

The subcommittee, before recessing its hearings until Dec. 13, also heard Deputy Secretary Donald A. Quarles testify that the United States is running "neck-and-neck" with Russia in developing the intercontinental ballistic missile, and that "as a whole, as of today," the over-all U.S. missile program is ahead of Russia's. (See Page 10.)

DEADLOCK DISSOLVED

McElroy ended an army-air force deadlock with his announcement of production orders for both the army Jupiter and the air force Thor. Both are intermediate range ballistic missiles with a range up to 1,500 miles.

At Redstone arsenal near Huntsville, Ala., where the Jupiter was developed, Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris said the arsenal's production facilities will be used to meet early requirements.

Army spokesmen in Washington indicated production will be gradually shifted to the Warren, Mich., plant of the Chrysler Corporation, which now produces the shorter-range Redstone missile.

An air force spokesman said limited production of the Thor has been under way for some time at the Douglas Aircraft Company.

$1 MILLION EACH

Though there have been varying estimates, the first missiles produced are expected to cost about $1,000,000 each. The cost is expected to drop as quantity production is achieved.

In Albuquerque, N.M., meantime, the Atomic Energy Commission announced static tests of propelling rockets by nuclear energy may begin late next year.

Ike Rapidly Recovering; At Church

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower went to church services today on the U.S. Thanksgiving holiday. It was a dramatic signal of the rapidity of his recovery from the mild stroke he suffered Monday.

Accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, he slipped out a side door of the White House and into a limousine while his press secretary was giving reporters the first word of a decision to go.

Shortly after the president returned from church, the White House said he and Mrs. Eisenhower hope to go to their farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., Friday. There was no word on how long Eisenhower might stay there.

A bulletin from White House physician Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder said: "The president had another good night's sleep and is in fine spirits this morning. His progress continues to be excellent."

Reports of excellent recovery progress cheered both the president and his family and they arranged a holiday get-together at the White House. Traditional turkey was on the dinner menu.

"CAGED LION"

"It is quite obvious he is like a caged lion," Vice-President Nixon told a White House press conference after he had talked with the convalescing president. Nixon added Eisenhower is "champing at the bit" to get back to work full time.

"I would like to 'scotch' once and for all, if I can, any rumors to the effect that the president, first, is in a condition which would make it necessary for him to consider resigning. And, second, that the president himself or anybody in the president's official family have discussed or are considering the possibility of resignation," Nixon said.

Sommers Case Remanded Until Dec. 6

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sommers bribery conspiracy case was remanded again today until Friday, Dec. 6.

Crown Prosecutor Stewart McMorran said that if he was to take charge of the case alleging conspiracy to bribe Robert Sommers, former forests minister, by three lumber firms and their officials, he would need the time to consult with Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Nicholas Mussallem, Mr. Sommers' counsel, said, "We don't agree to any adjournment," and added he wished to emphasize delay in beginning the case wasn't the result of any action by the Social Credit member of the legislature for Rossland-Trail.

PUT UP, SHUT UP

"In plain language," Mr. Mussallem said, "the crown should either put up or shut up."

Mr. Sommers was arrested on the bribery charge a week ago.

Also arraigned are C. D. Schultz; the company which bears his name; H. Wilson Gray and the two firms of which he is president, Pacific Coast Services and Evergreen Lumber Sales, and John M. Gray, sales manager of Pacific Coast Services.

Pulp Strike Talk Fails, Boilers Kept Manned

Salaried workers at most of the nine strike-bound pulp mills, including four on Vancouver Island, began manning boilers today to maintain heat in the plants.

A counter-move, the step was taken as B.C.'s first pulp industry strike, entering its third week, headed into a "tough" phase after breakdown of exploratory talks Wednesday.

A union leader said the 6,000 strikers "are in a position to continue this strike for a long, long period of time," after first contact between the two sides since the strike began failed to produce any results.

Emergency workers tending boilers in the plants operated by seven companies were ordered to withdraw by the central strike committee of the two unions involved—International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union.

Exceptions are the plants where boilers supply heat to houses in company towns.

James Petrie, manager of the MacMillan and Bloedel plant at Port Alberni, said the emergency workmen walked off the jobs at midnight and were replaced today by staff members to prevent damage to plant equipment.

He said the same situation had developed across the industry. Mr. Petrie added that electrical workers carrying out maintenance jobs, salaried workers and construction crews building added facilities still have not been interfered with by picket lines.

Meanwhile, the effects of the strike continued spreading. In

U.S. Bombs Not Fused On Flights, U.K. Told

(See also Page 5)

LONDON (CP) — American bombers on armed patrol over Britain are always able to return to the United States by an air refuelling system if they are unable to land in this country, Prime Minister Macmillan said today.

He was replying in the House of Commons to a series of Labor questions on patrols over Britain by planes of the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

Macmillan said there was no danger of an explosion even if the planes crashed because the bombs they carried were "not armed." He referred presumably to a technique for fusing the bombs for warfare only at the last minute.

The prime minister said the U.S. Air Force keeps ready a special tanker machine for mid-air refuelling if the plane could not land in Britain.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Readers Boost Fund to $768

Generous Victorians have given an additional $234 to the fund to buy "T-bricks" for Korean children, to bring the total to date to $768.04.

The fund hopes to reach a total of $12,000 in the next 27 days. Proceeds will help to build a tuberculosis outpatients' pavilion in Seoul, where the Korean war is taking a belated but terrible toll from the children of the country.

It has been heart-warming to find contributions to the fund coming from those that are rich, and those that are obviously poor. Several have signed themselves, "A Widow," and one lady admitted she already had made a donation direct to Ottawa, but could not resist the appeal made by Bruce Hutchison of the Times, and gave another $10.

Donations may be sent to the Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street, or the Times downtown office on Broad Street. Cheques should be made out to the Unitarian Services Committee "T-Bricks for Korea."

French Claim U.K. Betrayal On Arms Deal

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain said today the Red Sea kingdom of Yemen had asked France for arms and was refused.

A foreign office spokesman said France rejected the request, made two months ago, after Britain advised against supplying the arms. British forces in the neighboring Aden protectorate have been engaged for years in intermittent border clashes with Yemeni troops.

British quarters said Britain advised France against supplying the arms for fear they might be used against British troops in the border warfare.

A Paris dispatch appearing in The Daily Express says the French rejection of arms to Yemen was the "real story" behind the Tunisian arms dispute.

Correspondent Derek Marks says that now "the French feel that not only have they been betrayed but they have been betrayed after standing by their allies."

One in Four Chances Of Rain for Grey Cup

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—Weather authorities today said the chances of rain during the Winnipeg-Hamilton Grey Cup game Saturday stand at about one in four.

Heavy rain is forecast between midnight Friday and the 1 p.m. kick-off, but weathermen conceded the chances of rain during the afternoon are diminishing.

Meanwhile, "gotta ticket to the game?" was the most frequent question as this city came down with a red-hot infection of football fever.

But the only tickets to be had to the game between the eastern and western football champions were being scalped for as much as $40 for a $10 seat in the 27,000-odd capacity Varsity Stadium.

For the first time since 1953, rabid fans from coast to coast will watch fresh teams battle for Canada's coveted football crown. In heart-stopping regional finals last weekend, the Winnipeg Blue Bombers loosened the Edmonton Eskimos' grip on the western title and the savage Tiger-Cats of Hamilton snatched the eastern championship from the Montreal Alouettes.

The Bombers arrived in town today, headed by coach Bud Grant. The Ti-Cats will lurk in their Hamilton lair until Saturday but will be worked hard by coach Jim Trimble.

Special trains, buses and plane flights brought a deluge of out-of-towners to this city of 1,300,000 inhabitants who talk nothing but "Grey Cup."

HOW TO ESCAPE CANCER

...Just Don't Do Nothin

VANCOUVER (CP) — Associate professor of medicine has drawn up a tidy list for preventing cancer.

Dr. Donald M. Whitelaw of the faculty of medicine at the University of British Columbia turned the trick Wednesday night in a tongue-in-cheek speech to the B.C. Cancer Foundation.

The many well-known scientists and doctors who have studied cancer's causes, he said, have made the "mechanical" prevention of cancer "perfectly clear."

"All you have to do to prevent cancer is to carry out the following:

"1. Quit smoking.

"2. Quit drinking all alcohol.

"3. Stop drinking hot fluids (he said there is "some evidence that hot tea poured on the back of the throat" can cause cancer).

"4. Stop going out in the sun.

"5. Have no X-rays taken.

"6. Don't catch worms" (no specific kind mentioned).

"7. Don't come in contact with any germs.

"8. Don't expose yourself to coal tars (aspirins, Dr. Whitelaw said, contain coal tar).

"9. Choose your parents carefully (some evidence indicated cancer is carried through heredity).

"10. Avoid growing old."

QUEEN, MARGARET COUPLE OF KNOCKOUTS

Most Daring of Royal Careers

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Wednesday night wore a couple of the most daring evening dresses of their royal social careers.

The royal sisters didn't appear together. This was just as well, for the joint effect of their ultra-modern clothes might have been too electrifying.

The Queen's appearance was at a British Museum reception in London.

Princess Margaret was the guest of honor at a students' ball in Staffordshire.

Elizabeth donned a full-skirted dress of white tulle cut low in the front and the back, and precariously held up by two tiny jewelled straps that hugged her trim white shoulders.

She also wore a sparkling tiara and a diamond and ruby necklace.

While the Queen was appearing barebacked in London, Princess Margaret was doing the same thing in a strapless blue satin gown in rural Keele.

Partial to low-cut dresses, she must have been in love with the one she wore to the students' ball of University College of Staffordshire.

Around her neck she wore a necklace. There were pendant earrings at her ears.

The princess danced waltzes, rhumbas and did a modified jive when the band played the old New Orleans tune, "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Eleven students were selected to dance with the princess. She made it even more democratic, by asking the band leader, Nat Temple, to play three Paul Jones change-partners dances.

The idea was to dance with as many students as possible.

She was still at it at 2.30 a.m.

NATO Meeting On as Planned

PARIS (AP)—Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, announced today that the "summit" meeting of NATO's chiefs of government will go ahead as planned despite the illness of President Eisenhower.

A communique issued after a meeting of the permanent NATO council said the group had "learned with satisfaction" that Vice-President Nixon will head the U.S. delegation for the meeting.

The decision to go ahead with the three-day, 15-nation session as planned was unanimous, a NATO spokesman said.

The possibility that Eisen- will be able to attend the Dec. 16-18 talks was not ruled out in Washington.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's plans to attend are not being altered, it was announced from Ottawa.

... STRIKE

Vancouver, 120 men will be laid off at the $12,000,000 Hooker Chemical Company plant Monday when it closes down because orders for paper-making chemicals have been cut off by the strike.

Ken Hutcheson, president of the Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce, criticized Labor Minister Lyle Wicks for taking a "wait and see attitude" in refusing to intervene until both sides made requests.

MILLIONS LOST

Mayors of Port Alberni and Alberni, the Chamber of Commerce and Alberni Board of Trade petitioned Monday for government intervention.

More than $2,000,000 in wages and $9,000,000 in production has been lost since the strike began Nov. 14.

John Sherman, international vice-president of the pulp and sulphite workers, said the union's only alternative after the failure of the exploratory talks in Vancouver "is to tighten our lines and be firm in our position."

He said the union was in a position to "continue this strike for a long, long period of time but we want to find a solution. We don't want a bitter fight but we feel we are just in our cause and that the workers are entitled to more consideration."

He said it looked as if the companies "are trying to destroy the unions in this industry."

A meeting was held Tuesday, at the unions' request, which was followed Wednesday by a letter from the companies saying that if employee representatives want to talk about "more money than is set forth in the majority report of the conciliation board," there could be no useful purpose in continuing talks.

HIKE RECOMMENDED

The majority report recommended a 7½-per-cent increase in the workers' basic pay of $1.72 an hour. Management claims that hourly earnings actually average $2.30, not including welfare benefits. The unions are striking for 12-per-cent increases.

Replied Mr. Sherman after receiving the letter from D. R. Blair, manager of the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau which does the bargaining for the companies:

"Mr. Blair indicated the issues actually in dispute would not be discussed. Issues that are unresolved must be discussed. If they can't be, you're at a standstill. That's not collective bargaining."

Hillary Cut Off By Bad Weather In Antarctic

LONDON (Reuters)—A British Commonwealth expedition has travelled about 25 miles in its bid to make a 2,100-mile first land crossing of the Antarctic, its headquarters here said today.

The 10-man party, which left Shackleton base Sunday night, was about 25 miles south of the starting point Wednesday, the report said.

Meanwhile, a report from New Zealand said bad weather had cut air contact with another expedition led by Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mount Everest, who plans to meet the Commonwealth party during its trek.

Headquarters said the Commonwealth team had made a good start. When the trek by snow vehicle and dog team began, it was said expedition leader Vivian Fuchs and his men expected to travel 20 to 30 miles daily.

The group ran into trouble at crevasses but the trip now is going well, expedition headquarters added.

The party hopes to reach New Zealand's Scott base via the Pole by February. The men plan to rendezvous about Jan. 10 with a party led by New Zealander Hillary, who left Scott base Oct. 14.

Officials in Wellington, New Zealand, said bad weather had cut air contact with the Hillary group since Saturday. Supply planes have been grounded.

Hillary is at a base 720 miles from the pole and intends to work with the planes in building up supplies for the Fuchs party.

Art Gallery Low Bid By Victoria Company

Contract for building the new permanent wing of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery probably will go to M. P. Paine Co. which entered a bid of $63,923.

Roderick D. Clack, architect of the one-storey wing to house two galleries and other facilities, said Wednesday that work probably will begin next week.

The gallery building committee is expected to recommend the Paine Co. bid, lowest of four tenders by local contractors that ranged as high as $72,115, when it meets Friday. Final decision will be made by the directors Tuesday.

Some $79,409 is available for the project, supplied by the joint provincial-municipal centennial committees and a special Oak Bay grant.

Some of it will be used for rewiring the present building and providing new facilities such as a pottery workshop, weaving and painting studios and extension of the children's gallery.

'Greatest Cellist' Plays Here

A name and a musical reputation that is known wherever in the world musicians and music-lovers gather, plus a warm, friendly personality, belong to Victoria Symphony Orchestra's guest soloist of this week.

Zara Nelsova is one of the pre-eminent Canadian artists whose return was demanded and eagerly anticipated following her memorable appearance with the orchestra last season.

World's most famous woman cellist and one of the greatest of all living cellists, Nelsova will play with the orchestra at its second Duncan concert, Friday, and at the twin concerts to be given at the Royal Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Music to be performed by Nelsova with Hans Gruber and the orchestra, is Bloch's "Schelomo," Hebraic Rhadsody (which she recently recorded in England) and the Boccherini B-flat Cello Concerto.

Composer Ernest Bloch himself chose Nelsova to record "Schelomo." His comment was: "Zara Nelsova is my music."

The artist's 1735 Guarnarius instrument confronts her with numerous problems when travelling. But as she spends most of the year in her globe-girdling tours, Nelsova has learned to cope as well as airline officials and hotel porters have learned to know the blonde, smiling artist and her bulky but fabulous companion.

RESIGNATION URGED

Ike's Task Too Great Says U.K. Press

LONDON (Reuters)—Three British newspapers today urge President Eisenhower to retire and focus a searching look at Vice-President Richard Nixon as his successor.

The newspapers — The Scotsman, The Daily Mail and The Daily Mirror—say the burden of the United States presidency is too great for a man whose health is uncertain.

"To demand that the president should carry on is almost too much to ask," says The Daily Mail, Conservative.

"He has earned the rest and the chance of real recovery which complete severance from work and worry alone can give him, and if only in his own interests he should seek release."

NEEDS FIT MAN

The Scotsman, independent, says the work of a president is almost more than a fit man could perform and Eisenhower should resign.

"His duty to America and to America's allies is clear," says the left-wing Daily Mirror. "He should hand over the presidency as promptly as possible and restore some confidence in Western leadership."

The Mirror says no one can tell yet how Vice-President Nixon would shape up as president.

"Too slick? Too much of a salesman? Too inexperienced in world politics?

"Maybe. But Nixon has one supreme advantage. He is only 44. Young enough to learn. Tough enough to stand the strain of the most exhausting job in the world.

"The pace in 1957 is too hot for the old 'uns. This is the year of the Sputniks. Aged minds, tired brains, sick bodies, cannot keep up with the headlong pace of events."

SEES NIXON ADVANCING

The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, says Nixon "seems likely to step out more boldly towards the centre of power."

The News Chronicle, Liberal, says that to much of the world "Mr. Nixon looks almost as small today as Mr. Truman did before destiny swept him to the White House. But destiny can do strange things."

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today the responsibility for settling the Algerian rebellion "must rest with France."

He was reporting to the House of Commons on his talks in Paris earlier this week with Premier Felix Gaillard.

Arab Ruler Starts 16-Day Tour of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—King Mohammed V of Morocco ended his three-day visit here with a warm "goodbye" today from Vice-President Nixon, substituting for President Eisenhower.

The king left by air for Williamsburg, Va., starting a 16-day cross-country tour.

Nixon told the 48-year-old Moroccan ruler his stay had further strengthened the ties of friendship between Morocco and the United States.

Nixon presented the king with a Miss America doll, a gift from the vice-president's daughter, Patricia, 11, to Mohammed's 3½-year-old daughter, Amina. The king beamed as he accepted the gift.

Aides said Mohammed was pleased at results of two lengthy foreign policy talks with State Secretary Dulles.

After the king's final meeting with Dulles Wednesday, a joint statement was issued. It said both governments have a "firm attachment" to United Nations principles and will continue to co-operate in advancing the peaceful objectives of the UN.

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Twenty-four warships of Iran, Turkey, Britain, the United States and Pakistan sailed out of Karachi harbor Wednesday for a three-day exercise in the Arabian Sea. The sea and air operation will start Nov. 30.

New Senator Decries State Medicine Trend

Senator Joseph A. Sullivan, a practising Toronto physician and surgeon recently named to the Senate, said Wednesday that Canada's medicine profession "cries out 'halt' to Canada's march toward state medicine."

Doctors call state medicine "the assault on medicine," the Ontario Progressive Conservative said in his maiden Senate speech.

Dealing only in passing with the projected national hospital insurance scheme, Senator Sullivan said he favors direct government aid "only in areas where the individual is not able to bear the burden—the indigent sick, the chronically ill and those who suffer catastrophic medical expenses".

But his profession supported the hospital insurance scheme provided medical men operate it.

Doctors, however, did not want to be "equated" any more than any other profession did. Medical care was a problem solely for doctors, who probably needed legal help but not control. "We doctors are suspicious of those who would meddle with us."

"In democracies the welfare states is the beginning and the totalitarian state the end. The two submerge into the third sooner or later."

Principle Not Violated, Says PM

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday that appointment of Air Marshal Roy Slemon and 40-odd RCAF personnel to continental air defence headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., does not violate the principle that no Canadian troops will be sent outside Canada without parliamentary approval.

Mr. Diefenbaker, replying to Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, said the suggestion that the appointment violates the principle is "untenable." The appointment was made in a regular way.

Mr. Knowles quoted Mr. Diefenbaker as saying in the House Friday that no Canadian troops would be required to serve beyond the confines of Canada without Parliament's consent. The CCF member asked when Parliament had approved the appointment of Air Marshal Slemon and other personnel to Colorado Springs.

In a similar vein, C. W. Carter (L, Burin, Burgeo) asked whether U.S. Air Force bombers may carry bombs when flying over Canada.

"By agreement with the United States, only with permission of Canada," Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes replied.

Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot said Wednesday that freedom of religion, which would have to be incorporated in any bill of rights Parliament might enact, "belongs unmistakably to the legislatures of the provinces, and not to Parliament."

Speaking in the Senate's Throne Speech debate, the Quebec Liberal completed a speech he began last Thursday when he opened an attack on a Commons statement by Justice Minister Davie Fulton that his department is studying the possible implications of a bill of rights might entail.

Senator Pouliot said the original division of responsibilities between the federal government and the provinces under the British North America Act made freedom of religion a provincial matter.

Three Quebec members of Parliament have not given an account of their 1957 election campaign expenses to the House and may be subject to heavy penalties, it was learned Wednesday.

The three are Jean Boucher, Liberal member for Chateauguay, Huntington, La Prairie; Hector Dupuis, Liberal member for Montreal, Ste. Marie, and John Pratt, Progressive Conservative member for Montreal, Jacques, Cartier, La Salle.

By law, successful candidates must file an account of their campaign expenses within two months of the date they were declared elected. Commons officials said Mr. Boucher, Mr. Dupuis and Mr. Pratt were declared elected June 10, 1957.

Any person in the appropriate constituency can take court action and if the MP were found guilty he could be fined $500 for every day he has sat in the Commons. The money would be paid to the complainant. The MP could also be disfranchised for five years and barred from the House of Commons for the same length of time.

ATHENS (AP) — Central Greece was shaken Wednesday by earthquake shocks which were felt most sharply in the Volos and Larissa areas. No loss of life was reported but slight damage was done in Volos to a few buildings.

Ottawa in First Move To Assist Unemployed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons after a day-long debate on unemployment, Wednesday night gave swift passage to one part of a double-barrelled government program to provide an additional $24,500,000 in aid for unemployed.

The debate was on a resolution preliminary to a bill to extend by two months the period in which special wintertime unemployment insurance benefits may be paid.

Starting date of the period will be pushed back to Dec. 1 from Jan. 1, with another month added beyond the present expiry date of April 15.

Discussion on the resolution went right to the 10 p.m. adjournment hour. At that point it was adopted and, by special consent among the parties, the bill was introduced and put through all three readings. This took only three minutes, with no debate, and the bill was sent to the Senate.

BUYING POWER

Labor Minister Michael Starr, opening preliminary debate on that proposal in the Commons Wednesday, said it will provide an extra $13,000,000 in purchasing power this winter "to those who need it most."

Earlier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker informed the House that his government plans to start Jan. 1 an extension of federal sharing in provincial costs of unemployment relief. That plan was announced at the federal-provincial fiscal conference which ended Tuesday. Finance Minister Donald Fleming estimated its annual cost at $11,500,000.

LEGISLATION SOON

Mr. Diefenbaker said legislation will be introduced this session to carry out that change, wiping out a so-called "threshold" provision by which federal sharing of provincial unemployment relief costs starts only when unemployment in a province exceeds .45 per cent of its population.

He said it will allow the provinces to make "more suitable arrangements" with their municipalities, which carry much of the relief load.

The Commons debate on the time extension for seasonal unemployment insurance benefits indicated all opposition parties will support it.

But most opposition speakers expressed concern over the rising totals of unemployed.

The latest report of what the government considers "official" figures on unemployment—a survey by the bureau of statistics—said 208,000 persons were without jobs and seeking work at Oct. 19, more than double the level of a year earlier.

Fishermen's Wharf Rate Increase Sought

City council will be asked by public works committee today to increase mooring rates for boats at Fishermen's Wharf.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said if the rates were increased to the maximum permitted by the federal government, they would still be lower than at commercial wharfs. The committee also wants council to ask federal government improvements to permit double-berthing of 40-foot vessels.

The Grab Bag

THE ONLY IMPORTANT RESULT of this week's federal-provincial conference in Ottawa is what Euclid calls a reductio ad absurdum.

The demands of the provinces on the federal treasury are quite absurd and cannot be considered by any federal government in its senses. When Ottawa is asked to hand over something like $1.5 billions a year in grants to the provincial treasuries this means in plain terms that the national budget and federal taxes must be raised by almost a billion a year or some 20 per cent.

This absurdity is not without some usefulness. It should alert the taxpayers all over the nation to the danger of a ruinous raid on the federal treasury and, of course, on them.

For who would provide the money asked by the provinces? No one but the people living in the provinces. They cannot hand a cent of any extra federal costs to anyone else. Every dollar collected by Ottawa and transferred to the provinces must be provided by them.

Thus are the chickens of Mr. Diefenbaker's election campaign coming home to roost.

To gain the support of Premier Frost, Mr. Diefenbaker tacitly promised Ontario a huge new subsidy, something like $100 millions. Or at any rate he sat frequently on the platform with Mr. Frost while the Ontario premier made these demands and declared over and over again that Mr. Diefenbaker would deliver them. Mr. Diefenbaker never questioned that assurance.

If Ontario were to receive such concessions the other provinces were certain to insist on the same treatment. The snowball of promises gathered size as it rolled down the election hill until Mr. Diefenbaker is now expected to deliver the impossible.

He has not ventured yet, however, to reject the impossible. He has postponed any decision on federal-provincial finance and probably will keep on postponing it until after the next election. Like many other things, the revision of tax fields apparently will be delayed indefinitely. This vital problem is dominated not by fiscal but by political calculation.

Having denounced the former government for its niggardly treatment of the provinces, and having promised to give them more of the taxpayer's money, Mr. Diefenbaker must do something, but anything he can possibly do will be a disappointment to the provincial governments. Political calculation will impel Mr. Diefenbaker to put off that disappointment until the next national polls have closed.

In the meantime the taxpayers see how the provincial governments regard the national treasury. They regard it as a grab-bag and lucky-tub. They will get the money, if they have their way, and the Federal Government will get the blame for collecting it.

The recent conference will be valuable, though it accomplished nothing definite, if it arouses the taxpayers to resist a new assault on their purses and if the Federal Government's resistance is thus strengthened.

Mr. Frost's demands were large enough to demoralize Mr. Fleming's budget but, as usual, our Mr. Bennett has overbid all competitors.

At Victoria Mr. Bennett boasts of huge revenue surpluses, a gigantic reduction in the provincial debt and the largest per capita expenditures of any province in history. At Ottawa he asks for an increase of almost 50 per cent in federal subsidies.

At Victoria the Provincial Government claims to be opulent and generous. At Ottawa it appears almost as a mendicant.

Mr. Bennett is not satisfied with a demand for increased subsidies that no Federal Government could support. He also wants Ottawa to give him some four hundred million dollars for road construction in the next five years.

Assuming roughly that British Columbia holds a thirteenth of the nation's population, the same scale of road grants to the other provinces would confront the Federal Government with a bill of about five billions, or a billion a year.

Mr. Bennett knows very well that this is ridiculous but doubtless he has his reasons for asking far more than he expects to get.

For one thing, his spectacular demands on Ottawa—as if he were levying tribute on a foreign government instead of the local taxpayers—will turn public attention from some unpleasant events at home. For another, it will make good Social Credit propaganda in the next federal election. And whatever happens economically in British Columbia, whatever happens to Mr. Bennett's swollen, top-heavy budget can be blamed on the Federal Government.

Not Just Throwing Puffballs

COMPARED TO THE LANguage of some parliamentary and legislative battles, Prime Minister Macmillan and Labor Opposition Leader Gaitskell seemed to be duelling with puffballs at 50 paces in their difference at Westminster the other day.

Said the Prime Minister, referring to Mr. Gaitskell, "only the right honorable gentleman would make so foolish an assumption."

Replied Mr. Gaitskell: "The Prime Minister is, as usual, rude and arrogant."

This is uncomplimentary talk, it is true. But much more is read into the exchange by observers in Britain. They see in the parliamentary tiff perhaps the starting gun for the next general election.

By public opinion polls and other indices, the popularity of Labor seems on the ascendant. The Conservatives, under Mr. Macmillan, are far below peak strength in the voters' affections.

Under these apparently adverse circumstances observers are inclined to see in Mr. Macmillan a new boldness—an attitude which seems to indicate a readiness to fight the next contest of ballots on lines far removed from recent Conservative caution.

Mr. Gaitskell, according to some analysts close to the scene, is moved to a new concern by the changing Conservative front.

The Labor chief reportedly sees the possibility at any time of a big clash between the trades unions and the government over attempted wage freezes. In that event, Mr. Macmillan could go to the country with an appealing challenge—who is to rule Britain, Parliament or the labor unions?

On such an issue the Conservative Government could very likely win an election.

Such considerations, it appears, lend unusual importance to the asperity displayed by the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition in their recent clash. Relatively mild as the exchange may seem, it is taken as a surface indication of election battles not far off.

Eloquent Silence

A FEW MONTHS AGO THE Communist authorities of Bulgaria told that country's writers what they should write.

The intent was to subordinate creative writing exclusively to the party and the state. The directive came after several Bulgarians of letters had used their medium to criticize and, on occasion, lampoon the regime.

Today, according to press reports, the writers of Bulgaria are no longer setting down on paper any criticism or lampoon of the state. They are not setting down anything. They have stopped writing.

A frustrated and angry state is now striving to make them write again.

In the field of letters, the Bulgarian silence remains eloquent.

'Cut-Off' on the Party Line

THE SOVIET LITERARY GAZette has been educating its readers on the decadence of governmental practices in Washington.

To illustrate its point it cited the case of Senator Carter Glass (D) of Virginia. Senator Glass, the Communist publication said, has not shown up in the Senate for the last two years. His administrative assistant has been writing his speeches, presenting his bills and casting his votes, according to that publication.

The Soviet Literary Gazette failed to tell its readers that Senator Glass passed on in 1946.

So far we have heard no Virginians asking what Lenin has been telling the boys in the Kremlin recently.

We're Trying to Shoot a Camel Into Space

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

'We' and 'They'

THOUGH this column is jealously guarded, hermetically sealed and strictly sterilized against contamination by any important facts—the facts of Canadian politics, for instance—one may reflect here, without serious danger, on certain events in Ottawa this week. I leave the massive and gruesome details of the conference between our 11 governments to the accurate news and editorial columns, which are welcome to them. But while giving a wide berth to anything so vital as facts, I cannot help wondering about a Canadian myth that no set of figures can explain.

Hutchison

The myth holds, in brief, that the nation is composed of two different and irreconcilable elements—the "we" and the "they."

The "we" of course, are the ordinary law-abiding, God-fearing, hard-working, tax-paying and impoverished citizens living our customary lives of quiet desperation in the ten provinces.

The "they" are the national government, a vague collection of statistics, certain shadowy figures, a pile of bluebooks and an unlimited supply of money heaped up in the Bank of Canada and available to everybody, if we only had the sense to seize it.

THUS when a gentleman like Mr. Bennett sets out from Victoria, or a gentleman like Mr. Frost sets out from Toronto, he goes as the representative of "us" to wring justice from "them" in Ottawa. He goes, brave and great-hearted man, to recover the money which "they" have wrongfully purloined in the ten lands of "we." Like Robin Hood, like a knight in shining armor, he will invade the citadel of "them," capture some of "their" ill-gotten spoils and bring it home to "us."

This knightly legend is quite charming, like all fairy tales, but unfortunately neglects one cruel and unforgiveable fact of geography. It is that all the "we" live in the ten provinces; all, that is, except a handful of persons in the Yukon and Northwest Territories and a few Eskimos who never heard of a Federal-Provincial Conference or even, perhaps, of Mr. Bennett, pour souls.

IT thus follows in fact that the "they" in Ottawa, the remorseless, rapacious foreigners who somehow have seized the government of Canada, are able to collect money only in the provinces. There is nowhere else to go, the Eskimos being rather poor contributors who, unlike civilized taxpayers, are more given to blubber than to blubbering.

It follows also in fact that if "they" are to raise a single dollar they must take it from "us." It is indeed, "our" money, as the armored knights from the provincial governments are always pointing out.

AND therefore it follows that if "our" champions deplete the treasury of "them" then "they" will make up the deficiency from "us." The ruthless tax collectors from that foreign capital called Ottawa will be at our door next morning to demand one dollar for every dollar carried home in triumph by gentlemen like Mr. Bennett and Mr. Frost.

Now of course "we" can prevent this double raid on our purses quite easily if we want to. We can refuse to pay our money to "our" government or to "them" in Ottawa. We can tell both to spend less.

But if any single taxpayer in the whole nation is telling either of them to spend less I have not yet heard his voice. It is lost in the tumult and shrieks of the raid on Ottawa, the counter-raid on the provinces and the clank of knightly armor.

LIVES there a man with soul so dead that he will not rise up and cheer when a noble knight returns from Ottawa bearing a sack of "their" money which, oddly enough, has come from "us"? If there is any citizen so low and degraded he has been trampled under the hooves of the returning chargers and well deserves his fate.

Everybody else stands on the streets and cheers "our" government on to still higher spending and then, marching to the grim walls of Ottawa, "their" capital, demands that the foreign Canadian government spend more, too.

In this wonderful Canadian fairy story there is, there must be, a fairy godmother somewhere. If we could only find her she could be compelled to provide all the money required by "them" and by "us."

MR. Bennett knows where she is, but a skeptical public refuses to believe him. She is imprisoned, chained to an idle and rusty printing press, in the dank cellars of the Bank of Canada. If only she could be released from her jailer, Mr. Coyne, if only the press could be oiled up and set to work there would be more than enough money for everybody.

Mr. Diefenbaker, too, and even a factual man like Mr. Fleming, were inclined last summer to believe that the fairy godmother was around somewhere, perhaps not so opulent as Mr. Bennett supposed, but a rich heiress nevertheless, long concealed by a former government.

Unhappily, on capturing the stronghold of "them," Messrs. Diefenbaker and Fleming have searched the whole citadel from basement to attic and found nothing but a few musty ledgers and some tattered I.O.U.'s. It is a sad ending to a fairy story, and Christmas only a few weeks away, too.

As Our Readers See It

Lesson From Russia

The most arresting news appearing about Russian schools is that the ratio of students to teachers is 17 students to one teacher, and that teachers are provided with ample scientific equipment and all similar aids to good teaching. What a marvellously favorable situation! It makes relatively unimportant the further news that school buildings are in such short supply that the schools operate double shifts from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Given the small classes and the good equipment, it is not surprising that when a student has graduated from high school he has had: five years of physics; four years of chemistry; one year of astronomy; ten years of mathematics through trigonometry; five years of biology; five years of foreign language; and also of course suitable instruction in his own language, history, literature and other such national literacies.

It would be interesting to hear from Canadian teachers their opinions about the possibilities here, were we to imitate this curriculum in such conditions. For instance how much better teaching could they do with classes of not more than 17 students throughout? Would such a change of conditions probably alter students' attitudes and responses, and to what extent? Would more persons be attracted into the profession and would more teachers be retained in it for longer periods? Could teachers give students an "understanding" beyond memorized verbal formulae?

The Russian curriculum outlined above is a considerable extension of ours; but it is barely enough to give future citizens an elementary insight into, and an elementary understanding of the world in which they will live.

Any adult who had the advantage in his high school days of even two years of physics and chemistry in classes of 20 with good laboratory equipment (as some did) knows the gain to his understanding of his universe and alteration to his stance toward the "humanities"; knows how his intercourse has been curtailed with others who were not given even that much.

Unfortunately, many who were taught the two years but in large classes and without scientific equipment have not realized it nearly so fully. We have now arrived into a world where the extensions of curriculum are a minimum and a sheer necessity—and this not to give us more "technicians" but to give us elementary intelligence as active citizens. It is going to be impossible to be "well adjusted" without this minimum.

Dark Ages Relic

Silenus, Nov. 16, did a good job in drawing attention to the fact that, here in Canada, we have been saddled for a century with a divorce law, which belongs in the dark ages. Perhaps Silenus' sarcasm in discussing this fact will succeed in arousing enough indignation to put pressure on the government to tackle the job of hauling Canada out of its position of the most backward nation of this world in this respect.

Of course, the narrow-minded, "holier than you," bigoted minority which is responsible for keeping this law in force, thinks it alright to condemn couples who can't stand each other any longer to life-long misery; specially those, who can't afford the several hundred dollars necessary to hire a lawyer to find the way out. What does that minority care for others' happiness?

Punks on the Prowl

Date: November 22nd.

Time: 10.45 p.m.

Place: North side of Yates Street, 700 Block.

A group of punks loitering in this, now notorious, hang-out of the species.

Two respectable young girls proceeding west at this point.

When passing the hoodlums two of the latter break away from the gang and pursue the young girls who try to evade them.

The punks grab the girls and try to detain them.

Finally, the young girls break away and escape and the punks return to their gang laughing in a silly manner.

Not a policeman in sight anywhere; although one does come along on the opposite side of the street at 10.58; 13 minutes too late.

This is not the first time that this has happened to young girls at this very same spot and has been reported in your paper.

The trouble is that there are not nearly enough police on duty to keep these rats on the move and behaving themselves.

It is not the fault of the police, they are good, efficient men, but the great trouble is that a single policeman can not be in several places at one time and these punks take advantage of this to molest any young girls who are unfortunate and unlucky enough to have to pass these gangs.

Parents! With a civic election coming up, it is up to each and every one of you, as tax-payers, to demand that the candidates for election declare what measures they intend to take, not just for a few days until the question dies down, but tough, permanent action every hour and every day of the year, to avoid having your daughters molested by these brainless nit-wits.

Tying a Christmas Bow

Here is an idea that will, I believe, appeal to women and will not meet with disapproval from advertisers.

Get your men folk, right now, to sort out their neck ties and release those they no longer care to wear. Iron them and if possible, Christmas wrap them then send them to the Salvation Army, or some deserving place for distribution. The stores will not lose by this idea, as there is no competition.

You all know what a new tie does for the ego of your man. It will do even more for an OAP or someone on Skid Road, and need only cost you a little time and effort.

Wheat and Weather

That market-page news story headlined "Canada's Wheat Crop Hits Three-Year Low" caught my imagination here at the opposite side of this 'land of plenty.' Of course, the fact is so-to-speak 'cushioned' on the much-publicized wheat surplus? Nevertheless, it shows the ease with which the unpredictable weatherman can deal with what various columnists have described as 'our surplus wheat headache'; 'the global wheat mountain' and even 'the curse of plenty?'

It is heartening to hear the experts estimate that increased exports this crop year alongside the above drop in production "should shave the over-all surplus at July 31 next by perhaps 100,000,000 bushels less than last August's carry-over."

Personally I feel that this latter is a modest aim, when placed against the current background of thin harvests and prospective food shortages and drought, respectively, in Russia, China, India and Australia!

Labor War

On page 16 of the Nov. 25 issue of your paper appears an item captioned: "U.K. faces all out labor war" this being at the commencement of winter.

One could almost quote the same item for France, too, and one does not need much imagination to realize we, here in Canada, face the same or a similar prospect.

So strange to note that whilst labor leaders influence their members to create these paralyzing industrial conditions, look to government assistance for help to overcome the distress caused by unemployment.

As an old moss-back farmer here in Canada nearly 56 years, with all the experiences such a vocation implies, I ask why should governments be expected to reimburse those who deliberately throw up a good remunerative position and walk out?

Can one actually wonder at the confidence that Communist leader Khrushchev shows when he states the eventual supremacy of his ideal? Are we able to prove that he is wrong?

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Crisis of Confidence

THERE are, I believe, two paramount reasons why we in the United States find ourselves in a crisis of confidence. The first is that we have lived since the Second World War in the belief that we command the air—as Britain in the 19th century commanded the sea. Now suddenly we and all our allies have realized that we have already lost, or are soon about to lose, the command of the air and that it will not be restored, if it can be restored, for many long years to come.

Lippmann

The second great reason for the crisis is that as our military technology has fallen behind, our diplomacy has become frozen and sterile, and without a vision and a purpose of better things to come. The political disunity of the NATO alliance reflects the fact that the leaders of the alliance, particularly the U.S. government, have no cause and no project which enlists the hopes and the enthusiasm of the nation.

Local Quarrels

Unlike Wilson and Churchill and Roosevelt, Eisenhower has no great cause to which the nations can be rallied. So the nations fall back into their miserable quarrels about the remaining fragments of the old empires.

The central question for the Western Allies is how they can retain their influence and protect their vital interests during the long years when the Western world is struggling with the task of closing the gap. They cannot do this, we may be sure, by a policy of standing still because that is the only policy that all of them can agree upon.

The alliance today is in a profound deadlock because on all the critical issues one or more of the larger members has a veto.

We are all prohibited by Dr. Adenauer from any serious exploration of the conditions under which the two Germanys can be reunited, and the European continent brought into a security system.

No Recognition

We are prohibited by the French government from working for peace in Algeria and for an understanding with the Western Arabs. We are paralyzed in the Middle East by our own dogma that we must not recognize the fact that the Soviet Union is a great power in the Middle East.

There is a widely held view that while we are no longer in a position of strength, no longer in command of the air, the only thing to do is to stand pat, and to prove that if we are not quite so strong as we would like to be, we can at least be stubborn. This is a great fallacy, born of fear and lack of faith and a dull and wooden spirit.

There is no plausible ground for the fear that we are in danger of being destroyed and that we must huddle in our bomb cellars. It is ignoble and mean to lack faith in the power of good ideas—like the United Nations, like the Marshall Plan, like the Point-Four Program, like NATO itself—the power of good ideas to rally men and revive them.

It is dull and wooden to make a foreign policy which has no higher and larger prospect than to stand still where we and our Allies happen to be.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

Cesspit

"HAVE you read 'Cesspit'?" asked the purple-hatted woman on the bus.

"No," said her companion. "Never heard of it."

"My dear," said Purple Hat, very shocked. "You must have heard of it. Everyone's trying to get it these days. Since the talk of banning it, you know."

"Oh, one of those," said Grey Coat. "I bet the hero had a lonely, unhappy childhood. His mother rejected him, or coddled him, or something. So, ever since, he's been drinking hard and trying to get even with women by seducing them. Inverted Momism, in fact."

Ruth

"How did you know?" asked Purple Hat.

"Easy," said Grey Coat. "Sex is what sells a novel to the masses in pop-eyed North America. But, to pacify the Puritans and the censors, you must have a good reason for dragging it in. And, since this is a psychiatric age, the solution is to warp the hero young. Then, supposedly, you have a psychological excuse for every brutal or disgusting thing he does. However, tell me about the hero in 'Cesspit'."

"Well, said Purple Hat. "In the first chapter he is very frightened."

"They mostly are frightened little rats," said Grey Coat.

★ ★ ★

Purple Hat ignored the interruption. "This fear, this tortured self-doubt, is what makes him drive his car at such a reckless speed. In Chapter 1 he's driving along the Coast Road and keeping close to the edge of the cliff for the extra thrill."

"An acrid smell of sweat, and a weakness in his loins?" asked Grey Coat.

"No. That's Chapter 2 when he seduces his English teacher."

"What about Chapter 3?"

"Let's see," said Purple Hat, pretending to ponder. "Chapter 3 is where he attacks the girl from across the railroad tracks."

"Childhood repressions?"

"Yes, his mother wouldn't let him play on the tracks and watch the trains. This festered in him, really festered, until he couldn't stand the nagging pain of it any more."

"Chapter 4?" asked Grey Coat.

Purple Hat looked worried. "I've forgotten for the moment. There were so many of them that I didn't bother to keep track."

"Well, how did he end up? Behind bars or in an asylum?"

"No. He ended up as an advertising executive married to a blonde who looked hard as nails but was really just a crazy, mixed-up kid inside."

"Sounds homey," said Grey Coat.

"Well, he bounced into it after an affair with a woman who liked to arouse the beast in men and then feed it peanuts."

Grey Coat laughed aloud. "Original?"

"No," said Purple Hat sadly. "I pinched it from a movie review in Time Magazine. But, after this description, aren't your hot little hands longing to get hold of 'Cesspit'?"

★ ★ ★

Grey Coat shook her head. "No thanks. I can get the drift and stench of it from here. I bet the blurbs describe it as a frank and fearless story of a man who tried to find himself."

"This twisted tale of love and hate."

"This honest and modern approach to the age-old problem of sex.

"This hard-hitting expose of twentieth-century love."

"This brilliant example of popular twentieth-century literature."

Purple Hat and Grey Coat began to laugh.

"Give 'Cesspit' to your friends for Christmas!"

"Ask for it at your book store NOW!"

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Heart Surgery

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

NOW that surgeons are helping so many children and adults by repairing defects in their hearts, the question arises in the minds of many, "Could my child get help from an operation, or have I the type of heart disease that can be helped surgically?" In what follows I am going to quote from my friend, Dr. Howard B. Burchell, of the Mayo Clinic, who, out of his great fund of knowledge on this subject, recently gave a fine lecture on it. He told of the several ways experts have of telling exactly what is wrong with a congenitally deformed heart in a child.

Alvarez

He began with the topic, "Patent Ductus Arteriosus." In this condition there is an opening between the aorta and the pulmonary artery (the two great arteries that come out of the heart, one carrying blood to all of the body, and the other carrying blood to the lungs). This opening, which has to be present in intra-uterine life, should close at birth, but in some infants it remains open (patent). As a result, some of the red blood that comes out of the heart and which should go through all the body, goes into the lungs. With the help of special tests, the heart specialist can tell which children with this opening need to have it closed. There are some forms of the disease in which surgery is not indicated.

The second disease was "Coarctation of the Aorta." In this disease a congenital narrowing in the aorta results in a high blood pressure in the upper half of the body with a low systolic (top of the wave) pressure in the arteries of the thigh. Again, surgery gives excellent results. Another disease is called "Atrial Septal Defect." In this disease there is a defect in the septum between the two upper cavities of the heart. When too much blood goes through this hole, the child's heart action is handicapped and often an operation is needed.

A fourth disease is called "Pulmonary Stenosis." This means a narrowing of the pulmonary artery which runs from the heart to the lungs. This difficulty may be associated with a hole in the septum which separates the two ventricles or large cavities of the heart. The trouble can often be repaired surgically. Still another disease is just a hole in the septum separating the two ventricles. In some of these cases surgery will cure. Mitral Stenosis is a narrowing of the mitral valve which is one of the most important valves in the heart. It can be greatly helped often by making a cut in the valve so that it will let more blood through.

Aortic Stenosis is a narrowing of the aortic valve which is the big valve at the upper end of the heart, between the left ventricle and the aorta. In some of these cases, nothing can be done surgically. Usually, parents of a child with congenital heart disease and perhaps a very loud murmur, or a bluish skin due to poorly aerated blood, should take the advice of their local children's specialist as to whether it would pay them to travel somewhere to get help from a cardiac surgeon.

CAN SIGHT BE DISTRESSING?

I have often wondered how it would feel for a child, born with cataracts in his eyes, to have them removed, and then suddenly and for the first time, to see the world in all its brilliance. In "The Sight-Seeing Review" is an abstract of an article by Dr. Guy Dingemans, of France, who had occasion to observe a group of children who had just had their congenital cataracts removed, and were for a time much distressed over what they saw. The doctor was particularly impressed with the reactions of a nine-year-old boy whose bandages had just been removed. He appeared as if drunk, throwing himself on the ground, grasping at the floor like a mountain-climber who is trying to keep from slipping off a rock and going over a precipice. He pressed his hands to his head as if he was suffering from an intolerable irritation, and he threw out his arms in front of his face as if to protect himself. Whenever he was shown a strongly-lighted or colored design he was thrown into a panic. For a while he wanted his bandages put back on so as to get some rest from the impressions crowding in on his brain.

At first, their sight of the world disappointed the children because their brain was not prepared to sense the beauties of form and color. Doubtless a part of their brain had to develop before they could understand it all. Only gradually did the children learn to recognize the different colors and forms and perspectives. In their efforts to understand what they were seeing, they kept fingering the objects they were looking at. They had trouble understanding the third dimension in seeing. They said that when they first saw light they felt as if foreign bodies were invading their heads.

H-Bomb Flights Alarm Britons

LONDON (AP) — Some newspapers and socialist groups expressed alarm today at the Conservative government's assumption that U.S. bombers flying training missions from Britain are armed with nuclear weapons.

But Conservative and independent papers took calmly the statement in the House of Commons Wednesday by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. Answering a question, he said he "should think" that the bombers carry nuclear weapons.

The Community Daily Worker headlines: "H-bombs are overhead."

One local branch of the Labor party adopted a resolution demanding that the U.S. Air Force "desist from a practice which makes the life of the British people a hostage to the possibilitiy of premature and possibility of premature and branch was in Coventry, Britain's worst blitzed city of the war.

U.S. officials have pledged that no nuclear attack would be launched from Britain without the British government's consent.

The Daily Telegraph, Conservative, comments that if U.S. bombers are to have immediate deterrent value they must carry bombs on routine flights. "If aircraft had to turn back for bombs when a decision was reached to use them, the possibility of retaliation would be delayed for hours," it said.

Lloyd said there was no danger of nuclear weapons exploding in a bomber crash. The Daily Express pointed out what has previously been reported in the United States, that bombs are carried in separate parts on routine flights.

U.S. Air Force officials in Washington said recently that planes flying from U.S. bases carry bombs and observers assumed this applies also to Strategic Air Command bombers operating from overseas bases. Some armed planes are kept aloft so that a surprise attack on airfields would not knock out all retaliatory power.

Gov't Pledges Aid To Prairie Dam Project

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is prepared to share in the cost of the huge South Saskatchewan power-irrigation project once financial arrangements are made with the Saskatchewan government, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday.

"The only question is the making of terms," he said after a conference with Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan.

The two government heads met for two hours Wednesday.

SPRING START?

Later, Mr. Douglas said he is hopeful of seeing a start on the $150,000,000 project by next spring.

The prime minister was noncommittal on this timing, but he made clear his government has gone beyond the former Liberal administration's view that there would be federal participation only when and if the project was shown to be capable of giving back to the economy more than was put into it.

"We believe it is an economic project," he said, "but terms and arrangements have to be arrived at."

"Our undertaking to go ahead has been given," he said, "dependent on suitable terms on the division of costs."

He said these terms were discussed Wednesday with the Saskatchewan premier.

No final settlement was reached, but Saskatchewan officials were remaining in the capital for a day or so to continue discussions with federal experts.

End to Nuclear Tests Appeal Made by Nehru

NEW DELHI (CP) — Prime Minister Nehru appealed today to "the great leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union" to end nuclear tests and agree on disarmament.

Nehru read a prepared statement to a press conference but declined to say whether India will send the appeal directly to President Eisenhower and Soviet Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev.

A government information officer said copies of the statement will be handed to all foreign embassies here for transmission to their governments.

Nehru said the world faces a crisis in civilization. "I believe it is in the power of America and Russia to solve this crisis and save humanity from ultimate disaster which faces it."

Nehru said there now are enough weapons of mass destruction to put an end to life on earth.

TWO PATHS TO FOLLOW

He directed his appeal "to the great leaders, more especially of America and Russia in whose hands fate and destiny have placed such tremendous power today to mould this world and either to raise it to undreamt-of heights or to hurl it to the pit of disaster.

"I appeal to them to stop all nuclear test explosions and thus to show to the world that they are determined to end this menace and proceed also to bring about effective disarmament. The moment this is done, a great weight will be lifted from the mind of man."

Nehru did not comment on his reasons for issuing the statement at this time but observers here linked it to Soviet announcements Russia would not take part in further disarmament talks in the UN disarmament commission.

There have been reports India was trying to work behind the scenes to bring the Russians back into the talks.

Producer Asks Fixed Milk Price By Government

Imposition of a minimum consumer price on milk to stop chain stores from selling milk at lower prices was urged today by Charles E. S. Walls, secretary-manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

CHARLES E. S. WALLS
. . . industry may suffer

Mr. Walls warned that the milk industry might suffer serious injury unless the provincial government took action to impose a fixed milk price.

"Controlled prices for milk have been found necessary in practically all milk markets in the world," Mr. Walls said. "It has been recognized that to place milk under 'open market' conditions jeopardizes the supply of milk."

SUFFER LOSSES

He said city milk distributors are beginning to suffer losses as the result of the action of chain stores to break milk prices by selling it at cost.

This might result in the losses being passed on to the producer or dairyman, he said.

"A chain store can afford to sell milk at cost," he explained, "but a distributor can't compete because of plant operation and labor costs."

He said the present price situation might prove disastrous to Vancouver Island's dairy industry.

PRODUCER PRICE

This is what might happen, he said:

Under milk board regulations, a distributor must pay a producer a fixed price for his milk. He can be fined or lose his licence if he buys milk at a lower price.

But Mr. Walls said a situation might develop whereby all distributors would agree to ignore the board's fixed price and to buy milk at a lower price.

"If such a situation developed, I can't see the milk board suspending their licences," said Mr. Walls. "If it did it would mean no milk distribution in the city."

SERIOUS

Mr. Walls said dairymen have warned the government that a serious situation might develop if milk prices were not fixed for the consumer.

"Dairy farmers generally are of the opinion that we had stability in the dairy business between the fall of 1951 and the establishing of decontrol of consumer prices in 1953," he said. During that time producers, distriutors and consumers were all satisfied.

Brannan Term For Teenager In 'Smash' Raid

One boy of a teenaged quintet including two girls was given an indefinite sentence in Colwood juvenile court Wednesday for his part in causing $125 damage at Victoria Fish and Game Association clubhouse on Goldstream flats Oct. 31.

The five earlier were assessed $25 each to pay for damages, and final sentencing awaited a probation report on the teenagers.

Two 15-year-old girls and the two other boys each were placed on six months probation and charged $5.50 court costs each.

Colwood RCMP caught them in the act of smashing club property, flushed them out of the building via windows and doors and finally apprehended all of them.

They had gone to the clubhouse in a car after skipping school the afternoon of Halloween, police said.

The boy given an indefinite sentence, not exceeding two years, was on probation for a breaking and entering offence committed earlier. He will serve time at Brannan Lake School.

One boy was 16, the other two both 17.

B.C. Scout Honored

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey today presented 29 Boy Scout gallantry and service awards, two of them posthumously, at the annual Scout investiture at Government House.

Another top award went to wolf cub Timothy Atkins of Deep Cove, B.C., who won the Silver Cross.

UBC DEVELOPMENT FUND REACHES 1½ MILLION

VANCOUVER—Advance gifts to the University of British Columbia Development Fund Wednesday had reached $1,401,000, according to an announcement by Paul E. Cooper, general chairman.

The public appeal for a minimum of $5,000,000—the first general public appeal the university has ever made—will come in January and February.

"Advance contributions to the UBC Development Fund are most heartening to the committee," Mr. Cooper said.

"While we have set $5,000,000 as our minimum goal, I wish to point out that a substantial over-subscription is urgently needed. The provincial government has promised to match dollar for dollar all public contributions up to $7,500,000.

$13,000 Intact In Stolen Safe

KELOWNA—A safe containing an estimated $13,000 in cash and cheques, which was stolen from a city department store Sunday night, has been found intact by a duck hunter in nearby bushland.

Hunter Colin Fazan of Okanagan Mission stumbled on the 700-pound safe Wednesday near Mission Creek, three miles south of here. Police said the thieves had attempted to open it by knocking off the hinges.

The safe was taken from the second floor of the Simpson-Sears store and rolled downstairs on a mattress. It contained weekend receipts.

5-YEAR TERM

VANCOUVER — Courtney Galbraith, 30, was jailed for five years Wednesday for drug trafficking. He was the 27th suspect to be sentenced since an RCMP crackdown September 17, found guilty by Magistrate Alexander McDonald on a charge of selling a capsule of heroin to RCMP undercover Constable Harry Oosthoek.

MAIL PILES UP

DAWSON CREEK — Mountains of mail for the Canadian North have been piling up here in recent weeks since bridges along the Alaska highway between here and Fort St. John have been closed or under repair.

An average of 800 bags of mail a week have been arriving here and the rate is expected to reach 1,500 a week before Christmas. Postmaster Frank Riedl said he plans to ship northern mail to Grande Prairie, Alta., to be airlifted to Fort St. John until bridge repairs put the highway back in business.

JOBLESS TOLL UP

PENTICTON — Unemployment totals for the Penticton area continued to increase during November according to the monthly summary of employment conditions released by the Penticton office of the National Employment Service.

At Nov. 25 there were 615 men and 289 women registered for employment with the office compared to 255 men and 369 women at the same time last year.

RULING SET ASIDE

VANCOUVER—Court of appeal Wednesday set aside an order committing a nine-year-old boy to the provincial school at New Denver.

The court ruled that Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes erred in not quashing the order on appeal of Bill Perepolkin, Crescent Valley Doukhobor, whose son had been committed to New Denver by Magistrate William Evans at Nelson. The committal order was made on grounds the boy failed to attend public school.

HUNTING AT HOME

SUMMERLAND—Home is where the Hart is.

C. W. Reinertson of Summerland and son-in-law Carl Jeffreys left home at 6 a.m. Tuesday and drove miles into the Okanagan countryside to hunt deer. They didn't fire a shot.

Arriving home, they were told by Reinertson's two boys that three deer crossed the road near their house a short while before. Reinertson and Jeffreys raced to the scene and bagged one of the critters.

Sunshine, rain, wind, snow, hail or high water, Point Ellice Bridge opening ceremonies take place at 2 p.m. Saturday, according to public works chairman of Victoria council, Ald. M. H. Mooney.

A parade will leave City Hall for the bridge at 1.30 p.m. (assembly time is 1.15.) There will be two bands, two drill teams, cars carrying the mayor and aldermen, and two buses carrying district pioneers who were involved or suffered loss when the original Point Ellice Bridge collapsed.

The ceremonies will be held at the east end of the bridge. Brief speeches and selections by the Musicians' Union Band will precede unveiling of a plaque by Mayor Percy Scurrah, and cutting of the ribbon, by former aldermen and Victoria West Community Association president, Charles Banfield.

The pioneers and other invited guests will be entertained, following the ceremony at the Victoria West Community Hall.

Two Farmers Divide Turkey Show Prizes

Two turkey farmers who swept all 10 prize trophies at the 11th annual dressed turkey show of the Vancouver Island Turkey Improvement Association Wednesday shared their winnings with charity.

About 150 of the best birds among 50,000 being killed on Vancouver Island for the Christmas season were entered in the show at Buckerfields, 2105 Douglas.

Winners were Charles Stronach, Nanaimo, and E. A. H. Mitchell, Metchosin.

Mr. Stronach donated $37 to the March of Dimes, proceeds of an auction for his 34½-pound bronze-breasted brood turkey which won the Grand Champion award. It was the fourth time he won the award.

Jack Stuart, a butcher who bought the bird, said he would give it to the Protestant Orphanage.

Mr. Mitchell said he would give half of the $30 bid on his reserve grand champion turkey to another charity.

Duncan Officials Appear Certain Of Acclamation

DUNCAN—Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan has filed his nomination papers as a candidate for re-election to his second two-year term as chief magistrate of the city.

He served eight years as alderman prior to election as mayor and last January became the first mayor of the city to wear robes of office. In addition to his interest in community affairs, he is concerned with living harmoniously with his civic neighbors on Vancouver Island.

Aldermen John J. Kerrone and Stephen H. Saunders also have filed nomination papers, and will stand for re-election to two-year terms.

Fourth candidate to file is John Homer, who will seek election to his third term as Duncan representative on the board of Cowichan School District 65. He has been board chairman for the last two years.

Unless there are further nominations, all four will be elected by acclamation.

Many Advantages In Single Engine

Twin engine installations, either inboard or outboard, can usually be replaced by a single motor having two-thirds or three-quarters of the horsepower of the total twin installation.

The greater efficiency of a single propeller mounted on the centre line has been proven many times. The single engine costs less and installation and operating expense are reduced as well. There is also the advantage of greater simplicity, which is an important factor in any boat equipment.

Inboard boats employ two engines and associated propellers to achieve greater manoeuverability than an inboard with two. Therefore reliability is the only excuse for the use of two outboards now that high horsepower motors are readily available.

TWO SCHOOLS

As far as reliability is concerned there are two schools of thought. These are best explained by a couple of old sayings. The first of these "Don't put all of your eggs in one basket" is the view taken by the two engine skippers. The second "Put all of your eggs in one basket and then watch the basket" may be considered the slogan of the single engine group. As to the reliability of internal combustion engines, the record is in their favor.

The first motorboat crossing of the Atlantic was made by an American, William C. Newman, in 1902. His boat, the 38-foot Abiel Abbott Low, was powered by one 10-horsepower kerosene engine, and the distance made good was 3,000 miles. The crossing required 36 days, and 800 gallons of kerosene were carried.

SINGLE HANDED

More recent proof of the reliability of internal combustion engines is to be found in the Atlantic crossing made by the Frenchman, Marin Marie, in 1936. His power cruiser, the 45-foot Arielle, employed a 75-horsepower diesel engine and made a good distance of 3,145 miles in 19 days. This voyage was made single-handed, with no assistance other than that afforded by automatic steering.

Last btu not least is the east-to-west crossing made by Uno Ekblom in 1939. This was made in the 31-foot "Eckero" powered by a 10-horsepower single-cylinder diesel that was 10 years old at the start of the voyage.

IN MONTY'S JOB? — Earl Mountbatten of Burma, above, is a prime choice to succeed Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as deputy supreme commander of allied forces in Europe. Viscount Montgomery will retire within a year. —(NEA)

Nanaimo Asks Gov't to Take Over Newcastle Island for B.C. Park

A proposal that the government take over Newcastle Island at the entrance to Nanaimo harbor as a provincial park was made Wednesday to Recreation Minister Westwood.

Suggestion was made in a brief presented by a delegation from the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Westwood said he will study the matter.

He added, however, that it is not usual government policy to take over parks so close to municipalities.

The island comprises 700 acres, has a lake in the centre, is well treed and has a number of fine beaches.

It was purchased by the city of Nanaimo four years ago from the CPR for $150,000. The city has found that it does not have enough money to develop the island as a park.

One of the problems is access. At present the island can be reached only by boat, but a bridge across the harbor is said to be feasible.

The delegation also brought up the subject of a new dock for the government-subsidized Gabriola ferry.

The ferry now is using the main CPR dock, and the Chamber of Commerce would like to see a separate dock.

Representations have been made to the CPR for a section of their property, but no decision has been made by the company.

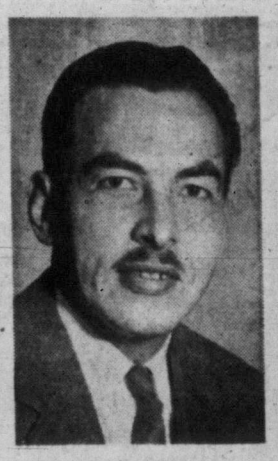
BRUCE TINGLEY



EARL WARD

"Shop today on Government Way" is the new slogan adopted by the recently formed Government Street Merchants' Association. With more than forty members representing retail, insurance, real estate, transportation, restaurant, and banking, the association is launching its first project, a combined advertising campaign this week.

Purpose of the advertising campaign is to acquaint local people with the variety of merchandise and services available in the area, and to impress upon the public generally that the Government Street district is not just a tourist shopping area. Some of the other interests of this group will be downtown parking, general improvement of this fine street, combined efforts toward the summer tourist trade, Centennial year project and last but not least, a spirit of co-operation between businesses who will work side by side toward a definite goal now and in the future.

Earl Ward is chairman of the association and Bruce Tingley an active committee member.

Camps for Hikers Sought on Island

A suggestion that the B.C. government construct overnight camping sites for hikers on Vancouver Island is being considered by the Association of Chambers of Commerce.

ARNOLD WEBB

If approved, the association will send a resolution to Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

Father of the idea is Arnold Webb, secretary of the ACCVI, and managing secretary of Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

His proposal is that one, two and three-day hikes to Island beauty spots could be planned if the government provided overnight shelters and possibly guides to conduct them over prepared routes.

SLEEPING BAGS

"The hikers could be expected to carry sleeping bags for use as bedding in these shelters," Mr. Webb said.

He recalled that in New Zealand, where he lived before coming to Victoria, the government travel bureau put up such shleters and these were used by thousands of hikers every year.

"Victorians would be most likely to take their cars to some point outside the city and start hiking from there. Campbell River would be a good starting point for Up-Island hikes.

TRANSPORT

"In this connection possibly Vancouver Island Coach Lines or the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway would be interested in transporting hiking parties to their starting points.

"I understand British railways organize special excursions for hikers in Britain and they also supply guides on prepared routes."

Mr. Webb said the Associated Chambers will consider his suggestion at their next meeting.

Monorail Cuts Airport Trip Board Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Airport Board was told Wednesday that a suspended monorail railway system between the city's downtown area and International Airport, nine miles away on Sea Island, could mean a 10-minute trip for airport-bound passengers.

Sidney Angell, Vancouver representative of General Monorail Corporation of San Francisco, told the board a similar system near Cologne, Germany, has carried 1,000,000,000 passengers in the last 50 years without an accident.

Aluminum or stainless steel monorail cars, each carrying up to 100 passengers, would travel suspended from steel beams with a 16-foot clearance from the ground.

He estimated cost of a monorail to Sea Island at "not more than $5,000,000." Monorail fares would be cheaper than existing transportation, which takes at least twice as long.

Trade Policy Change Urged By Socreds

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan Social Crediters have urged the federal government to change its trade policy to get rid of Canada's food surpluses.

In the final session of the Saskatchewan Social Credit League annual convention, 15 resolutions were approved.

The world trade resolution said that since much of Canada's production lies dormant in warehouses, it could be used to bring Canada good.

The resolution added that other countries need and would accept Canada's surpluses but cannot do so because of fiscal policy.

"We urge the federal government to introduce immediately a trade policy including the acceptance of foreign currency, extension of credit in foreign countries, and barter deals," the resolution said.

SPACE TRIP 'TOO SOON'

PARIS (AP) — "Your request is a little premature." That's the answer the Soviet Embassy here is giving French would-be space travellers.

Cultural attache Vladimir Eroffev said the embassy has received several applications from volunteers to ride the next Sputnik the way the dog Laika rode the last one.

LORNE SHANDLEY

Police Union Re-Elects L. Shandley

Police constable Lorne Shandley has been re-elected president of the Victoria Policemen's Union for a fifth term.

List of officers provided the police commission Wednesday included the following officers:

Walter Calwell, vice-president; Robert Mair, treasurer; James Baxter, recording secretary; Donald Buie and matron Alice Pye, trustees.

The bargaining committee includes the executive and Angus Stewart, Ray Maitland, Norman Bath, Lorne Johnson.

Special duty administrator is Napoleon Bouchard.

Chiang Island Shelled By Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The offshore islands of Quemoy and Little Quemoy were at the receiving end of 98 Communist shells late Wednesday and early today, the defence ministry reported.

It said no damage or casualties were suffered, but did not mention whether the defenders hit back.

Secret Report on Russ Military Production 'Sad and Shocking'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Donald Quarles, deputy U.S. defence secretary, testified Wednesday night that he believes the United States and Russia are running "neck-and-neck" in the development of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Quarles said that "as a whole today," the United States missile program is ahead of Russia's.

Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, gave the committee an ominous secret report on Russian military production.

Members of the committee said he painted "a sad and shocking" picture that, when disclosed in a report by the committee, should "shock" Americans "out of their complacency."

A series of earth satellites will be fired into space next spring if the forthcoming launching of the U.S. Navy's Vanguard test satellite is successful, Dr. John Hagen, in charge of the Vanguard project, said yesterday.

The test six-inch sphere is due to be fired "sometime in December"—and possibly next week.

CRACKDOWN ON DRIVERS SLOWS ACCIDENT RATE

Driving licences of 5,689 B.C. motorists have been suspended for varying periods during the first 10 months of this year.

This figure compares with 2,545 suspensions in the same period last year, the provincial motor vehicles branch reported Wednesday.

Officials credit the tougher approach toward bad drivers for a 22.5 per cent drop in traffic fatalities so far this year.

600 MEN GIVEN JOBS

Power Projects Ease Winter Job Problem

Urgently needed power projects on Vancouver Island are expected to keep 600 construction men employed during the normally job-slack winter season.

A survey indicates that unless interfered with by snow or severe weather conditions, these projects will continue throughout the winter and into spring.

The majority of workmen are concentrated in the central and west coast regions, where the Upper Campbell and Ash River hydro projects are over 50 per cent and 25 per cent completed, respectively.

At the Ash River project, dam construction and allied work is being carried out by B.C. Power Commission's own construction crews. Officials say that if weather conditions are moderate, construction of the saddle dams, pipeline excavation, and grading and establishing the powerhouse-to-Alberni transmission line can proceed during the winter. About 40 men will be employed on the transmission line work. An additional 250 workmen on the Ash River contractor's payroll are at work on the powerhouse, tunnels, access roads and clearing.

Over 30 Power Commission station crewmen will be employed during the winter making electrical installations and connections in the Upper Campbell powerhouse and switchyard. If schedules can be maintained, the first generator will go into operation next May. On this project, too, contractors have about 200 men on the job which will continue during the cold weather season.

At the Puntledge hydro development, 45 men are employed on rebuilding the Comox Lake dam and sluiceway, and this work is expected to continue well into next year.

In addition to these major projects, $250,000 will be spent at widely separated points in the Commission's Vancouver Island system to convert distribution systems, and generally improve service. Included in this expenditure is $184,382 for the conversion of the Duncan distribution system from the present 2,300 volts to 7,200/12,500 volts; also $30,000 for rehabilitation of buildings and improvements to grounds on 10 acres in the Nanaimo military camp — for use in connection with the Commission's No. 1 warehouse. Portions of this work will be carried out during the winter.

In the interior, by the end of November, the high voltage transmission interconnection with the West Kootenay Power and Light Company will be completed, also a 138,000-volt line between Vernon and Kamloops, and a 60,000-volt link between Dawson Creek and Fort St. John.

Power Commission activity in the interior during the winter will be centred on a diesel expansion program at Burns Lake, Fort St. James, Hazelton, Houston, McBride and Bella Coola.

'MANAGERIAL WHIM'

Island MP Hits Layoffs At Kitimat

OTTAWA (BUP) — A CCF member of Parliament suggested that employers who hire and fire large numbers of workers should be penalized by making extra contributions to unemployment insurance.

Thomas Barnett of Comox-Alberni said large corporations which create unemployment "with the flick of a wrist" should be taken to account for their actions. He suggested employers' contributions to unemployment insurance should be geared, as in the Workman's Compensation Act, to cover the unemployment rate of their industry.

"WHIM"

His statement was in reference to the recent layoff of 1,700 workers on a construction project at Kitimat. He described this as "a managerial whim."

The CCF member put forth his proposal during the debate on a bill introduced by Labor Minister Michael Starr to broaden the period of seasonal benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Who's Running What? Missile Prober Asks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem., Tex.) said Wednesday the senate preparedness subcommittee is having "extreme difficulty" determining who is responsible for what in the lagging United

Johnson, majority leader of the Senate and chairman of the committee, said:

"It is obvious that the committee will have to inquire very carefully into who is running what."

Churchill Cited As Survivor of Stroke in 1953

BOSTON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's recovery from a stroke in 1953 was cited Tuesday night by a prominent Boston neurologist to support hopes President Eisenhower can resume his full duties as president.

Dr. Raymond D. Adams, chief of neurology at Massachusetts General Hospital, told the Boston Globe "there is no need to despair." He recalled that Churchill was stricken with a similar attack which impaired his speech.

"Churchill has been able to make very fine orations and to write very effectively since."

Pulp Industry Control By Government CCF Aim

More planning and government control over B.C.'s pulp and paper industry has been urged by CCF Leader Robert Strachan.

Speaking to the Esquimalt CCF Constituency Association Tuesday night, Mr. Strachan said our resources are being wasted because of the lack of planning.

Ten pulp mills had been constructed along the coast, he said, far more than were needed to use the available pulping material.

As a result, some of these mills had been forced to close down. But in the interior, where there are no pulp mills, tons of usable pulpwood are being burned as waste by logging operations.

Only through government action can people get the sort of life they want, the Opposition leader said.

At its business meeting, the association decided to hold future meetings on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

U.K. Plane Progress Eye-Opener To Trade Mission From Canada

LONDON (BUP) — Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, who is leading the Canadian trade mission to this country, described the visit of 43 delegates of the mission to the Bristol Aeroplane Company works at Filton as an "auspicious beginning to the real practical end of our mission."

The party, which also included 15 representatives of the Dollar Export Council, Board of Trade and Canada House, had traveled to Bristol from Harwell.

Sir Reginald Verdon Smith, chairman of the Bristol Aeroplane Company, said the company was to supply a fleet of Britannias to Canadian Pacific Airlines, an order worth $25,000,000.

GOODWILL

"We feel the Canadian market is one which can be attacked by British suppliers with determination," he said. "And we know too of the very great goodwill which one can count on from so many of you in industry and from your government."

Before the Canadians left they saw BOAC's third long-range Britannia take off from the company's airfield.

Afterwards Churchill said: "You have initiative, skill and broadness of vision, which has resulted in this establishment and the creation of that great airplane which we just saw take off."

EYE-OPENER

The development going on at the works had been an eye-opener to the mission, he said.

"Your company is doing exactly what we hope other companies will do—form a firm link with Canada and take part in the development of that country," he added.

"When we get back in December we shall tell our friends that England has recovered fully and is moving ahead and is ready to work with us on future endeavors for the good of the world."

A small party of the Canadian trade mission visited the site of the atomic power station now being built for the Ceneral Electricity Authority, at Berkeley, Gloucestershire, during the afternoon.

Later the whole party left for Cardiff by special train.

Murder of Woman Blamed on Terrorists

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) —Olga Socratous Stratokopou, a 40-year-old Greek Cypriot spinster whose strangled body was washed ashore last week at Dhavlos, northeast Cyprus, was murdered by EOKA terrorists, the government said Monday.

Her name was on a list of 200 "traitors" handed to police by a former EOKA member last month.

POLICEMAN'S SELF-ARREST

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP)—A Port Angeles police sergeant arrested himself late Tuesday after being involved in a two-car collision, saying that "under the circumstances I would have taken in my own mother."

Sgt. Johnnie Sweatt went to the police station, had himself booked for failure to yield the right-of-way and posted $15 bail.

Royal Bank Project To Start in January

Expansion and modernization of the main Royal Bank of Canada Building at 1108 Government will start early in the new year, manager C. L. Snyder said Wednesday.

Mr. Snyder said he had just received a letter from the bank's head office in Montreal confirming that "alterations and improvements" will be carried out "at an early date."

"I presume that includes an extension to the present building," Mr. Snyder said. "The work should get underway sometime in January."

Plans call for extending the building back to Langley Street. At present there is a parking lot behind the bank.

Interior of the building will be completely redesigned.

WE'LL SEE WHAT WE CAN DO ABOUT THAT!

Newest Cougar expresses surprise at Victoria club's dismal home record and wonders if there's anything he can do to improve it. Forward Stan Baliuk, who joined team Wednesday, will be in lineup when Vancouver Canucks invade Memorial Arena Saturday night. Baliuk, property of Springfield Indians, picked up 36 points in his rookie professional season while with Chicoutimi last year. He was top scorer in tough Ontario Junior League two seasons ago. # Grey Cup Bustup Starts As Bombers Hit Toronto

CRU Works to Clear Up Hazy Rules on Overtime

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—This city, which depends on gay Westerns to supply the carnival touch to the Grey Cup final, has started the big bustup. This is kickoff day for the fun and hilarity.

Downtown hotel lobbies still haven't been denuded of furniture — a precautionary measure as well as an effort to provide more space—but throngs began gathering in the lobbies. They talked nothing but football.

The talk generally has been about the two teams and the usual scarcity of tickets, but behind the scenes people have made elaborate plans for a million-dollar week-end.

The invasion from the West started early this morning by train and before the day is out trains and planes will unload beauty queens, football players and fans from Montreal to Vancouver and intermediate points. Other fans are due Friday and early Saturday.

The fun is expected to continue almost around the clock until Saturday afternoon, when Winnipeg Blue Bombers, champions of the West, meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats, champions of the East, in what has become the top spectacle on the Canadian sports calendar.

Bombers arrived by special plane this afternoon. They will stay at a suburban motel, far from the revelry around Toronto's big downtown hotels. Plans have been made for them to work out on a field near their quarterse and they will get their first glimpse of the downtown area Saturday en route to Varsity Stadium for the contest.

Will Play to Midnight, If Necessary

The Tiger-Cats will stay in Hamilton until early Friday night.

While the principals are figuring ways to win the Canadian professional football title, the men administering the game will meet to iron out the various details connected with it. They have their problems.

No cup final since the trophy was first put up for competition in 1909 has gone into overtime and this, along with crowd control, the method of game timing and other details, will be discussed, by Canadian Rugby Union officials Friday.

Overtime has become a subject of prime importance in view of unprecedented overtime play in the deciding game of the best-of-three Western final won by Bombers 17-2 over Edmonton Eskimos. After 60 minutes the teams were tied 2-2 following up 19-7 and 5-4 scores in the first two games.

The CRU rule book says "a new game of 20 minutes" will be played in event of overtime, but it does not give the procedure to be followed if a tie still exists after the 20 minutes. However, a CRU official said Wednesday that a cup champion will be declared "even if the game has to go until midnight" under the lights of Varsity Stadium.

100 Policemen Will Be in Stadium.

The overtime is divided into two 10-minute periods and the rule book says the team which had the option of kicking off to open the game will have the option again in the first overtime period. The teams change ends after 10 minutes and the other club has the option of kicking off.

The book is hazy about duration of the rest period before the start of overtime. The CRU official said it probably would be "a minute or two."

No mention is made in the book of time out for rest between the two 10-minute overtime periods.

The different methods of timing in the Big Four and Western conference also will be discussed, the official said.

In the West timers do not stop the clock on punts, pass plays and long runs. In the Big Four, the clock is stopped on plays where the ball is moved any big distance, allowing the teams to get into position for the next play.

The result is that the games in the West, on the average, take up to 30 minutes less time to play.

The CRU will have 100 off-duty policemen inside the stadium, no more than usual for a Grey Cup game. The CRU spokesman warned fans to remain in the stands.

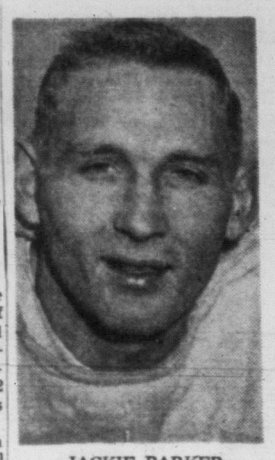
Converts will be kicked from the field into the end zone, as is the West's regular procedure.

ASK IN ANY LANGUAGE YOU'LL GET SAME REPLY

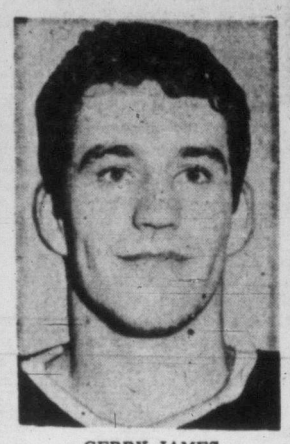
TORONTO (CP)—Harry McBrien, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union and the man in charge of ticket distribution, can't get you into Varsity Stadium to see Saturday's Grey Cup final.

He makes this plain with a sign on his hotel-room wall which reads:

Ich habe keine Graycupkarten.
No tengo de boletos Grey Cup.
Pas de billets Grey Cup.
Non offrire bollettine Grey Cup.
In any language: No Grey Cup tickets.



JACKIE PARKER



GERRY JAMES

VAUGHAN REPEATS

Parker, James Best Gridders

TORONTO (CP)—Jackie Parker, triple-threat quarterback and halfback who led Edmonton Eskimos to three straight Grey Cup victories Wednesday night was named the outstanding football player in Canada.

The former Mississippi State College star was selected by sports writers and broadcasters in the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union cities.

Parker beat out Hal Patterson, Montreal Alouettes' brilliant pass-catching end and defensive halfback who won the award over Parker in 1956.

Gerry James, outstanding power runner with Winnipeg Blue Bombers who led the Western conference in scoring with 131 points, including a record 19 touchdowns, was chosen the outstanding Canadian in pro football. Runner-up to the 23-year-old James was Bobby Kuntz, two-way back with Toronto Argonauts.

Kaye Vaughan, rugged two-way tackle with Ottawa Rough Riders, won the award as the outstanding lineman for the second successive year. Vaughan, 25, formerly with University of Tulsa, won out over Edmonton's Art Walker.

The 25-year-old Parker received a $1,000 Canada Savings Bond, a trophy, a diamond tie bar and a plaque. James and Vaughan received $500 bonds.

Royals' Delayed Punch Pounds Cougars Deeper

New Westminster Royals carved their league-leading niche in the Western Hockey League's Coast Division a little deeper Wednesday night in Queens Park Arena as they pounded Victoria Cougars a bit further into the division cellar with a 5-1 victory over the Cats.

Playing without the services of high-scoring forward and captain Max McNab, Royals left it up to their "second line" of Gary Edmundson, Hugh Barlow and Pat Hannigan.

Barlow carried most of the New Westminster mail when he scored a "hat-trick," including the winning goal and two insurance markers in the third period.

Cougars held on for a scoreless tie until midway through the second period, when Gary Edmundson made a Pat Hannigan pass pay off at 9.14.

Larry Leach came right back with the equalizer just four and a half minutes later, converting Pat Egan's blueline drive into a score for the only time the Cougars could break Bev Bentley's armour.

Barlow won the game for Royals at 17.34 of the second and Van Impe made it 3-1 on a play started by Arnie Schmautz and Ron Matthews.

Barlow tallied for the [illegible] two markers of the third [illegible] on plays with Edmundson, [illegible] make the victory complete.

The loss moved New Westminster three points ahead of second place Vancouver Canucks, who are in the midst of their longest losing streak to date.

Cougars will meet Vancouver twice at the weekend, at the Forum, Friday, and Memorial Arena, Saturday, before travelling to Seattle to wind up their four-games-in-five-days schedule Sunday.

Coach Pat Egan will have newly-acquired Steve Baliuk in uniform for Friday's game and local fans can have their first glimpse of him Saturday when he partners Ed Dorohoy and Doug Macauley against the Canucks.

The move will leave Nels Bulloch free to return to his defence position, probably beside Colin Kilburn.

Game time Saturday is 8 p.m.

WARRIORS RIDING HIGH

Like Old Times For 'Peg Fans

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg Warriors are whooping along these days in a style that recalls their prowess during the 1955-56 season, Warrior's first in the Western Hockey League.

That was when they finished on top of the Prairie Division, won the WHL playoff and then beat Montreal five games to one in tthe Edinburgh Cup series.

Possibly Winnipeg's WHL debut was a bit too auspicious. Last season Warriors followed a fairly common pattern for sophomores who have had a brilliant rookie season. They wound up in the Prairie division cellar.

But this year they've bounced back again.

Wednesday night Warriors defeated Calgary Stampeders 4-2 before 2,889 fans in Calgary. It was their fourth win in five days and gave them a seven-point lead over the second-place Edmonton Flyers.

MOSIENKO STILL SHINES

Bill Mosienko, a "veteran" for more years than many of his teammates have been playing professional hockey, led the goal-scoring, just as he used to do with the champion Warriors. riors.

He scored goals in the second and third periods, adding to a previous counter by Art Stratton to give Winnipeg a 3-0 lead before Chuck Blair and Merv Kuryluk counted for Calgary.

Danny Summers got Warriors' fourth counter, shooting into an open goal after Stampeders pulled goalie Al Rollins in the last 47 seconds.

Sundew Makes Last Mistake

HAYDOCK PARK, Lancashire (CP) — Sundew, 11-year-old steeplechaser who won the Grand National by doing everything wrong, has made his last mistake.

The big horse who blundered his way to victory at Aintree last March had to be destroyed Wednesday after misjudging a water jump at Haydock Park and breaking a shoulder.

Sundew twice failed to finish the testing Aintree course before his victory last spring. Even then he took few of his jumps cleanly as he bulled his way to the front and outran the opposition.

"He only made mistakes when he found things were not going to his liking," said Fred Winter, Sundew's regular jockey, who did not ride the horse in his last race. "He was a great character."

Gutoski Rink Still Unbeaten

Tony Gutoski, Victoria's great hope for British Consols and Macdonald Brier curling championships, came a near-cropper in the fourth day of the six-day Totem Bonspiel at Vancouver when he took a narrow 6-5 victory from Calgary's Simpson rink.

The victory, and subsequent action, left only Gutoski and Ken Anderson of Calgary as undefeated in the 'spiel.

Five rinks went into Wednesday's late draws with their records intact, but Victoria's Gar Taylor bested Vancouver's Kels McMurdo, 10-7, after losing 9-8, to Al Polsky of Vancouver. Roy Forsyth was ousted by Thurston Anders in an all-Vancouver battle, 7-6, and Frank Avery of Vancouver fell to Elmer Meier 12-3.

Anderson had to wait till the last draw of the night before he could add to his win string by downing Vancouver's Shirra, 6-5, for his seventh consecutive win.

Other Victoria entries, Gordie Moore and Jack Moir scored in Wednesday draws.

Moore edged by Cowie of the Capilano Winter Club by a 7-5 score while Moir, after dropping his first five games, picked up a pair of wins.

The Gutoski rink, who have had nothing but lop-sided scores with the exception of their game with Simpson, have counted 75 rocks in seven games with only 26 counted against them.

Rangers Defeated

GLASGOW, Scotland (Reuters)—Milano, the Italian first division club, beat Glasgow Rangers, the Scottish champions, 4-1 Wednesday night in the first round of the European Soccer Cup competition.

The return game will be in Milan Dec. 11.

A crowd of 85,000 saw the Rangers take a 1-0 first-half lead, but Milano scored four times in the last 15 minutes.

Nancy Takes Aim At Paddle Crown

Nancy Craig will be shooting for another Victoria Table Tennis Association women's singles title when the club holds its annual tournament at Club Sirocco Monday and Tuesday.

Veteran Laurie Greenwood is expected back to defend the men's singles crown he won last year.

Entries may be filed with Mrs. Druce, at 7-3422, until Saturday night.

Oak Bay is the present holder of the Pendray Trophy as junior girls' relay champions, while Lansdowne has the Canadian Legion junior boys' relay crown.

Sponsored by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, the gala is scheduled to start at 4 p.m.

WITH STONE AND BROOM

By ERNIE FEDORUK

New Association Woos Island Curlers

In case you missed the news from Vancouver the other day, there's a move afoot to divide the province in two.

A new curling association, with support from Vancouver and several lower mainland clubs, is being formed. The new group, to be known as the [illegible] Curling Association, will break from the B.C. Curling Association.

The move has gone beyond the planning stage. A committee made up of Dr. Ross MacLean and Arden Brown, both of Vancouver; Art Emery of Haney; Bob Stevenson of Chilliwack, and Keith Dawson of New Westminster, is already in the process of drawing up a constitution and enlisting the support of every interested club.

So far, the new group hasn't approached Vancouver Island clubs. In fact, Victoria Curling Club president Ernie Gordon did not learn of the mainlanders' move until Wednesday.

Until Gordon hears or learns more about the proceedings, he is not prepared to say what stand Island curlers will take.

It is planned to pattern the new organization after the Northern Alberta association and application for charter will be made to the Dominion Curling Association next spring. It has been learned that members of the three Vancouver clubs—Vancouver, Pacific and Capilano—and New Westminster are solidly behind the move.

The new group also hopes to woo Victoria, Port Alberni, Duncan, Nanaimo, Bridge [illegible] botsford, White Rock, Cloverdale, Haney, Mission, Penticton, Kelowna and Kamloops into the fold.

The move appears to be, if anything, a case of growing pains. Curling has progressed to such an extent on the coast in the past 10 or 15 years that the governing provincial body apparently has not been able to keep up with the growth.

The men behind the split make it obvious that they are dissatisfied with the present set-up.

Prior to the upsurge of interest in the roarin' game on the coast, the "heart" of B.C. [illegible] Kootenay country. In bygone days, you could count the number of curling enthusiasts on the coast on one hand. The Kootenay curlers, then, actually had all the say. Today, however, there are more curlers on the coast than in the interior.

One of the main objections of Vancouver curlers is the method of staging of the Consols (provincial) playdowns in conjunction with the B.C. bonspiel. Interior curlers, however, feel they need the Consols playoffs to feature the provincial 'spiel.

The bickering has been going on for a few years now, but this latest move by the Vancouver curlers means they're ready for a showdown. They most certainly do not appear to be bluffing.

It's going to be interesting watching the situation develop.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA) — There are definite signs around Madison Square Garden that James D. Norris has made up his mind to get out of boxing.

While Jim Norris' name is to remain on the masthead, you get it pretty straight from more than one source close to the two manipulators that Arthur M. Wirtz, his Chicago partner, shortly will take over the active management of the far-flung International Boxing Club, Madison Square Garden and the Chicago Stadium.

ARTHUR WIRTZ

Wirtz' name has appeared on an office door on the sixth floor of the Garden, where the high command does its scheming. It is anticipated that an efficiency move will bring the IBC and Garden organizations much closer together.

Norris' heart condition, which Sugar Ray Robinson did a fine job of reactivating, is the primary reason, of course.

Art Wirtz picking up the ball isn't likely to change the prize fighting picture. The chances are that the same old crowd will continue to run it into the ground. Wirtz, the Chicago realtor and promoter of ice shows and whatnot, thinks like Norris and the television money is on the line.

You'll see the same old faces on the magic lantern.

Oftimes pleasant and always a puzzle, the gangling, handsome and immensely rich Big Jim Norris has been the number one boxing promoter for 10 years. Save for a big outdoor fight here and there, Norris relied on TV rather than good matches.

If somebody were to judge the job he did, the best evidence would be a sheet of paper Marty Sampson, the Broadway fight manager, has in his pocket.

★ ★ ★

It shows the official figures for a fight held at Bristol, Conn., between Charley Norkus and Mule Johnson. Norkus won, but as the gloves were taken from his hands the Long Island larruper must have wondered what he was doing in the beak-busting business.

★ ★ ★

The total attendance was 163 people, who paid a gross of $328.50. The tax was $44.80, leaving a net of $283.70. Some place, some time, there may have been a lower gate in the manly art of mangling mugs. But nobody ever has produced an audit which can knock this Norkus-Johnson production off the pedestal as being, officially, the tiniest turnout in modern history, especially for heavyweights.

The limited number of clubs and the positively frightening lack of attendance throughout the country indict Norris as the poorest major promoter boxing ever had, for it was his open-armed embrace of TV which delivered the knockout blow to the game nearly everywhere.

★ ★ ★

It is perhaps the thinking of dreamers, but a lot of people deeply interested in sports always took it for granted that the professional promoter had an obligation to the business as a whole.

★ ★ ★

When Norris and Wirtz purchased Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting Club and renamed it the International Boxing Club, they took an obligation, too. But that didn't stop Octopus, Inc., from spreading out and conducting the business on a sure-thing basis. By merely having two fighters—any kind of fighters—in a ring any place on Wednesday and Friday nights, the monopoly was assured a fine annual profit.

The fact that the business would degenerate to such an extent that even bar flies won't look at the TV screen apparently made no difference to Norris.

★ ★ ★

When Ray Robinson fought Gene Fullmer at Madison Square Garden right after the first of the year, with New York blacked out, the house was sold out with 5,000 people turned away. If clearly demonstrated that boxing still could be brought back under intelligent management.

But Norris stayed with television and boxing now is minor league at best.

Now Norris is leaving, and changes are unlikely.

The chances are that Art Wirtz' matchmakers will keep things as they are and maybe the promoter in Bristol, Conn., will be able to break his own record some night soon.

SHOE ON OTHER FOOT; REFEREE 'WAS ROBBED'

LONDON (UP)—England beat France 4-0 in their international soccer game at Wembley Stadium Wednesday—but the only man to let out the traditional "we was robbed" was the game's Russian referee, Nikolai Laytshev.

Laytshev's wallet and other personal belongings disappeared from the dressing room. He found that his possessions were gone when he returned to the dressing room, where his locker had been broken into.

Wembley officials, embarrassed at the only sour note in the international sporting amity, immediately started a full-scale investigation.

A Soviet embassy official, apparently anxious to smooth things over, said, "I have no doubt that Mr. Laytshev's things will turn up soon."

Victoria High Earns Berth in Rugby Final

Victoria High School English rugby team dropped Esquimalt High 14-0 Wednesday to earn their way into Howard Russell Cup championship play, slated to start Friday.

In what has almost become a two-school fixture, age-old combatants Vic High and Oak Bay will clash in the first game at Carnarvon Park with the second encounter slated for Victoria High Monday. A third game, if necessary, will be played back at Carnarvon Park Wednesday.

Ken Roskelly paced the Vics in their playoff bid Wednesday when he rambled over for the first two tries, followed by Dave Dawson and Glen Ableson with single three-pointers. Last two winning points were gained by Bill Gower on a convert.

Oak Bay, league champions, will be rated to capture the title they haven't had since 1953 in Russell Cup play.

But, surprises are the order of the annual classic. Both teams are much improved since their last meeting, and Vic High will be going all out to defend their two-year claim to the crown.

New Style Pays Off For Willie

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Heavyweight Willie Pastrano said today he used "a brand new style" to win a unanimous 10-round decision over Willie Besmanoff, of Germany, but it may have made him look unimpressive.

Pastrano, never a spectacular fighter, put on less of a show than usual for a national television audience in whipping the 25-year-old German, Wednesday night. Pastrano was 22 yesterday and was given his birthday cake in the ring after the bout.

"I may have looked sluggish, but it was because I was working hard in close instead of standing back and shooting at the guy with long ones," Pastrano said. "It was a brand new style for me and it paid off."

Besmanoff, who looked his best in several late-round surges, said his biggest mistake was not throwing enough punches.

"I feel like I can box as well as this guy but I should have tried to throw more haymakers," the Munich fighter said.

Pastrano, now fighting out of Miami Beach, outweighed Besmanoff, 190½ pounds to 185½, and let the German boxer come to him for the first four rounds. Then when Besmanoff started to tire a bit in the fifth, Pastrano changed his tactics and turned aggressor.

Vic High Juniors Score First Win

Victoria High School junior basketball team came from behind to pick up its first win of the season, downing St. Louis College Bantams in an exhibition match 31-28 at Vic High Wednesday.

College took a 6-2 lead in the first quarter and stayed in front until the final frame when the Vics dropped in 18 points to Bantams six to gain their three-point margin.

Ken Balloch led the winners with a 12-point effort and George Bell topped the College with nine.

Scorers follow:

St. Louis—J. Martin 5, B. Gardner 8, G. Bell 9, T. Walters 2, M. Maloney 4. Total—28.

Vic High—T. Collett 2, Gaines 4, B. Hobbis 6, K. Balloch 12, K. Firfins 1, R. Espley 2, B. Wallace 2, K. Hart 2. Total—31.

Gorge Meets Tillicums In Jackson Cup Final

Knockout final in the Jackson Cup soccer competition will take the spotlight in Victoria and District Football League action Saturday as Tillicums and Gorge Hotel tangle in the sudden-death fixture at Royal Athletic Park.

Tillicums advanced into the final round with a 5-2 semi-final win over Canadian Hungarians and were joined last Saturday by Gorge, who downed Brodies Bakery 4-1.

Embroiled in a three-way race for the league championship, Tillicums will be idle Sunday when their top-rung companions, Esquimalt and Canadian Scottish, try and gain a clear-cut advantage as they play at Heywood Avenue Park.

Other Sunday league action will pit Brodies against Hungarians at Central Park. In an exhibition match Sunday Kickers will meet Punjab at Topaz Avenue. All games start at 2.

Marcel May Be Next To Feel Phil's Needle

By CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers apparently played better in second place than first.

A couple of weeks back, chasing Montreal Canadiens, Phil Watson's Blueshirts sped along at a pace that had the rest of the National Hockey League dazzled.

Then they edged in front of Montreal and have won only one game since. They've lost their last two, both by large margins.

The Ranger lead stands at one point and Montreal has four games in hand.

Latest of the defeats was Wednesday night, a 5-2 loss to the surging Boston Bruins. It followed a 5-1 defeat Sunday by Toronto Maple Leafs. Both were at home.

PAILLE IN DANGER?

Chances are Watson now will remind goalie Marcel Paille that Lorne (Gump) Worsley, New York's regular goalie until injured 12 games ago, is waiting to move back into his job.

Paille will get another chance tonight when the teams play again, this time in Boston.

In other games, last-place Toronto, trailing Detroit Red Wings by one point, plays at Detroit. Montreal plays Chicago Black Hawks, now in fourth place, two points back of Boston, in Chicago.

Boston's Horvath - Stasiuk - Bucyk line, the league's second-highest scoring unit, sparked the Bruin victory. Boston has lost only one of its last seven games.

Johnny Bucyk was the key man as Boston exploded for four goals in the third period to overcome a 2-1 New York lead.

Bucyk scored twice while Vic Stasiuk had a goal and two assists and Bronco Horvath had two assists. Leo Labine and Jerry Toppazzini were Boston's other snipers.

For two periods New York outplayed Boston with Guy Gendron scoring in each.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Whirlaway and Challedon are the only two horses ever voted Horse-of-the-Year twice.

Williston Blasts Wengren Critics

Lands Minister Claims Project Is 'Bound Up in Prejudice' Here

Lands Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday night the proposed Wenner-Gren development in B.C. is "bound up in prejudice."

Too many people are criticizing the project without first getting the facts about it, the minister said.

He was addressing a dinner meeting in the Oak Bay Hotel of the Victoria Sales Executive Club.

Recent claims by the company that modern engineering has found a way to transmit electricity long distances economically had been received with "sneers" in British Columbia, Mr. Williston told the businessmen.

At the same time competent persons in other countries are accepting this information as fact, he said.

The minister compared the proposed 650-mile transmission line from the Peace River, to a similar project in Russia between Stalingrad and Moscow.

The Russians, with whom the West is now struggling to keep pace with scientifically, had "picked the brains" of the British engineers behind the Wenner-Gren plan while we are not prepared to accept their findings.

The 4,000,000 horsepower which can be generated from hydro stations on the Peace River will form the "nucleus to create an industrial giant," Mr. Williston said.

"And the only people who don't know they've got something good are the people of British Columbia."

The minister said the only concession made to the Wenner-Gren interests is that they can "risk and spend their money".

'Hinged, Curbed, Handled'

They must conform to all British Columbia laws, he said.

"They're hinged and curbed and handled in every way possible to make sure they don't act just in their own interests."

Mr. Williston said Wenner-Gren is not absolutely committed to go ahead with either the mono-rail or the hydro develvelopment.

But he must prove to the government's satisfaction that these projects are not practical from an engineering or economic point of view, the minister said.

If the government is not satisfied and Wenner-Gren still backs down, it will claim the $500,000 performance bond and will al- have the benefit of the mo- than $5,000,000 in surveys - pleted by the company.

Also present at the meeting was Bernard Gore, head of the Wenner-Gren British Columbia Development Co.

"We have had a lot of criticism," Mr. Gore said.

"To all the critics and skeptics my reply is — Do you really think we are so immature we are going to spend all the millions for good publicity? And, we haven't got even that."

Mr. Gore said the company's intentions had been clear from the beginning. They were all included in the memorandum of intent signed with the gov- ent, he said.

In answer to a question, Mr. - said the company expected - make a good profit on its - ent in the same way any - er firm would.

3-Way Race Assured For School Board Seat

James McPherson, past president of the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council, announced Thursday he will contest the Saanich seat on Greater Victoria school board to make it a three-way fight.

Previously announced candidates for the seat, vacated by retiring trustee Walter Jeune, are Mrs. A. B. Thompson and George McWilliam, former president and executive member respectively of the VDPTC.

Mr. McPherson, who lives at 120 Sims, came to Victoria from Glasgow in 1948 and has lived in Saanich since 1954.

A civilian technical officer in the engineering branch at HMC Dockyard, he is a member of the session and superintendent of Sunday schools, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. McPherson also is secretary of the Victoria section, Institute of Marine Engineers, and treasurer of the Vancouver Island chapter, American Society for Metals.

POPE SENDS IKE MESSAGE

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope has sent President Eisenhower a message wishing him a prompt recovery.

A Vatican spokesman released the text of the Pope's message today: "With sincere regret have we learned of your excellency's indisposition. We assure you of our prayers for your recovery and your well-being and we fervently invoke upon you an abundance of divine blessings and heavenly favors."

Oak Bay Opens Police Station

Oak Bay's new $40,000 police station on Monterey Avenue, adjoining the municipal fire hall, was officially opened Wednesday, at 6 p.m., by Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns, in a ceremony attended by police and council members from Greater Victoria.

Facilities include a change room, chief's office, interrogation rooms, and three jail cells for emergency use. Oak Bay police normally use the city jail. In the basement are a pistol range and storage facilities.

RESEARCH HEAD WARNS

Boost in Scientists Top Need for Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—All possible encouragement to Canadian science is more important than fretting over what Russia is doing, Dr. E. W. R. Steacie said Wednesday night.

The president of the National Research Council said the shortage of engineers and scientists in Canada is not too acute but could become so if Canada's economy continues to expand.

He said the question of the education of engineers and scientists should not be treated as a race with Russia.

"The real questions are whether we are educating enough engineers and scientists for our needs and whether we are educating them well.

"If we are worried about the pace of Russian science, the answer is not to copy Russia but to make sure that we are giving the maximum encouragement to Canadian science."

Because of the birth rate and other factors, Dr. Steacie looked for a tremendous increase in university enrolment which would automatically increase the supply of scientists and engineers—provided the universities can expand accordingly to take care of them.

The critical factor "is simply whether we choose to give the universities the support they need or not."

Police Seek Parking Meter Ruling Delay

Victoria police commission will ask city council to suspend decision on proposed half-hour night parking near the two liquor stores. It was pointed out meters in vicinity of the stores operate all day on a one-hour-limit basis, and the public might be confused by differing regulations at night.

The commission will ask a meeting with council to decide a course of action aimed at clearing traffic bottlenecks which occur near the stores.

U.S. MARKS TRADITIONAL THANKSGIVING

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thanksgiving for blessings past and present mingled today with prayers for continued peace and plenty in the space-age years now dawning.

For Americans around the woorld there was the traditional intermingling of family get-togethers, feasting and expressions of gratitude to the almighty for favors received.

Minds and hearts of many millions were centred on the White House where President Eisenhower is recovering from his slight stroke. There was Thanksgiving for the way he rallied. And there were prayers for his well-being in the years to come.

The president and his family arranged a holiday get-together at the White House.

2 Voodoo Jets Zoom Across U.S.

ONTARIO, Calif. (UP)—Two U.S. air force F-101 Voodoo jet planes zoomed over Ontario International Airport Wednesday on the return leg of a transcontinental non-stop record round-trip run between Los Angeles and New York, the faster of the two completing the trip in six hours, 42 minutes, 6.7 seconds.

The second plane piloted by Capt. Robert M. Sweet, 30, of Barronett, Wis., was credited with the faster time although Capt. R. W. Schrecengost, Jr., 31, of Kittanning, Pa., also broke the old mark.

Capt. Sweet was awarded the Distinguished Flying Service medal for the feat; Schrecengost received the Flying Cross.

The round-trip time cut nearly three hours off the old round-trip mark of nine hours, 31 minutes, 35.4 seconds, set by a Skywarrior jet March 21, 1957.

Both planes, in addition to breaking the round-trip record, set a new east-west mark and were part of the flight of four planes to set a west-east record, breaking all three trans-continental marks.

Fishermen Tell Whale of a Tale But Who Likes Shark Shenanigans?

By DON INGHAM

Two young Victorians, "transplants" from Holland, suggest consorting with basking sharks in Saanich Inlet as a pleasant, quiet, and interesting pastime.

It is even more interesting when your boat is nine feet long with a three-horse outboard motor, and John Shark measures about 30 feet from nose to tail.

This was the caper staged the other day by Gerald Kemperink, of 2337 Heron Street, and his pal, Tom De Groot.

"We were trolling in my cartop boat near the stone house on Saanich Inlet," Mr. Kemperink said, "when I saw this black fin come out of the water.

"I had a camera—I always carry one since I saw what might have been 'Caddy', and I'd like the $300 Times prize for a picture—so I cruised to within 10 feet of the monster, could tell it was probably a shark.

"We circled around him for about 20 minutes. When the light was right we could see his body clearly under the water. I wasn't afraid, and was wondering how I could catch him, but finally Tom suggested we move on and do some fishing, so we left him sunning himself on the surface."

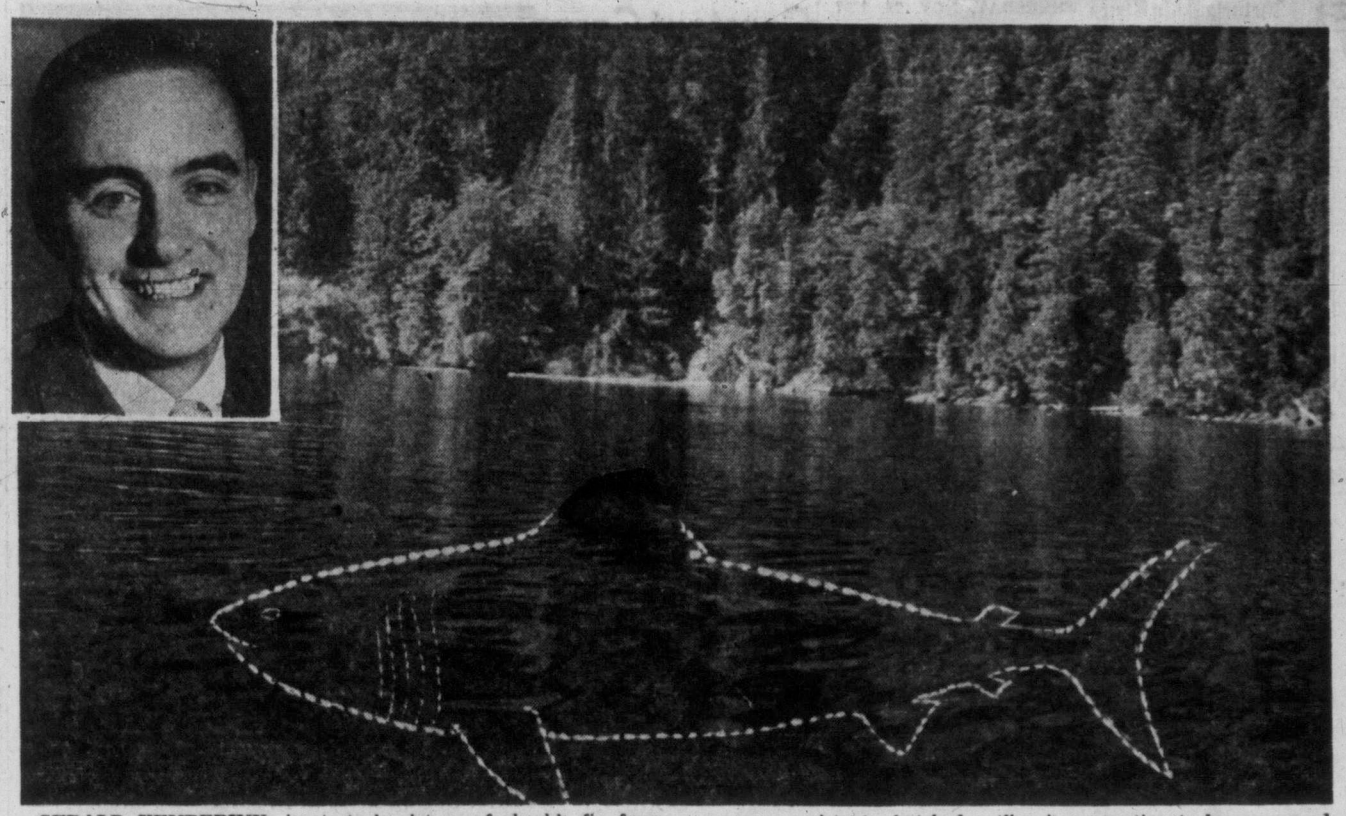
From the picture Mr. Kemperink took of the fin, Frank Beebe, Provincial Museum assistant, identified the fish as Cetorhinus Maximus second largest fish in the world, which grows to a length of 40 feet. The whale shark is the largest at 50 feet.

A lazy, good-natured "slob," he feeds on minute organisms, is harmless, and likes nothing better than loafing about on the surface of calm water. He has a large liver, and used to be hunted for the 80 to 200 gallons of oil it would produce, but that market has vanished.

"I took three pictures and missed one because I was excited," Mr. Kemperink said. "I found he could turn quickly, and that I had to be snappy with the camera to get a picture."

What a difference there is in people! Years ago, while cruising alone in an outboard runabout with a 20-horsepower motor, I saw a big basking shark hoist himself out of the water.

Did I stick around and exercise my curiosity? Nope. I headed for home at a brisk 22 knots, green with terror. The books say basking sharks are harmless, but I will never ask one of them to prove it.



GERALD KEMPERINK, inset, took picture of shark's fin from his tiny boat while close to shore below Malahat. Frank Beebe, museum assistant, sketched outline in proportion to huge exposed fin. Ripples are barely discernible behind fin.

. . . HERE AND THERE . . .

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

The heavenly gyrations of Sputniks I and II appear to have stimulated local interest in astronomy as a career.

Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, tells me he has had numerous inquiries from young Victorians who think they would like to spend their lives peering through telescopes.

But, as he says, enthusiasm over the latest sky rocket to hit the headlines is not enough. The astronomer-to-be must have "a sustaining interest" — one that will enable him to carry out the critical and often laborious thinking that is necessary to scientific discipline.

In other words, don't confuse newspapers with telescopes.

Six Injured In Traffic Accidents

Four women and two men were given hospital treatment after they were involved in two separate traffic accidents here Wednesday night and early today.

Two couples were injured when the car in which they were riding crashed into a power pole at Douglas and Market at 2.45 a.m., causing heavy damage to the car and breaking off the pole.

Pedestrians Elizabeth Jobson, 21, 1443 Denman, and Margaret Warren, 16, 464 Stannard, were walking across Government at Herald at 5.12 p.m. Wednesday when they were in collision with an auto driven by Errol Neal Jernslet, 881 Violet.

Miss Jobson is in good condition with a hip and back injury after being admitted to Jubilee Hospital unconscious.

Her companion suffered bruises and abrasions and was released.

In today's accident, Irene Brown, 18, 761 Esquimalt received bruises and shock and Geraldine Eddy, 17, YWCA or 179 Sooke River Road, suffered shock and minor knee injury.

Verne Leroy Shipley, HMCS Naden, was treated for a cut lip and transferred to HMCS Naden Hospital, and driver Allan Jeffrey, 128 Michigan, was taken to Naden Hospital with bruises and shock.

Civil Servants To Confer With Bonner

Parley Next Week On Bargaining Pact

A meeting between provincial civil servants and Attorney-General Bonner is expected to be held sometime next week in another attempt to iron out their differences over a collective bargaining agreement for 14,000 government employees.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association wrote to Chief Justice Gordon Sloan on Nov. 5 asking that a meeting be arranged after Mr. Bonner returned from a European trip.

The chief justice, appointed by the government in July as a one-man board of reference to inquire into the dispute, has since written to the attorney-general asking him to arrange a date with the association.

Mr. Bonner is expected back this weekend after attending the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

LONG WAY APART

The government and the civil servants are believed to be still a long way apart in their negotiations and it is quite likely no solution will be reached at the next meeting.

In that case, the next step will probably be for the association to ask for a public hearing.

Both sides would then prepare briefs to present to Chief Justice Sloan, who would then be called upon to make a recommendation to the government.

Premier Bennett has already stated the government will accept the findings of the chief justice.

At present the government is not prepared to go as far toward granting bargaining rights to civil servants as the association would like.

AMEND ACT

The government wants to make changes by simply amending existing regulations governing civil servants. The association believes that the Civil Service Act itself must be amended.

Meanwhile, association officials will meet with the cabinet Tuesday to present a brief embodying resolutions approved at the association's annual convention in Kelowna last month.

Overtime for government employees is expected to be one of the chief points at issue.

Alderman Hits Hard At Arena Management

"IT'S EASY TO SMILE on a day like this," said J. H. Spencer, of 611 Monterey, as the 73-year-old retired carpenter opened his old age pension cheque to find it raised to a new high of $55. He was among 816,651 pensioners in Canada receiving the $9 raise in November cheques, second one made this year.

Dukowski Related 'Only Half Story'

Alderman Hugh Ramsay said this morning he would express a lack of confidence in Memorial Arena manager Joseph Dukowski at a city council meeting later today.

He said he would base his attack on "gross misrepresentations" by the arena manager to council.

The alderman said: "The manager gave council only half the story" concerning the amount of corrosive chemicals which should have been permitted to exist in the arena floor freezing mixture.

ALD. RAMSAY
. . . no confidence in manager

TOO MUCH

Alderman Ramsay said he is convinced the current difficulties with leaks in the arena floor are due to too much corrosive liquids being permitted to remain in the pipes.

He feels the arena freezing system has been operated for long periods without due regard to the proper use of inhibitors which retard corrosion. He said he was presenting various documents and specifications to back his assertions.

The alderman also will take issue with various public statements allegedly made by Mr. Dukowski.

DENIED

He said the manager had given a statement to the press concerning his opposition to the proposed use of plastic pipe in the arena floor. Later, at a council meeting, Mr. Dukowski denied contacting the press on that matter.

Mr. Dukowski's recent radio broadcast which offended city engineer J. C. Garnett also will be cited. The broadcast was made after the arena commission adopted a freezing mixture recommended by the engineer.

APOLOGY

Later the manager retracted his radio statement and issued a public apology.

"How can you have confidence in such a manager?" asked Ald. Ramsay.

Ald. Ramsay said he will deal also with the question of the arena manager's salary, "which appears to be greater than that paid in most other arenas in Canada."

ARENA MGR. DUKOWSKI
. . . only half the story?

Amalgamation Vote Asked by Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrah was to ask city council this afternoon to order a referendum Dec. 12 on a royal commission to study Greater Victoria amalgamation.

The mayor made the statement this morning following receipt of a letter from the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, recommending the public vote.

Cost of a royal commission could reach $50,000, the mayor said. If Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt paid shares according to population, the city likely would be asked to pay half the cost.

"I'm definitely in favor of investigation by someone who is capable of bringing out all the aspects of the effect amalgamation would have," said the mayor.

"It would look to me like a chartered accountant's job in order to ascertain what effect amalgamation would have on the individual taxpayers.

"If a royal commission is the best way, I would be in favor of one. But I'd like to be sure. Could the same results be obtained without as great a cost? I would like an expression by the people."

The junior chamber letter, which also went out to the reeves of surrounding municipalities, asks all areas concerned to hold referendums at election time.

It advised that if this is not done, the Jaycees may endeavor to obtain petitions of 10 per cent of the names of the electorate, thus forcing a referendum.

The letter was signed by Eric Charman, chairman of the Jaycee amalgamation committee.

Times Drama Critic Directs 'Yeoman of Guard' Next May

While there has been no fall or early winter production by Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society, the organization has not been idle.

Big plans are afoot for a top-flight show in keeping with the B.C. Centenary in 1958—Gilbert and Sullivan's fine Elizabethan operetta, The Yeoman of the Guard.

It will be presented at the Royal Theatre early in May. Stage director will be Times drama critic Audrey St.Denys Johnson. Jim Yeomans will direct the musical score.

Letters have gone out to all former members and it is expected by this means that the strongest possible cast will be available.

A general meeting will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at 1010 Langley Street, third floor. All former and present members are being asked, along with anyone interested in the centennial year production.

In the meantime members of the society have been rehearsing a concert party for the purpose of visiting and entertaining hospitals and other institutions.

Casting for The Yeoman of the Guard will take place early in the new year.

Naval seaman Darrell Pugh pleaded guilty in city police court today to theft of an alarm clock and wallet under $50 value early today in a car prowling spree.

He was remanded to Friday to enable him to secure character evidence.

Compulsory Bright Clothing Studied for Hunters in B.C.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood said today his department is studying a proposal to make it compulsory for hunters to wear brightly-colored clothing.

Hugh Shantz, MLA for North Okanagan and Speaker-designate, wrote to Mr. Westwood this week urging that action be taken immediately.

The minister said he has asked Game Commissioner Frank Butler for advice on the proposal.

It has been suggested that yellow might be the best color to prevent hunters being mistaken for animals by other marksmen.

Less than two weeks ago an Island hunter was slain near Shawnigan Lake when another man thought he was a deer.

The coroner's jury investigating the mishap recommended "that suitable colored clothing be worn by hunters in the bush and that this provision be included in the B.C. Game Act."

"I'd like to see something that will need a new suit, shoes and gloves to go with it."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Drop Hints 'Round Now For Christmas Giving

By PENNY SAVER

Now's the time to start dropping gentle hints about what you want for Christmas!

Today I jotted down all the hints I'd been hearing lately and went shopping to find gifts that will please the hinters on the big, big day . . . Dec. 25.

First there was my glamorous friend who loves pretty jewelry and sophisticated cosmetics. What did I buy her? Why, the cutest black china cat with green jewel eyes and a bottle of wonderful perfume between his paws. He's just $1.95 and makes a "too, too ultra" gift!

My four-year-old niece is already a regular bookworm. Though she cherishes her many volumes of Mother Goose and Grimm's Fairy Tales, the smudges of tiny fingers on the covers and bindings are a pretty sorry sight!

I know where there are some large books with heavy cardboard covers and thick pages for little kiddies. There is a large choice of stories in the collection of books at $1.29.

★ ★ ★

Uncle and aunt in the east will appreciate a box of tiny packaged cheeses from Scandinavia. These nourishing little cheeses are wrapped in tin foil with separate labels. A box is $1.95.

On the same counter I saw packs of dried fruit. Beautifully arranged, this fruit would be a grand present for distant relatives or a sick chum. There are figs, dates, ginger and apricots all for $2.45.

★ ★ ★

Here's an idea! For sisters I've found a collection of evening sweaters that would look like a million dollars combined with black felt, taffeta or silk skirts. They feature scoop necks or high necks with low back lines and are bejewelled to sparkle like stars on a dark night! White, black, pink and baby blue in the set and at a tiny price range of $3.98 to $5.98.

Mother may have almost everything in her kitchen, but I'll bet she hasn't got an ice chopper! Screw this dandy gadget to the kitchen wall and it will chop up ice as fine or coarse as you desire. The cup for holding the ice is large and the handle for turning the machine sturdy. Comes in chrome in various colors at $9.95.

Hope these hints help with your Christmas shopping. Phone me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find them.

On Etiquette

Signature on Christmas cards:

Each year I am in a quandary as to whether to sign Christmas cards as Helen and Harlowe Shepherd or vice versa. Would you set me straight on this? Would it be all right to include our children's names on the cards. We may be entertaining with an open house during the holidays. If we do, would it be appropriate to use the Christmas cards as invitations too?

Louise Davis

Louise Davis answers:

It is optional as to whose name appears first on Christmas cards. There is no hard and fast rule about holiday greeting cards, which are in a class by themselves. Personally, I like the man's name first, for the husband is head of his house, but it is so unimportant either way that it does not matter. It is optional too, as to whether or not to include the names of the children. Even very young ones can wish your friends a joyous Christmas in their own way, so why not do it all together, for family is so closely associated with Christmas. It would be all right to send your party invitations with your cards. Many people do.

Constant Care Will Pay Off

The woman who makes the most of the beauty nature has given her is the rare one.

Few women know how to realize their potential for good looks. They don't like their brows so they pluck them all out and draw on a hard line rather than learn to sketch in softly a new and becoming brow.

They use the same unbecoming shade of lipstick for years and apply it slapdash fashion. They slouch, develop bulges and walk pigeon-toed on shoes with heels that are stilt high.

They talk about dieting and never quite get around to it. Each year, the beauty that might be theirs becomes more deeply buried, less accessible, until finally it's gone completely.

There's only one answer to all of this: action. Keep an open mind, be sharply self-critical, take care of grey streaks, extra poundage or a new bulge as it develops. And always be willing to learn how to improve your looks.

YOUR SHOES

If your feet are really not pretty, the best thing to do is to hide them. That is, stay away from open-toed shoes and sandals.

This is your year, really, for closed shoes with pointed toes are high fashion and everyone, not just you, will be wearing them. For you can't change the shape of your feet, unfortunately, or the length and shape of your toes.

You can help, of course. You can see that you are properly fitted for shoes each time you buy a pair. You can cut your toenails straight across, not to sharp points. You can sit and read while your feet relax gently in a pan of warm, soapy water. You can move the arches of your feet over a small rubber ball to exercise them.

All of these things will make your feet more attractive if not pretty.

Tips to teenagers: the prettiest girl is the one who uses a mimimum of make-up on a fresh, clear skin.

Leave the heavy make-up to movie stars. It belongs on a movie set but not on your face when you're in your teens. You honestly don't need it. And don't think that the actress who has to do a complete make-up job a half dozen times a day doesn't envy you your flick of powder, touch of lipstick and dash of cologne. Make the most of your teen years while you're in them.

Someone in the family needs a bland diet? Remember canned peaches and cooked dried prunes for breakfast or dessert.

TODAY'S RECIPE

ORANGE SUGAR STICKS

One-half cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel, 1¾ cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon mace, 2 tablespoons fresh orange juice.

Frosting: 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, dash salt, 1 teaspoon grated orange peel, 3 tablespoons fresh orange juice.

Cream butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg yolk and orange peel. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with orange juice. Roll small pieces of dough into sticks about as thick as a pencil and 2 inches long. Dip one side in sugar and place sticks on greased cooky sheet, sugar side up. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 10 to 15 minutes. Be careful not to brown too much. Remove immediately from cooky sheet onto racks to cool. Makes 5 to 6 dozen cookies.

Make a thin frosting by stirring all ingredients until smooth. Using a cake decorating tube, fill with frosting. Make curlicues, stripes and various line designs on orange sticks. (Grated lemon peel mixed with sugar is also good topping for these cookies.)

Fill up your cooky jar with some brown sugar drop cookies, rich with crisp nuggets of walnuts. Serve with a glass of refreshing apricot whole fruit nectar for an afternoon pick-up or bedtime snack.

Australian Lass Sees the World On Her Motor Scooter, "Matilda"

By KITTY DIXON

Travelling around the world is one thing. Doing it on a motor scoote is another.

But 1-year-old Jill Malouf packed some things in a hat box and set out to do just that, on "Matilda", her pale grey Italian scooter.

In Victoria on the last lap of a two-year tour, the pretty Australian miss is just a week or so from home. She sails, Saturday, in the Oronsay, from Vancouver, with just one regret: "I haven't seen enough of Canada," she said.

Having crossed North America on the United States side, Jill was ready to do some extensive travelling in Canada, when her parents wrote, asking her to come home to Brisbane.

"After two years away, I thought I'd better go," she said.

Travel-stickered Matilda is going back to Brisbane, too, because Jill can't bear to part with her now.

COMMON MODE

According to Jill, travel by scooter is not at all uncommon in Europe. In fact, you see almost as many scooters as cars.

"When you stop at a traffic light, dozens of them will pile up, waiting to go!" says Jill.

She thinks its much more fun than car travel, because you always meet fellow travellers on the road. They pull up alongside at an intersection, and when they notice the tourist stickers they start asking questions.

Jill found European pedestrians quick to strike up conversation, too. Villagers were most friendly, so she passed through as many small towns as possible, avoiding large tourist centres.

Student and youth hostels offered comfortable lodging at little cost in Britain and on the Continent. In North America, she has stayed with friends and at YWCA centres.

WEARS SLACKS

Warm clothing is a "must" for the motor scooter traveller. Jill wears slacks and a heavy three-quarter coat most of the time.

Foul weather doesn't phase her, as long as it isn't serious enough to be a hazard to driving. A wide windshield deflects rain and wind.

"So I am really quite comfortable," she said.

"I did get very wet coming down from Nanaimo, though. But there was a warm house waiting in Victoria, and I soon got dry."

Jill is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Siver, 1728 Coronation Avenue.

Her one piece of luggage is strapped to a rack at back of the scooter. In it, Jill keeps a suit and one or two dresses of nylon wool which she finds excellent for travelling.

"That's all the wardrobe I need," she said. "Anything I buy I send right home."

Jill intends to turn her hand to fashion when she gets back to Brisbane. There she is going to open a dress shop.

"And when I earn enough money, I'm coming back to Canada!" she said.

Buy Their Books; Read—Then Give Applause, R. D. Hilton-Smith Urges

Encourage Canadian writers. Give them opportunities to develop their art and to succeed within their country.

This was the urgent plea of R. D. Hilton-Smith, author and librarian, when he appeared as guest speaker at the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Smith explained that some years ago, when Canadian writers had to register for tax purposes, the number appearing on the records was 172. Of these, more than 50 per cent earned less than $2,000 a year.

This condition has not changed materially today, the speaker pointed out.

"Many writers still do their work part time, evenings or weekends, because they cannot live on the earnings from their writings.

"This is not conducive to good work and is responsible to a great degree for the Canadian novelists who are known as one or two-book men."

Because of poor earnings, too, Canada loses much talent to the United States and overseas.

The speaker believed that the quality of Canadian writing had improved over the years.

"In the past Canadian books read a little like travel folders," he said, "now they have shed that tendency."

Canadian writers have developed a sense of humor; they are learning the art of satire and these qualities are beginning to appear in their works, he said.

The Canada Council will assist in giving increased recognition to Canadian authors, Mr. Smith believed.

Also needed is a sympathetic press — especially toward the younger writers—and increased reading courses in schools and universities.

Greatest encouragement of all, he said, can be given by the Canadian people.

"Buy the works of our Canadian writers; read what they write and then applaud their efforts," he urged.

Mr. Smith was introduced by the club president, Mrs. R. D. Harvey and thanked by Mrs. H. L. Smith.

San Francisco Wedding

Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Alvin Gray, 1745 Rockland Avenue, wish to announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Helen Cathcart, to Christopher James Hill, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hill of Vancouver. Both Miss Gray and Mr. Hill are graduates of University of British Columbia, Miss Gray obtaining her Batchelor of Nursing Science in 1956 and Mr. Hill being a 1952 graduate in electrical engineering. The wedding will take place on December 21 in Trinity Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

Fifty Years Married

Lt.-Col. W. S. Latta and Mrs. Latta quietly celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday at their home, 182 Beach Drive. They were married in St. Barnabas Church at New Westminster on Nov. 27, 1907, with Rev. Mr. Houghton officiating and have lived in Victoria for many years. The family home was on Dalhousie Street in this city for 31 years. Col. and Mrs. Latta have one son, William, at Chemainus and four grandchildren. A son John, an airman, was killed during the Battle of Britain in the Second World War. Another son, Frank, was drowned off Willows Beach.

Last evening to mark the 50th wedding anniversary, Col. and Mrs. Latta were guests at dinner at the home of Mrs. Sidney Newton in Seacroft Apartments.

Tips Can Cut Housework Corners

At this time of the year, when there's more housework as well as more demands on time from outside the home, work-saving shortcuts are of extra interest to home-makers.

The periodic washing of large items such as curtains, bedspreads and slip covers is easier today with automatic washing machines and the many drip-dry fabrics.

But if you've ever struggled out the back door loaded with a water-logged basket full of dripping fabrics, you'll appreciate this idea to lighten the load and control the river of water.

After rinsing these sizable items, place them in an open-weave plastic laundry basket set in bathtub or washtub and let the water stream down the drain. In about five minutes, when most of the water has run off, straighten and smooth the still-damp pieces and hang them to finish drying.

The light weight and easy storage of a portable ironing board, usually used for travel, makes it a good aid at home, too. When lack of time precludes a prolonged session at the regular ironing board or when you're needed in another room to supervise homework or children, dig out the small items to be ironed—napkins, hankies, towels, scarves.

Sit in a straight armchair, put the portable board across the arms and plug in the iron.

Pull the chair close to a towel-padded table or shelf. Dampened laundry can be placed there within reach and a trivet or asbestos mat set on the padding can serve as an iron rest. In a few minutes, you can make a noticeable dent in the weekly ironing.

House cleaning goes faster if you don't have to stop to ponder where you put the special cleaner you want. With many of these chemical cleansers appearing in aerosol containers, a convenient place to store them for quick finding is in a plastic shoe holder.

A can fits neatly into an individual pocket and the grommets across the top hook the bag to the back of a door or in limited wall space. Use one or two pockets for sponges or special cleaning cloths.

If you've embarked on the tedious job of celaning drawers, have a large wastebasket lined with a paper bag nearby. Tossing into the bag those dusty papers and small articles to be discarded corrals the trash for quicker and cleaner disposal. Paper bag liners are also a help in bathroom or nursery wastebaskets.

Mammoth Show; Capacity Audience

Crowds that filled the Bay Street Armory Wednesday evening signified popularity of the first Christmas Gift and Fashion Parade sponsored by the Victoria Jaycee-Ettes in conjunction with the 700 Block Yates Street.

Men's and women's styles were presented in the fabulous fashion parade. Highlight, however, was the showing of a group of originals created by a coterie of Canadian couturiers.

A sum of $900 was realized for charitable work of the Jay-Cee-Ettes.

Mrs. J. Harris and Mrs. M. Ledger of the Jaycee-Ettes were co-conveners of the affair.

Lissa Taylor, fashion bureau director for the Textile Fibres Division, DuPont Company of Canada, came from Montreal to commentate the couturier presentations.

Ida Clarkson acted as commentator for the local presentations.

Models were Doris Usher, Sue Pearson, Myrtle Ledger, Sheila Morgan, Mary Rawnsley and Joyce Harris. Judy Greenfield presented, the up-to-the-minute teenage styles, and Cathy Johnson wore the junior fashions.

Men's clothes were modeled by Bill Philps, Car Drieger, Larry Bell, John Priestley and Henry Norgaard.

Canned peach halves filled with ground almonds mixed with honey and whisked under the broiler a few minutes are an elegant garnish with sandwiches, salads or chops.

A new arrival from France in time for Christmas giving is this sophisticated perfume from a famous French house. It comes in crystal bottle fluted like the skirt of a dress.

French Scents

Most women have a favorite French perfume. They've discovered, through the years, one scent which seems to do the most for them and it's this that they reserve for festive moods and gala occasions.

Every now and then, they experiment with another perfume just for the fun and novelty of exploration. And sometimes they return to the old love, but just as often they find they've acquired a second favorite.

Just making its debut in this country is a brand new perfume by a famed French house, a house that is known for the world's most expensive perfume. It's the first new fragrance that this firm has introduced in ten years.

Many Canadian women are going to make it theirs. It's a brilliant, feminine and sophisticated perfume which comes in a crystal bottle fluted like the skirt of a dress.

Subtle Seasoning Brings Individuality to Cooking

Just as a tiny drop of perfume brings you a feeling of enchantment, so a gentle touch of seasoning can bring fascination to the foods you serve. Many a good cook will agree that this is the secret of her success. She has learned the good rule "season to taste", and you can learn it, too. Go easy at first—add only a sprinkling or two—and taste your way along for happy results.

Start with some of the more familiar spices and herbs and, as time goes by you'll find it such fun trying out new combinations of flavor that you will want to add some of the less familiar seasonings to your collection. To help you, here are some ideas from the home economists of the consumer section, Canada Department of Agriculture:

Try —cinnamon with stewed dry fruits, blueberries, chocolate sauce, whipped cream for gingerbread.

—nutmeg with candied parsnips, asparagus, cauliflower, spinach.

—mustard with cheese sauce for macaroni, Welsh rarebit, green beans.

—celery seed with coleslaw, sauerkraut, kernel corn.

—ground cloves with Harvard beets, creamed onions.

—curry powder with cream of chicken or celery soup, devilled eggs.

—mint with fruit cocktail, vegetables (carrots, peas, lima beans) to be served with lamb.

—oregano with tomatoes, lamb or pork, eggs, cream cheese.

—dill seeds with carrots, string beans, beets, sauerkraut.

—basil with tomato soup and salad, broiled tomatoes, green peas.

—marjoram with lamb, string beans, peas, zucchini.

—savory with hamburg dishes, pea soup, poultry.

—thyme with veal, pork chops, stew, soup.

PORT IN RESERVE

Port wine is used a great deal at holiday time because it goes so well with any and all kinds of holiday cookies and affords gracious hospitality with no advance preparation. Most port wines are a rich deep red, but there is a light-colored, light-bodied port called Tawny Port. There is also a white port, it is straw colored. It is believed to have originated as a sacramental wine. Be it red, Tawny or white port, always have some in reserve.

SOVIETS REAP HARVEST OF HIS BRITISH LEARNING

Wonder Boy of Russian Science Big Hero Among Cambridge Dons

(First of Two Dispatches)

By TOM A. CULLEN

CAMBRIDGE, Eng. (NEA)—The big hero at Cambridge University these days is Dr. Peter Kapitza, the Russian who designed Sputnik and got it off the ground.

PETER KAPITZA at Cambridge . . . local boffin makes good.

In the Common Rooms, where tweedy Cambridge dons gather for sherry, they talk of nothing but the Russian satellite and its designer. And as they talk, a note of pride creeps into the voice.

Why? Because Kapitza, the wonder boy of Russian science, is a Cambridge grad. He spent 14 of the most fruitful years of his life at Cambridge's Cavendish Laboratory—years of which the Russians are now reaping the harvest.

What is more, he pursued his atomic research at Cambridge with all the facilities the British could place at his command—facilities which no amount of Russian rubles could buy at the time.

No wonder the tweedy boffins, as the British call their scientists, are puffed up with pride. Kapitza is strictly a case of "Local Boffin Makes Good."

And a pin-up boy, too. I found photographs of Kapitza everywhere at the Cavendish Laboratory, where the atom was first split.

Nothing 'Horrid'

"I hope you aren't going to write horrid things about Kapitza," observed a white-smocked research assistant, button-holing me in a corridor. Another physicist warned me off a book about Kapitza which has recently appeared in America. "There isn't a word of truth in it," he assured me.

Yes, Cambridge is very much on the defensive where the Soviet scientist is concerned. It's very much a closed shop, "old school tie" deal.

I discovered other things. I found that there is a pretty constant flow of British scientists to Russia to renew contact with Kapitza. As recently as July a party of British physicists were Kapitza's guests in Moscow.

The traffic is all one way, however, for Kapitza has never dared set foot in Britain after having left it in such a hurry in 1934. After having taken the best in training and equipment that Britain could offer, after having picked the best of British scientific brains, so to speak, Kapitza ducked hurriedly behind the Iron Curtain, leaving his British colleagues in the lurch.

Red Faces

If Cambridge is elated over Kapitza's success with Sputnik, British government officials are not. There are red faces in the Defence Ministry, in the Foreign Office and among the men in charge of atomic energy.

Sir John Cockcroft, for example. Cockcroft, who heads atomic research for the entire United Kingdom, is an old crony of Kapitza's, worked with him at the Cavendish Laboratory. Another is the British Minister of Education, Geoffrey Lloyd. He was Kapitza's classmate at Trinity College, Cambridge.

As for Lord Halisham, chairman of the Conservative Party—he has already recorded it as a "melancholy reflection" that "We gave the Russians the satellite".

The Kapitza story makes sorry reading in 1957. As a cautionary tale, it belongs alongside the sagas of Klaus Fuchs, Pontecorvo and Nunn May, those other scientists who placed their brains at the disposal of the Communist dictators.

Kapitza's connection with Cambridge is well known. What is not well known (and what successive government have tried to hush up) is that:

1. The British government subsidized Kapitza during most of the 14 years he spent at Cambridge. Not only that, but it helped to finance a special laboratory for Kapitza to use in atomic research, research which is now paying off so handsomely to the Russians.

2. After Kapitza fled to Russia, Cambridge University sold his equipment to the Soviet government, at the latter's urgent insistence, for $90,000. The university also sent two laboratory assistants to Moscow to help Kapitza install his equipment, and Sir John Cockcroft himself went along to lend a helping hand. Meanwhile the British government stood idly by during these negotiations.

3. The reason why the Russians were so anxious to get hold of Kapitza's Cambridge equipment was to keep it from falling into British hands.

4. Cambridge scientists, of their own volition, agreed to drop all research in Kapitza's field of low temperature physics. Why? Because it would not be "cricket" to compete with Kapitza in his own field, the scientists held.

Clear Field

The agreement gave the Russians a clear field, as far as the British were concerned, in the study of magnetic effects at low temperatures, an important branch of modern physics.

What it cost Britain in terms of retarded research no one here will venture a guess.

Most of Kapitza's Cambridge work had a direct application to industry. And one British scientist with whom I talked estimates that in failing to follow up Kapitza's research, Britain, at the very least, forfeited an early lead in developing atomic energy as a cheap source of fuel and power.

Government officials know that while Britain may not have given the Russians the satellite, it gave the Soviets something better—Dr. Peter Kapitza, the man who launched the satellite.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Steven Litwak, aged 11, of Los Angeles, Calif., for his question:

How Does the Human Digestive System Work?

What happened to yesterday's dinner? By now, most of the goodness has been removed and the waste is in the lower intestines. It takes 30 or 40 hours for the food we eat to pass all the way through the digestive apparatus. The whole wonderful system, from the mouth to the large lower intestine, is called the alimentary canal. Actually, it is a series of miraculous chemical factories, all working together without any instructions from us.

When all goes well, we do not notice the digestive process. Yet several meals are in various stages of digestion. Countless glands are pouring in quarts of fluid. And countless muscles, from start to finish, are gently pounding, squeezing and pushing the food on its way. The entire alimentary canal is lined with soft, wet walls. The food is cushioned all the way.

WORK TO DO

A steak, as it is, is no use to the body as food. Nor is a pat of butter or a slice of bread. The body needs the proteins, fats and carbohydrates within these foods. But even these are broken down into simpler substances. Proteins are changed into amino acids. Fats into fatty acids and carbohydrates into sugars. Gallons of chemical acids are needed for the job of digesting.

The first stage of digesting begins in the mouth. Saliva juice moistens each bite and changes some of the starches to sugars. Teeth chomp the food into fragments. The smaller the fragments, the more goodness can be extracted. Each mouthful becomes a ball of soft mush. Muscles work to swallow it. It goes into the esophagus, a 10-inch food pipe leading to the stomach.

MIXING BAG

The stomach is a mixing bag. The food is in the lower third of the bag. Gastric juices, containing hydrochloric acid and enzymes pour from the upper walls of the stomach. Three quarts of juices are poured daily from countless glands in the stomach wall. The food is mashed to a sour, acid pulp.

From the stomach, the food is pushed into a tube called the duodenum. The duodenum leads to a 20-foot tube called the small intestine. This leads to a wider tube called the large intestine. Two valves open into the small intestine. One carries bile from the liver, the other carries pancreatic juice from the pancreas. Bile digests fats, pancreatic juice digests all types of foodstuff.

FOLDS, FINGERS

The food in the small intestine is in proper shape to be used by the body. Countless little blood vessels and lymph vessels are right there to take it on its way. The food passes right through the cell walls into the blood stream. The lining of the small intestine is constructed to make this job easy. The walls are ringed with deep folds. The folds are smothered with tiny fingers called villi. These folds and fingers give a vast surface area to the small intestine walls. Blood and lymph vessels grab the food through the surface of these walls. The lymph carries off fatty acids. The blood carries off sugars and amino acids.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Dale Frank, age 9, of Albany, New York, for his question:

When was the first newspaper started?

In ancient Rome, people read their news in the Octa Diurna—Daily Events. Government officials recorded the elections, battles and noteworthy fires on a sheet of paper and pinned it to a wall. Such handwritten newspapers were common in Venice through the 16th Century. Printed newspapers did not occur until the 17th Century. In 1615, the first printed weekly newspaper, the Frankfurter Journal, was published in Germany. England had a printed weekly, the Weekly News, in 1622. The vast newspaper industry as we know it developed only during the last 100 years or so.

SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Victoria District Notes—Salvation Army Group: met Monday evening when the new pack colors were dedicated by Brig. P. F. Alder, assisted by Major Frank Watson.

★ ★ ★

View Royal Group: Mrs. Marg Coulter, district cubmaster, invested Marjorie Clements as leader of "B" Pack.

★ ★ ★

Windsor Park "B" Pack: Alan Cockell joined the pack as an assistant cubmaster.

Camp Barnard, Sooke, is open to Scoutmasters who want to take their troops on camping trips.

The caretaker is living on the camp grounds and is ready to give assistance. District headquarters should know in advance.

Camp Barnard is an excellent place for winter camping because it is easily accessible by road and there are many facilities for pioneer work, especially in bridge building across Rocky Creek.

It makes a good base camp for explorations into the hinterland, and a climb to Mount Bluff overlooking Sooke Harbor.

7 Conventions Arranged for City

Seven new conventions will be held in Victoria during the next three years as the result of a 3,400-mile convention-seeking tour by Charles Moore, assistant manager of the Empress Hotel.

"We hope these conventions will bring at least 1,600 people to the city," travel-weary Mr. Moore said today.

"In Washington, Oregon and north and south California, I found there is a lively interest in Victoria as a convention city and most people still regard it as a little bit of old England."

CPR MAN

Mr. Moore was accompanied on his 24-day trip by James Duncan, Canadian Pacific convention traffic manager in Vancouver.

Among cities they visited were Seattle, Portland, Eugene, Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and Long Beach.

"We called on all kinds of organizations, including chambers of commerce, service clubs and travel bureaux. Most of the people we met were well acquainted with Victoria and British Columbia as a tourist attraction," Mr. Moore said.

NOVELTY

"One difficulty we encountered is that some U.S. organizations are not permitted by their charters to hold conventions outside the U.S.

"But there are plenty that favor holding meetings in Canada because it involves a touch of novelty and a change of scene."

Canada, U.S. Attract Scientists From U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — The best of Britain's young scientists go to Canada and the United States because of the facilities for research there, nuclear scientist Sir John Cockcroft said Tuesday night in a radio broadcast.

Cockcroft, director of Britain's atomic energy research establishment, said 40 per cent of young British scientists who visited those countries did not return.

WORLD PREMIERE

Envoy's Suicide Basis of Play

TORONTO (CP)—A new Canadian play which borrows its plot from the suicide in Egypt of Canadian diplomat Herbert Norman had its world premiere in Toronto's Crest Theatre Wednesday night.

Author John Gray's Bright Sun at Midnight sets out the problem of a Canadian external affairs minister in deciding how to explain the suicide in India of a Canadian diplomat who had been subjected to charges of Communist leanings by a United States Senate subcommittee.

John Drainie heads the cast as the minister. Globe and Mail drama critic Herbert Whittaker describes him as an "excellent choice."

'Independent Cuss' Latest Rising Star

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A new kind of star is rising in Hollywood — the independent cuss who barks back at the studios yet lacks publicity flair.

A case study is Paul Newman, handsome, brooding-lipped young actor who typifies the new breed. There have been others like him—Marlon Brando, James Dean, Tony Franciosa, John Cassavetes, Ben Gazzara, etc.

All were trained in New York, many at the actor's studio. Each has been as independent as a hog on ice. And though they have made the news on occasion, they shunt the publicity mills of Hollywood.

Newman differs from the others in that he is signed up exclusively to a studio—Warner Brothers. How come?

"Panic, I guess," he said. "You keep passing up opportunities until finally you worry that it might be the last time you're offered one. I didn't want to sign, because I figured I wasn't ready for it yet. The Silver Chalice proved that I was right."

Despite his nose dive in that religious mishmash, he went back to Broadway for some seasoning in The Desperate Hours, then, returned to score a smash on a loanout to MGM in Somebody Up There Likes Me. Warners discovered it had a star on its hands.

Westerns Ride High in Britain

NEW YORK (AP)—Can you think of a more typically American entertainment product than the Western?

Well, they are popular in Britain, too. So much so, says a British TV executive, that British firms may start making some themselves — possibly in Canada.

"The Western is accepted in Britain as a proprietary item as much as in the United States," says Dennis Foreman, executive producer of the Grenada-TV network of Manchester, Eng.

"Why, until 'Robin Hood' came on television in Britain most children were more familiar with Dodge City than with Sherwood Forest."

EARP HERO IN U.K.

Foreman is in the U.S. looking over TV shows. Wyatt Earp, seen on ABC-TV in the U.S., has proved to be a great hit in Britain. So is Gunsmoke, seen on CBS-TV.

But British television has a legal limit on the number of American TV programs it can buy and show. Foreman says he wonders whether Britain may make some Westerns of its own. Some Westerns were filmed in England and France after the First World War. They were pretty bad, Foreman said, but they were Westerns.

He thinks it more likely, however, that British companies might film some TV westerns in Canada—where there are wide open plains and plenty of cow country. He didn't specify any particular part of the West.

Canadian Conductor Scores With Russians

ODESSA, Russia (Reuters)—Canadian conductor Jacques Beaudry said here the opening of his Russian concert tour Sunday had been "very enthusiastically" received.

Beaudry, of Montreal, conducted a program of Gluck, Beethoven, and Tschaikovsky with the Odessa orchestra Sunday night. Next month, he will conduct concerts in Moscow and Leningrad.

EVERYTHING FOR HOME BUILDERS

THE FAMILY CAR

Has been a necessary and useful article for many years. However, like many other things the family habits are changing and instead of the family car we see so many of the nice new family Ranchwagons and Stationwagon cars on the road today. In fact, in many parts of the country the Stationwagon has become so popular that Showrooms and Saleslots have been set up to sell Stationwagons. You see although styles change families still like to do things together such as going on holidays camping, to the beach, and picnics, and what can be more pleasurable than an outing with the family.

The Ranchwagon can also be a practical and useful family car in many other ways, for instance it's so easy to drive down to the lumberyard and pick up the odd bag of lumber, a few pieces of Plywood, some Wallboard, Floor Tiles, and the other accessories that go for home modernizing projects. It's fun also to have the family join in on these events, let them have a share in planning that new Rumpus Room or activities room in the basement, a spare bedroom in the attic or putting new panelling on those bedrooms with cracked plaster. Yes, the whole family can have fun and be a wonderful help in undertaking those small remodelling and renovating jobs around home.

THIS WEEK

We have some wonderful specials for fixing things around home, so collect up the family, drive down in the Ranchwagon and see some of these bargains for yourself. Here's the first: Factory Grade Squaretex Hardboard. This Hardboard is ⅛" thick and comes factory painted; it can be left with the factory finish or it can be painted to the color of your choice. This board is unusually practical for ceilings and walls, in kitchens, bathrooms, basement rooms on both walls and ceiling. It is a very dense hardboard and will take lots of rough wear. Squaretex has an especially decorative effect by the appearance from the recessed squares which are in 12"x12" and 16"x16" squares, when the panels join up the wall joints are barely visible because of this unique pattern effect contained in the Hardboard. Sheet sizes are 48"x48"x⅛" thick, only $1.92.

Secondly, we have another shipment of D Grade Weldtex Panels. These Weldtex Panels have been rejected for the odd shit and miss appearance on the face of the panel. However, they are still very practical and useful for a decorative effect in lining basement rooms, attics and garages, or any place where the final finish is not too all important. At these prices of course is less than half the price of the regular stock and is just as reasonable as some of the ordinary rough plywood available. Sheet sizes are 48"x96"x⅜" thick and only $3.84 per sheet, while the supply lasts.

To finish off the room you will undoubtedly need to include one or two doors, or perhaps more including the closets. Just this week we have received a new shipment of "C" Grade Fir Plywood Doors and instead of the usual limited sizes are able to offer a fairly complete range of doors in these bargain prices.

2-0x6-8x1⅜", each ..... $7.25
2-4x6-8x1⅜", each ..... $7.35
2-6x6-8x1⅜", each ..... $7.60
2-8x6-8x1⅜", each ..... $7.70
2-10x6-10x1⅜", each ..... $8.25
3-0x7-0x1⅜", each ..... $9.60

At these prices our ¾" thick doors are excellent buying for desk tops, table tops, and even solid partitions in certain areas where practical.

You'll need Butt Hinges too, and here is a special—3½"x3½" Brass Butts, good quality, at only, a pair, 37c.

YOU CAN'T AVOID IT

Yes, Christmas is coming and the pressure will be on, and among the things which you might plan early is the matter of house decorations. This year the plywood manufacturers have excelled themselves in making available a nice variety of Christmas cut-outs for exterior decorations. These large paper cut-outs are available in four different patterns. There is (1) the Santa Claus pattern, (2) the Reindeer pattern, (3) the Sleigh pattern, and (4) the three Choir Boys pattern.

These patterns are all gaily colored and ready to paste onto ordinary plywood and then simply cut out with a bandsaw or scrollsaw. These figures go up to six feet tall in height and are really very realistic and attractive. All you do is paste them to a sheet of 4x8x⅜" plywood, which is available at $6.24 per sheet. These patterns when covered with a sealer of ordinary varnish will stand up on the exterior under all types of weather conditions. Cost of plans is only 65c for any of the items listed above. Drop down to our yard and see the actual plans set up on plywood backgrounds exactly as they can appear on your home.

DO IT EARLY

Yes, pick out those Christmas gifts early this year for that man of the house. You know any man appreciates a good tool to work in the basement or the hobby shop, and there is nothing like making it a practical gift for Christmas this year. Selection is complete now of the very nicest variety of hand tools that we have seen in a long time. Manufactured by the famous Stanley Company and all items are individually and attractively boxed in gift-wrapped boxes so that it will fit the occasion and certainly be a surprise on Christmas morn to that husband or son.

Handiman Hand Drill ..... $5.98
Handiman Chisel Set ..... $9.45
9" long Stanley Planes ..... $12.00

These items can be put away on our Christmas lay-away plan.

Treat the whole family, but don't wait until Christmas! Buy a regulation size Ping Pong Table and have family fun all winter, even while waiting for Christmas. Table top is 5'x9' and comes in two pieces of Plywood ¾" thick. Also available the demountable legs made of interlocking Plywood pieces, which are so handy for putting up and taking down in limited areas. Prices are reasonable, too.

Canadian Historical 'Trial of James Whelan' on C-6, 2 at 10

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

DELIGHTFUL—Hope all children were allowed to witness the delightful TV adaptation of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," a definite success for stars Van Johnson, Claude Rains and the balance of the cast. An orchid is also in order for Hal Stanley who produced the enchanting version of the medieval German legend as well as collaborating on the book and lyrics with Irving Taylor. The sets and photographic effects were particularly good and the use of music by Grieg, under the baton of Pete King, thoroughly enchanting.

If there is a complaint it is a seasonal one. Why couldn't this beautiful show have been saved until Christmas week? It was so much more appealing than the usual worn-out, gloomy offerings so often shown in the festive season.

★ ★ ★

THE DISENCHANTED—Bob Goulet, seen to such good account in Show Stoppers this summer past, suffered somewhat in Tuesday night's "Debit Account," a 60-minute Television Theatre production. But, if there is any measure of comfort in it for him, the handsome Goulet was not alone. Carol Starkman, Peter Mews, Miriam Wolfe and Mel Benstock were up to their respective necks with him in a play by Kim McIlroy which couldn't stand on its own with some original Little Theatre productions we've covered, playing before a hometown handful, and not before a national television audience.

Ye gods and little fishes, when will those selecting scripts sense that a play is either good or bad? "Debit Account" was as contrived as a spider's web without any of its sublety and calculated strength. In short it was sheer amateur bunkism, as full of holes as a Swiss cheese, a play that all the Oscar-winning actors in the world couldn't have held together. How then could the likes of Goulet and company be expected to do better than they did?

Or, in short, the play is still the thing.

TIPS FOR THE ROAD

Play Safe, Live Longer

Next week is "Safe-Driving Week" across Canada.

George Lindsay, provincial superintendent of motor vehicles, today urged all B.C. communities to do all possible to bring the objectives of the safety drive to the attention of all citizens.

He said the objectives were:

1. To reduce the number of accidents and deaths in traffic during the week of the campaign;

2. To forcefully and sharply bring to the attention of the motorist and pedestrian the basic fact that he — the individual—is the only one with the power to prevent accidents and fatalities.

"By his own actions, by doing what he knows is right, by doing them so often they become normal reactions, the motorist and the pedestrian can wipe traffic accidents from the highways of the nation," Mr. Lindsay said.

Safe-Driving Week is sponsored by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference. Harry Hamper, secretary of the B.C. Safety Council, is the co-ordinator for B.C.

Board Rejects Frontiersmen Bid for Grant

Victoria police commission Wednesday turned down a request for a grant of $1,000 to Legion of Frontiersmen.

There was no provision in the budget, said Comm. William Hamilton.

In past years city council has made a grant of about $100 but recently advised the Frontiersmen they should take their request to the police commission.

The group assists with policing of crowds at parades and other large gatherings.

U.K. Plane Progress Eye-Opener To Trade Mission From Canada

LONDON (BUP) — Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, who is leading the Canadian trade mission to this country, described the visit of 43 delegates of the mission to the Bristol Aeroplane Company works at Filton as an "auspicious beginning to the real practical end of our mission."

The party, which also included 15 representatives of the Dollar Export Council, Board of Trade and Canada House, had traveled to Bristol from Harwell.

Sir Reginald Verdon Smith, chairman of the Bristol Aeroplane Company, said the company was to supply a fleet of Britannias to Canadian Pacific Airlines, an order worth $25,000,000.

GOODWILL

"We feel the Canadian market is one which can be attacked by British suppliers with determination," he said. "And we know too of the very great goodwill which one can count on from so many of you in industry and from your government."

Before the Canadians left they saw BOAC's third long-range Britannia take off from the company's airfield.

Afterwards Churchill said: "You have initiative, skill and broadness of vision, which has resulted in this establishment and the creation of that great airplane which we just saw take off."

EYE-OPENER

The development going on at the works had been an eye-opener to the mission, he said.

"Your company is doing exactly what we hope other companies will do—form a firm link with Canada and take part in the development of that country," he added.

"When we get back in December we shall tell our friends that England has recovered fully and is moving ahead and is ready to work with us on future endeavors for the good of the world."

A small party of the Canadian trade mission visited the site of the atomic power station now being built for the Ceneral Electricity Authority, at Berkeley, Gloucestershire, during the afternoon.

Later the whole party left for Cardiff by special train.

Murder of Woman Blamed on Terrorists

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) —Olga Socratous Stratokopou, a 40-year-old Greek Cypriot spinster whose strangled body was washed ashore last week at Dhavlos, northeast Cyprus, was murdered by EOKA terrorists, the government said Monday.

Her name was on a list of 200 "traitors" handed to police by a former EOKA member last month.

POLICEMAN'S SELF-ARREST

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP)—A Port Angeles police sergeant arrested himself late Tuesday after being involved in a two-car collision, saying that "under the circumstances I would have taken in my own mother."

Sgt. Johnnie Sweatt went to the police station, had himself booked for failure to yield the right-of-way and posted $15 bail.

Royal Bank Project To Start in January

Expansion and modernization of the main Royal Bank of Canada Building at 1108 Government will start early in the new year, manager C. L. Snyder said Wednesday.

Mr. Snyder said he had just received a letter from the bank's head office in Montreal confirming that "alterations and improvements" will be carried out "at an early date."

"I presume that includes an extension to the present building," Mr. Snyder said. "The work should get underway sometime in January."

Plans call for extending the building back to Langley Street. At present there is a parking lot behind the bank.

Interior of the building will be completely redesigned.

WE'LL SEE WHAT WE CAN DO ABOUT THAT!

Newest Cougar expresses surprise at Victoria club's dismal home record and wonders if there's anything he can do to improve it. Forward Stan Baliuk, who joined team Wednesday, will be in lineup when Vancouver Canucks invade Memorial Arena Saturday night. Baliuk, property of Springfield Indians, picked up 36 points in his rookie professional season while with Chicoutimi last year. He was top scorer in tough Ontario Junior League two seasons ago. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Royals' Delayed Punch Pounds Cougars Deeper

New Westminster Royals carved their league-leading niche in the Western Hockey League's Coast Division a little deeper Wednesday night in Queens Park Arena as they pounded Victoria Cougars a bit further into the division cellar with a 5-1 victory over the Cats.

Playing without the services of high-scoring forward and captain Max McNab, Royals left it up to their "second line" of Gary Edmundson, Hugh Barlow and Pat Hannigan.

Barlow carried most of the New Westminster mail when he scored a "hat-trick," including the winning goal and two insurance markers in the third period.

Cougars held on for a scoreless tie until midway through the second period, when Gary Edmundson made a Pat Hannigan pass pay off at 9.14.

Larry Leach came right back with the equalizer just four and a half minutes later, converting Pat Egan's blueline drive into a score for the only time the Cougars could break Bev Bentley's armour.

Barlow won the game for Royals at 17.34 of the second and Van Impe made it 3-1 on a play started by Arnie Schmautz and Ron Matthews.

Barlow tallied for the two markers of the third fi on plays with Edmundson, make the victory complete.

The loss moved New Westminster three points ahead of second - place Vancouver Canucks, who are in the midst of their longest losing streak to date.

Cougars will meet Vancouver twice at the weekend, at the Forum, Friday, and Memorial Arena, Saturday, before travelling to Seattle to wind up their four-games-in-five-days schedule Sunday.

Coach Pat Egan will have newly-acquired Steve Baliuk in uniform for Friday's game and local fans can have their first glimpse of him Saturday when he partners Ed Dorohoy and Doug Macauley against the Canucks.

The move will leave Nels Bulloch free to return to his defence position, probably beside Colin Kilburn.

Game time Saturday is 8 p.m.

WARRIORS RIDING HIGH

Like Old Times For 'Peg Fans

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg Warriors are whooping along these days in a style that recalls their prowess during the 1955-56 season, Warrior's first in the Western Hockey League.

That was when they finished on top of the Prairie Division, won the WHL playoff and then beat Montreal five games to one in tthe Edinburgh Cup series.

Possibly Winnipeg's WHL debut was a bit too auspicious. Last season Warriors followed a fairly common pattern for sophomores who have had a brilliant rookie season. They wound up in the Prairie division cellar.

But this year they've bounced back again.

Wednesday night Warriors defeated Calgary Stampeders 4-2 before 2,889 fans in Calgary. It was their fourth win in five days and gave them a seven-point lead over the second-place Edmonton Flyers.

MOSIENKO STILL SHINES

Bill Mosienko, a "veteran" for more years than many of his teammates have been playing professional hockey, led the goal-scoring, just as he used to do with the champion Warriors. riors.

He scored goals in the second and third periods, adding to a previous counter by Art Stratton to give Winnipeg a 3-0 lead before Chuck Blair and Merv Kuryluk counted for Calgary.

Danny Summers got Warriors' fourth counter, shooting into an open goal after Stampeders pulled goalie Al Rollins in the last 47 seconds.

Piggott to Ride California Races

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Lester Piggott, at 22 one of Britain's leading riders, plans to ride at the coming Santa Anita meeting aboard Alberta Ranch horses until veteran Johnny Longden returns to the saddle.

Piggott stopped here en route to Australia. Trainer Vance Longden of the Alberta stable asked him to return for the Santa Anita season opening Dec. 26.

Johnny Longden, Vance's father and regular rider for Alberta, is recovering from a broken ankle. He won't be ready for the race track until Feb. 1.

Hunt advanced over Roger Lindal by scores of 8-15, 15-8, 18-15 while Tolson took two straight from Jack LeQuesne, 15-6, 15-11.

Sundew Makes Last Mistake

HAYDOCK PARK, Lancashire (CP) — Sundew, 11-year-old steeplechaser who won the Grand National by doing everything wrong, has made his last mistake.

The big horse who blundered his way to victory at Aintree last March had to be destroyed Wednesday after misjudging a water jump at Haydock Park and breaking a shoulder.

Sundew twice failed to finish the testing Aintree course before his victory last spring. Even then he took few of his jumps cleanly as he bulled his way to the front and outran the opposition.

"He only made mistakes when he found things were not going to his liking," said Fred Winter, Sundew's regular jockey, who did not ride the horse in his last race. "He was a great character."

Grey Cup Bustup Starts As Bombers Hit Toronto

CRU Works to Clear Up Hazy Rules on Overtime

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—This city, which depends on gay Westerns to supply the carnival touch to the Grey Cup final, has started the big bustup. This is kickoff day for the fun and hilarity.

Downtown hotel lobbies still haven't been denuded of furniture — a precautionary measure as well as an effort to provide more space—but throngs began gathering in the lobbies. They talked nothing but football.

The talk generally has been about the two teams and the usual scarcity of tickets, but behind the scenes people have made elaborate plans for a million-dollar week-end.

The invasion from the West started early this morning by train and before the day is out trains and planes will unload beauty queens, football players and fans from Montreal to Vancouver and intermediate points. Other fans are due Friday and early Saturday.

The fun is expected to continue almost around the clock until Saturday afternoon, when Winnipeg Blue Bombers, champions of the West, meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats, champions of the East, in what has become the top spectacle on the Canadian sports calendar.

Bombers arrived by special plane this afternoon. They will stay at a suburban motel, far from the revelry around Toronto's big downtown hotels. Plans have been made for them to work out on a field near their quarterse and they will get their first glimpse of the downtown area Saturday en route to Varsity Stadium for the contest.

Will Play to Midnight, If Necessary

The Tiger-Cats will stay in Hamilton until early Friday night.

While the principals are figuring ways to win the Canadian professional football title, the men administering the game will meet to iron out the various details connected with it. They have their problems.

No cup final since the trophy was first put up for competition in 1909 has gone into overtime and this, along with crowd control, the method of game timing and other details, will be discussed by Canadian Rugby Union officials Friday.

Overtime has become a subject of prime importance in view of unprecedented overtime play in the deciding game of the best-of-three Western final won by Bombers 17-2 over Edmonton Eskimos. After 60 minutes the teams were tied 2-2 following up 19-7 and 5-4 scores in the first two games.

The CRU rule book says "a new game of 20 minutes" will be played in event of overtime, but it does not give the procedure to be followed if a tie still exists after the 20 minutes. However, a CRU official said Wednesday that a cup champion will be declared "even if the game has to go until midnight" under the lights of Varsity Stadium.

100 Policemen Will Be in Stadium

The overtime is divided into two 10-minute periods and the rule book says the team which had the option of kicking off to open the game will have the option again in the first overtime period. The teams change ends after 10 minutes and the other club has the option of kicking off.

The book is hazy about duration of the rest period before the start of overtime. The CRU official said it probably would be "a minute or two."

No mention is made in the book of time out for rest between the two 10-minute overtime periods.

The different methods of timing in the Big Four and Western conference also will be discussed, the official said.

In the West timers do not stop the clock on punts, pass plays and long runs. In the Big Four, the clock is stopped on plays where the ball is moved any big distance, allowing the teams to get into position for the next play.

The result is that the games in the West, on the average, take up to 30 minutes less time to play.

The CRU will have 100 off-duty policemen inside the stadium, no more than usual for a Grey Cup game. The CRU spokesman warned fans to remain in the stands.

Converts will be kicked from the field into the end zone, as is the West's regular procedure.

ASK IN ANY LANGUAGE YOU'LL GET SAME REPLY

TORONTO (CP)—Harry McBrien, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union and the man in charge of ticket distribution, can't get you into Varsity Stadium to see Saturday's Grey Cup final.

He makes this plain with a sign on his hotel-room wall which reads:

Ich habe keine Graycupkarten.
No tengo de boletos Grey Cup.
Pas de billets Grey Cup.
Non offrire bollettine Grey Cup.
In any language: No Grey Cup tickets.

JACKIE PARKER

GERRY JAMES

Parker, James Best Gridders

TORONTO (CP)—Jackie Parker, triple-threat quarterback and halfback who led Edmonton Eskimos to three straight Grey Cup victories Wednesday night was named the outstanding football player in Canada.

The former Mississippi State College star was selected by sports writers and broadcasters in the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union cities.

Parker beat out Hal Patterson, Montreal Alouettes' brilliant pass-catching end and defensive halfback who won the award over Parker in 1956.

Gerry James, outstanding power runner with Winnipeg Blue Bombers who led the Western conference in scoring with 131 points, including a record 19 touchdowns, was chosen the outstanding Canadian in pro football. Runner-up to the 23-year-old James was Bobby Kuntz, two-way back with Toronto Argonauts.

Kaye Vaughan, rugged two-way tackle with Ottawa Rough Riders, won the award as the outstanding lineman for the second successive year. Vaughan, 25, formerly with University of Tulsa, won out over Edmonton's Art Walker.

The 25-year-old Parker received a $1,000 Canada Savings Bond, a trophy, a diamond tie bar and a plaque. James and Vaughan received $500 bonds.

Bays, Lansdowne Favored in Gala

Close competition is expected Friday afternoon when 150 swimmers from six schools take part in the 32nd annual junior high school swimming gala at the Crystal Garden.

Oak Bay and Lansdowne have been taken as co-favorites to win the Dickinson and Dunn Trophy, city champions with both schools boasting power-laden teams.

Oak Bay is the present holder of the Pendray Trophy as junior girls' relay champions, while Lansdowne has the Canadian Legion junior boys' relay crown.

Sponsored by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, the gala is scheduled to start at 4 p.m.

Bernice Peden Tops Uplands Par Contest

Mrs. Bernice Peden won "A" division honors in a women's par competition at Uplands Golf Club Tuesday, finishing four down to par.

Mrs. R. L. Poyntz was two up on regulation figures to lead "B" division players with Mrs. G. M. Coxworth in the runner-up spot with an all-square score.

Gutoski Rink Still Unbeaten

Tony Gutoski, Victoria's great hope for British Consols and Macdonald Brier curling championships, came a near-cropper in the fourth day of the six-day Totem Bonspiel at Vancouver when he took a narrow 6-5 victory from Calgary's Simpson rink.

The victory, and subsequent action, left only Gutoski and Ken Anderson of Calgary as undefeated in the 'spiel.

Five rinks went into Wednesday's late draws with their records intact, but Victoria's Gar Taylor bested Vancouver's Kels McMurdo, 10-7, after losing 9-8, to Al Polsky of Vancouver. Roy Forsyth was ousted by Thurston Anders in an all-Vancouver battle, 7-6, and Frank Avery of Vancouver fell to Elmer Meier 12-3.

Anderson had to wait till the last draw of the night before he could add to his win string by downing Vancouver's Shirra, 6-5, for his seventh consecutive win.

Other Victoria entries, Gordie Moore and Jack Moir scored in Wednesday draws.

Moore edged by Cowie of the Capilano Winter Club by a 7-5 score while Moir, after dropping his first five games, picked up a pair of wins.

Rangers Defeated

GLASGOW, Scotland (Reuters)—Milano, the Italian first division club, beat Glasgow Rangers, the Scottish champions, 4-1 Wednesday night in the first round of the European Soccer Cup competition.

The return game will be in Milan Dec. 11.

A crowd of 85,000 saw the Rangers take a 1-0 first-half lead, but Milano scored four times in the last 15 minutes.

Nancy Takes Aim At Paddle Crown

Nancy Craig will be shooting for another Victoria Table Tennis Association women's singles title when the club holds its annual tournament at Club Sirocco Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Craig, many-time city and Western Canada titleholder who was out of tournament competition during most of last season, is expected to receive her toughest opposition from Val Druce and May Wong.

Veteran Laurie Greenwood is expected back to defend the men's singles crown he won last year.

Entries may be filed with Mrs. Druce, at 7-3422, until Saturday night.

WITH STONE AND BROOM

New Association Woos Island Curlers

In case you missed the news from Vancouver the other day, there's a move afoot to divide the province in two.

A new curling association, with support from Vancouver and several lower mainland clubs, is being formed. The new group, to be known as the Pacific Curling Association, will break from the B.C. Curling Association.

The move has gone beyond the planning stage. A committee made up of Dr. Ross MacLean and Arden Brown, both of Vancouver; Art Emery of Haney; Bob Stevenson of Chilliwack, and Keith Dawson of New Westminster, is already in the process of drawing up a constitution and enlisting the support of every interested club.

So far, the new group hasn't approached Vancouver Island clubs. In fact, Victoria Curling Club president Ernie Gordon did not learn of the mainlanders' move until Wednesday.

Until Gordon hears or learns more about the proceedings, he is not prepared to say what stand Island curlers will take.

It is planned to pattern the new organization after the Northern Alberta association and application for charter will be made to the Dominion Curling Association next spring. It has been learned that members of the three Vancouver clubs—Vancouver, Pacific and Capilano—and New Westminster are solidly behind the move.

The new group also hopes to woo Victoria, Port Alberni, Duncan, Nanaimo, Bridge River, Hope, Princeton, Abbotsford, White Rock, Cloverdale, Haney, Mission, Penticton, Kelowna and Kamloops into the fold.

The move appears to be, if anything, a case of growing pains. Curling has progressed to such an extent on the coast in the past 10 or 15 years that the governing provincial body apparently has not been able to keep up with the growth.

The men behind the split make it obvious that they are dissatisfied with the present set-up.

Prior to the upsurge of interest in the roarin' game on the coast, the "heart" of B.C. curling lay in the Kootenay country. In bygone days, you could count the number of curling enthusiasts on the coast on one hand. The Kootenay curlers, then, actually had all the say. Today, however, there are more curlers on the coast than in the interior.

One of the main objections of Vancouver curlers is the method of staging of the Consols (provincial) playdowns in conjunction with the B.C. bonspiel. Interior curlers, however, feel they need the Consols playoffs to feature the provincial 'spiel.

The bickering has been going on for a few years now, but this latest move by the Vancouver curlers means they're ready for a showdown. They most certainly do not appear to be bluffing.

It's going to be interesting watching the situation develop.

Fishermen Tell Whale of a Tale But Who Likes Shark Shenanigans?

By DON INGHAM

Two young Victorians, "transplants" from Holland, suggest consorting with basking sharks in Saanich Inlet as a pleasant, quiet, and interesting pastime.

It is even more interesting when your boat is nine feet long with a three-horse outboard motor, and John Shark measures about 30 feet from nose to tail.

This was the caper staged the other day by Gerald Kemperink, of 2337 Heron Street, and his pal, Tom De Groot.

"We were trolling in my cartop boat near the stone house on Saanich Inlet," Mr. Kemperink said, "when I saw this black fin come out of the water.

"I had a camera—I always carry one since I saw what might have been 'Caddy', and I'd like the $300 Times prize for a picture—so I cruised to within 10 feet of the monster, could tell it was probably a shark.

"We circled around him for about 20 minutes. When the light was right we could see his body clearly under the water. I wasn't afraid, and was wondering how I could catch him, but finally Tom suggested we move on and do some fishing, so we left him sunning himself on the surface."

From the picture Mr. Kemperink took of the fin, Frank Beebe, Provincial Museum assistant, identified the fish as Cetorhinus Maximus second largest fish in the world, which grows to a length of 40 feet. The whale shark is the largest at 50 feet.

A lazy, good-natured "slob," he feeds on minute organisms, is harmless, and likes nothing better than loafing about on the surface of calm water. He has a large liver, and used to be hunted for the 80 to 200 gallons of oil it would produce, but that market has vanished.

"I took three pictures and missed one because I was excited," Mr. Kemperink said. "I found he could turn quickly, and that I had to be snappy with the camera to get a picture."

What a difference there is in people! Years ago, while cruising alone in an outboard runabout with a 20-horsepower motor, I saw a big basking shark hoist himself out of the water.

Did I stick around and exercise my curiosity? Nope. I headed for home at a brisk 22 knots, green with terror. The books say basking sharks are harmless, but I will never ask one of them to prove it.

. . . HERE AND THERE . . .

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

The heavenly gyrations of Sputniks I and II appear to have stimulated local interest in astronomy as a career.

Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, tells me he has had numerous inquiries from young Victorians who think they would like to spend their lives peering through telescopes.

But, as he says, enthusiasm over the latest sky rocket to hit the headlines is not enough. The astronomer-to-be must have "a sustaining interest" — one that will enable him to carry out the critical and often laborious thinking that is necessary to scientific discipline.

In other words, don't confuse newspapers with telescopes.

Civil Servants To Confer With Bonner

Parley Next Week On Bargaining Pact

A meeting between provincial civil servants and Attorney-General Bonner is expected to be held sometime next week in another attempt to iron out their differences over a collective bargaining agreement for 14,000 government employees.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association wrote to Chief Justice Gordon Sloan on Nov. 5 asking that a meeting be arranged after Mr. Bonner returned from a European trip.

The chief justice, appointed by the government in July as a one-man board of reference to inquire into the dispute, has since written to the attorney-general asking him to arrange a date with the association.

Mr. Bonner is expected back this weekend after attending the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

LONG WAY APART

The government and the civil servants are believed to be still a long way apart in their negotiations and it is quite likely no solution will be reached at the next meeting.

In that case, the next step will probably be for the association to ask for a public hearing.

Both sides would then prepare briefs to present to Chief Justice Sloan, who would then be called upon to make a recommendation to the government.

Premier Bennett has already stated the government will accept the findings of the chief justice.

At present the government is not prepared to go as far toward granting bargaining rights to civil servants as the association would like.

AMEND ACT

The government wants to make changes by simply amending existing regulations governing civil servants. The association believes that the Civil Service Act itself must be amended.

Meanwhile, association officials will meet with the cabinet Tuesday to present a brief embodying resolutions approved at the association's annual convention in Kelowna last month.

Overtime for government employees is expected to be one of the chief points at issue.

Six Injured In Traffic Accidents

Four women and two men were given hospital treatment after they were involved in two separate traffic accidents here Wednesday night and early today.

Two couples were injured when the car in which they were riding crashed into a power pole at Douglas and Market at 2.45 a.m., causing heavy damage to the car and breaking off the pole.

Pedestrians Elizabeth Jobson, 21, 1443 Denman, and Margaret Warren, 16, 464 Stannard, were walking across Government at Herald at 5.12 p.m. Wednesday when they were in collision with an auto driven by Errol Neal Jernslet, 881 Violet.

Miss Jobson is in good condition with a hip and back injury after being admitted to Jubilee Hospital unconscious.

Her companion suffered bruises and abrasions and was released.

In today's accident, Irene Brown, 18, 761 Esquimalt received bruises and shock and Geraldine Eddy, 17, YWCA or 179 Sooke River Road, suffered shock and minor knee injury.

Verne Leroy Shipley, HMCS Naden, was treated for a cut lip and transferred to HMCS Naden Hospital, and driver Allan Jeffrey, 128 Michigan, was taken to Naden Hospital with bruises and shock.

Worker Dies After Mishap

John M. Richardson, 63, of 1425 Vancouver, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday from injuries received while longshoring at Cowichan Bay.

He was injured when a guy rope apparently broke. He was struck by goods being hoisted by a boom.

Inquest will be held here at Hayward's at 10 a.m. Friday with Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, presiding.

Alderman Hits Hard At Arena Management

Dukowski Related 'Only Half Story'

Alderman Hugh Ramsay said this morning he would express a lack of confidence in Memorial Arena manager Joseph Dukowski at a city council meeting later today.

He said he would base his attack on "gross misrepresentations" by the arena manager to council.

The alderman said: "The manager gave council only half the story" concerning the amount of corrosive chemicals which should have been permitted to exist in the arena floor freezing mixture.

ALD. RAMSAY
. . . no confidence in manager

TOO MUCH

Alderman Ramsay said he is convinced the current difficulties with leaks in the arena floor are due to too much corrosive liquids being permitted to remain in the pipes.

He feels the arena freezing system has been operated for long periods without due regard to the proper use of inhibitors which retard corrosion. He said he was presenting various documents and specifications to back his assertions.

The alderman also will take issue with various public statements allegedly made by Mr. Dukowski.

DENIED

He said the manager had given a statement to the press concerning his opposition to the proposed use of plastic pipe in the arena floor. Later, at a council meeting, Mr. Dukowski denied contacting the press on that matter.

Mr. Dukowski's recent radio broadcast which offended city engineer J. C. Garnett also will be cited. The broadcast was made after the arena commission adopted a freezing mixture recommended by the engineer.

APOLOGY

Later the manager retracted his radio statement and issued a public apology.

"How can you have confidence in such a manager?" asked Ald. Ramsay.

Ald. Ramsay said he will deal also with the question of the arena manager's salary, "which appears to be greater than that paid in most other arenas in Canada."

ARENA MGR. DUKOWSKI
. . . only half the story?

Amalgamation Vote Asked by Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrah was to ask city council this afternoon to order a referendum Dec. 12 on a royal commission to study Greater Victoria amalgamation.

The mayor made the statement this morning following receipt of a letter from the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, recommending the public vote.

Cost of a royal commission could reach $50,000, the mayor said. If Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt paid shares according to population, the city likely would be asked to pay half the cost.

"I'm definitely in favor of investigation by someone who is capable of bringing out all the aspects of the effect amalgamation would have," said the mayor.

"It would look to me like a chartered accountant's job in order to ascertain what effect amalgamation would have on the individual taxpayers.

"If a royal commission is the best way, I would be in favor of one. But I'd like to be sure. Could the same results be obtained without as great a cost? I would like an expression by the people."

The junior chamber letter, which also went out to the reeves of surrounding municipalities, asks all areas concerned to hold referendums at election time.

It advised that if this is not done, the Jaycees may endeavor to obtain petitions of 10 per cent of the names of the electorate, thus forcing a referendum.

The letter was signed by Eric Chafman, chairman of the Jaycee amalgamation committee.

Cottage Office For Staff of Lieut.-Governor

A converted cottage on the grounds of Government House next week will become the office of Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross' staff.

The staff has been quartered in the main Parliament Building since the fire which destroyed Government House last spring.

Meanwhile, first tenders for construction of the new Government House will be opened by the public works department at 2 p.m. Friday.

These tenders are for the reinforced concrete foundation and steel framework for the roof.

It is expected that this building "shell" will be completed within three or four months when tenders for completing the mansion will be called.

Bookie Charges Bring Fines To Two City Men

Two men were fined for bookmaking offences when they pleaded guilty in city court today.

Henry Brawn, 2180 Fair, was fined $50 for providing information intended for use in connection with bookmaking and horse betting.

Daniel Wilson, 251 Superior, was fined $50 for having under his control property relating to an illegal transaction.

Times Drama Critic Directs 'Yeoman of Guard' Next May

While there has been no fall or early winter production by Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society, the organization has not been idle.

Big plans are afoot for a top-flight show in keeping with the B.C. Centenary in 1958—Gilbert and Sullivan's fine Elizabethan operetta, The Yeoman of the Guard.

It will be presented at the Royal Theatre early in May. Stage director will be Times drama critic Audrey St.Denys Johnson. Jim Yeomans will direct the musical score.

Letters have gone out to all former members and it is expected by this means that the strongest possible cast will be available.

A general meeting will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at 1010 Langley Street, third floor. All former and present members are being asked, along with anyone interested in the centennial year production.

In the meantime members of the society are selling tickets for a concert party for the purpose of visiting and entertaining hospitals and other institutions.

Casting for The Yeoman of the Guard will take place early in the new year.

Guilty Plea on Car Pilfering; Case Remanded

He was in possession of the clock, which he said he bought, and the wallet, which he did not know he had, Cons. Baxter said.

Both items were reported missing from a parked car property of Roy Farquharson, 3242 Douglas.

Compulsory Bright Clothing Studied for Hunters in B.C.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood said today his department is studying a proposal to make it compulsory for hunters to wear brightly-colored clothing.

Hugh Shantz, MLA for North Okanagan and Speaker-designate, wrote to Mr. Westwood this week urging that action be taken immediately.

The minister said he has asked Game Commissioner Frank Butler for advice on the proposal.

It has been suggested that yellow might be the best color to prevent hunters being mistaken for animals by other marksmen.

Less than two weeks ago an Island hunter was slain near Shawnigan Lake when another man thought he was a deer.

The coroner's jury investigating the mishap recommended "that suitable colored clothing be worn by hunters in the bush and that this provision be included in the B.C. Game Act."

"I'd like to see something that will need a new suit, shoes and gloves to go with it."

Drop Hints 'Round Now For Christmas Giving

By PENNY SAVER

Now's the time to start dropping gentle hints about what you want for Christmas!

Today I jotted down all the hints I'd been hearing lately and went shopping to find gifts that will please the hinters on the big, big day . . . Dec. 25.

First there was my glamorous friend who loves pretty jewelry and sophisticated cosmetics. What did I buy her? Why, the cutest black china cat with green jewel eyes and a bottle of wonderful perfume between his paws. He's just $1.95 and makes a "too, too ultra" gift!

My four-year-old niece is already a regular bookworm. Though she cherishes her many volumes of Mother Goose and Grimm's Fairy Tales, the smudges of tiny fingers on the covers and bindings are a pretty sorry sight!

I know where there are some large books with heavy cardboard covers and thick pages for little kiddies. There is a large choice of stories in the collection of books at $1.29.

★ ★ ★

Uncle and aunt in the east will appreciate a box of tiny packaged cheeses from Scandinavia. These nourishing little cheeses are wrapped in tin foil with separate labels. A box is $1.95.

On the same counter I saw packs of dried fruit. Beautifully arranged, this fruit would be a grand present for distant relatives or a sick chum. There are figs, dates, ginger and apricots all for $2.45.

★ ★ ★

Here's an idea! For sisters I've found a collection of evening sweaters that would look like a million dollars combined with black felt, taffeta or silk skirts. They feature scoop necks or high necks with low back lines and are bejewelled to sparkle like stars on a dark night! White, black, pink and baby blue in the set and at a tiny price range of $3.98 to $5.98.

Mother may have almost everything in her kitchen, but I'll bet she hasn't got an ice chopper! Screw this dandy gadget to the kitchen wall and it will chop up ice as fine or coarse as you desire. The cup for holding the ice is large and the handle for turning the machine sturdy. Comes in chrome in various colors at $9.95.

Hope these hints help with your Christmas shopping. Phone me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find them.

On Etiquette

Signature on Christmas cards:

Each year I am in a quandary as to whether to sign Christmas cards as Helen and Harlowe Shepherd or vice versa. Would you set me straight on this? Would it be all right to include our children's names on the cards. We may be entertaining with an open house during the holidays. If we do, would it be appropriate to use the Christmas cards as invitations too?

Louise Davis

Louise Davis answers:

It is optional as to whose name appears first on Christmas cards. There is no hard and fast rule about holiday greeting cards, which are in a class by themselves. Personally, I like the man's name first, for the husband is head of his house, but it is so unimportant either way that it does not matter. It is optional too, as to whether or not to include the names of the children. Even very young ones can wish your friends a joyous Christmas in their own way, so why not do it all together, for family is so closely associated with Christmas. It would be all right to send your party invitations with your cards. Many people do.

Constant Care Will Pay Off

The woman who makes the most of the beauty nature has given her is the rare one.

Few women know how to realize their potential for good looks. They don't like their brows so they pluck them all out and draw on a hard line rather than learn to sketch in softly a new and becoming brow.

They use the same unbecoming shade of lipstick for years and apply it slapdash fashion. They slouch, develop bulges and walk pigeon-toed on shoes with heels that are stilt high.

They talk about dieting and never quite get around to it. Each year, the beauty that might be theirs becomes more deeply buried, less accessible, until finally it's gone completely.

There's only one answer to all of this: action. Keep an open mind, be sharply self-critical, take care of grey streaks, extra poundage or a new bulge as it develops. And always be willing to learn how to improve your looks.

YOUR SHOES

If your feet are really not pretty, the best thing to do is to hide them. That is, stay away from open-toed shoes and sandals.

This is your year, really, for closed shoes with pointed toes are high fashion and everyone, not just you, will be wearing them. For you can't change the shape of your feet, unfortunately, or the length and shape of your toes.

You can help, of course. You can see that you are properly fitted for shoes each time you buy a pair. You can cut your toenails straight across, not to sharp points. You can sit and read while your feet relax gently in a pan of warm, soapy water. You can move the arches of your feet over a small rubber ball to exercise them.

All of these things will make your feet more attractive if not pretty.

Tips to teenagers: the prettiest girl is the one who uses a mimimum of make-up on a fresh, clear skin.

Leave the heavy make-up to movie stars. It belongs on a movie set but not on your face when you're in your teens. You honestly don't need it. And don't think that the actress who has to do a complete make-up job a half dozen times a day doesn't envy you your flick of powder, touch of lipstick and dash of cologne. Make the most of your teen years while you're in them.

Someone in the family needs a bland diet? Remember canned peaches and cooked dried prunes for breakfast or dessert.

TODAY'S RECIPE

ORANGE SUGAR STICKS

One-half cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel, 1¾ cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon mace, 2 tablespoons fresh orange juice.

Frosting: 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, dash salt, 1 teaspoon grated orange peel, 3 tablespoons fresh orange juice.

Cream butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg yolk and orange peel. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with orange juice. Roll small pieces of dough into sticks about as thick as a pencil and 2 inches long. Dip one side in sugar and place sticks on greased cooky sheet, sugar side up. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 10 to 15 minutes. Be careful not to brown too much. Remove immediately from cooky sheet onto racks to cool. Makes 5 to 6 dozen cookies.

Make a thin frosting by stirring all ingredients until smooth. Using a cake decorating tube, fill with frosting. Make curlicues, stripes and various line designs on orange sticks. (Grated lemon peel mixed with sugar is also good topping for these cookies.)

Fill up your cooky jar with some brown sugar drop cookies, rich with crisp nuggets of walnuts. Serve with a glass of refreshing apricot whole fruit nectar for an afternoon pick-up or bedtime snack.

TORIES PLAN CAR TAX CUT, SAYS TELEGRAM

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says in an Ottawa dispatch it was learned reliably that the federal government plans a 50 per cent reduction in the excise tax on automobiles this session.

The story says halving the present 10 per cent tax would reduce the cost of a $2,000 car by $100 if passed on to the consumer.

It adds that the move, in line with an election campaign pledge by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, is aimed at stimulating employment and sales in the auto industry.

The loss in revenue to the government is estimated at about $40,000,000 a year.

THE 1,000 WHO FORGOT

A community, like an individual, must in the end be judged by its actions rather than its words. When all the talk is finished, when all the plans, hopes and promises have been voiced, it is what a city does that counts.

Victorians pride themselves on being a city of homes, on maintaining a good neighborly feeling among themselves, on responding to appeals for help in a way that demonstrates their sympathy and warm-heartedness. They have shown on many occasions that they are alive to the needs of those less fortunate, and that when faced with the need for generosity they can do more than talk about it.

Because these things are largely true, it is all the more difficult to understand why last year was the first time in many years that the Greater Victoria Community Chest made its objective.

It is difficult to understand why, after several weeks of fine effort by officials and canvassers, this year's Community Chest collection seems headed for a shortage of nearly $30,000.

It is difficult to understand why, when so many people give generously and cheerfully, so many others who could help dodge this civic duty and refuse to part with a thin dime.

The needs of the 20 agencies which appeal for funds through the Community Chest have been well publicized. Everybody in this area must know that they cater for the blind, the sick, the aged and homeless; that they provide nursing service, family counsel, help for youngsters both sick and well, treatment for citizens crippled by arthritis and other diseases; that their assistance runs all the way from Christmas treats and summer camps to homes for orphans and jobs for ex-prisoners trying to go straight.

These are facts known to all.

Yet the records show that 1,000 business firms, large and small, in this area have not given a cent to the Community Chest and have made no provision for their employees to do so.

That is worse than apathy. That is moral negligence.

New Talks to Save B.C. Mine

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said today he will have further conversations next spring with officials of the Howe Sound Company in an effort to avert closure of its copper mine at Britannia, B.C.

Asked by James Sinclair (L-Coast-Capilano) in the Commons whether any action has been taken to halt closure—the mine employs 800 men—Mr. Fulton said he talked recently with company officials in New York. The company now was considering the report of a consultant.

Fire Razes Antarctic Base

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chile's General O'Higgins base in Antarctica was destroyed by fire but the personnel escaped.

Located on what is called O'Higgins Land, between the 60th and 70th parallels, personnel took refuge at the nearby scientific base set up for studies during the International Geophysical Year.

Top Russ Wish Ike Recovery

LONDON (Reuters) — Russian leaders have cabled President Eisenhower wishing him a speedy recovery, Moscow radio said today.

3 Die in Globemaster Crash

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—A U.S. Globemaster crashed into a hill near here in dense fog today and burst into flames, killing three of the eight Americans aboard. Two others were injured severely.

The transport plane was reported inbound from Tripoli with a cargo of provisions for the U.S. military mission here.

Eversfield Draws $25 Fine

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—Charles E. Eversfield, former Chilliwack resident and now a Los Angeles accountant, was fined today $25 and costs for failing to stop at a stop sign and crashing into another car last Sunday, causing damage of about $150.

Eversfield supplied the information on which Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy based his allegations on bribery against former forests minister Robert Sommers in an appearance two years ago before a royal commission on forestry.

Ike Rapidly Recovering; At Church

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower went to church services today on the U.S. Thanksgiving holiday. It was a dramatic signal of the rapidity of his recovery from the mild stroke he suffered Monday.

Accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, he slipped out a side door of the White House and into a limousine while his press secretary was giving reporters the first word of a decision to go.

Shortly after the president returned from church, the White House said he and Mrs. Eisenhower hope to go to their farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., Friday. There was no word on how long Eisenhower might stay there.

A bulletin from White House physician Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder said: "The president had another good night's sleep and is in fine spirits this morning. His progress continues to be excellent."

Reports of excellent recovery progress cheered both the president and his family and they arranged a holiday get-together at the White House. Traditional turkey was on the dinner menu.

"CAGED LION"

"It is quite obvious he is like a caged lion," Vice-President Nixon told a White House press conference after he had talked with the convalescing president. Nixon added Eisenhower is "champing at the bit" to get back to work full time.

"I would like to 'scotch' once and for all, if I can, any rumors to the effect that the president, first, is in a condition which would make it necessary for him to consider resigning. And, second, that the president himself or anybody in the president's official family have discussed or are considering the possibility of resignation," Nixon said.

French Claim U.K. Betrayal On Arms Deal

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain said today the Red Sea kingdom of Yemen had asked France for arms and was refused.

A foreign office spokesman said France rejected the request, made two months ago, after Britain advised against supplying the arms. British forces in the neighboring Aden protectorate have been engaged for years in intermittent border clashes with Yemeni troops.

British quarters said Britain advised France against supplying the arms for fear they might be used against British troops in the border warfare.

A Paris dispatch appearing in The Daily Express says the French rejection of arms to Yemen was the "real story" behind the Tunisian arms dispute.

Correspondent Derek Marks says that now "the French feel that not only have they been betrayed but they have been betrayed after standing by their allies."

Chile, Venezuela Rift

SANTIAGO, Chile (Reuters)—Chile today broke relations with Venezuela as the latest move in a dispute between the two South American countries over the arrest and detention of a member of the Chilean Embassy in Caracas.

Sunshine is nice, but at this time of year it invariably is the forerunner of cold nights and frost on the windshield. ## Pulp Strike Talk Fails, Boilers Kept Manned

Salaried workers at most of the nine strike-bound pulp mills, including four on Vancouver Island, began manning boilers today to maintain heat in the plants.

A counter-move, the step was taken as B.C.'s first pulp industry strike, entering its third week, headed into a "tough" phase after breakdown of exploratory talks Wednesday.

A union leader said the 6,000 strikers "are in a position to continue this strike for a long, long period of time," after first contact between the two sides since the strike began failed to produce any results.

Emergency workers tending boilers in the plants operated by seven companies were ordered to withdraw by the central strike committee of the two unions involved—International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union.

Exceptions are the plants where boilers supply heat to houses in company towns.

James Petrie, manager of the MacMillan and Bloedel plant at Port Alberni, said the emergency workmen walked off the jobs at midnight and were replaced today by staff members to prevent damage to plant equipment

He said the same situation had developed across the industry. Mr. Petrie added that electrical workers carrying out maintenance jobs, salaried workers and construction crews building added facilities still have not been interfered with by picket lines.

Meanwhile, the effects of the strike continued spreading. In

U.S. Bombs Not Fused On Flights, U.K. Told

(See also Page 5)

LONDON (CP) — American bombers on armed patrol over Britain are always able to return to the United States by an air refuelling system if they are unable to land in this country, Prime Minister Macmillan said today.

He was replying in the House of Commons to a series of Labor questions on patrols over Britain by planes of the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

Macmillan said there was no danger of an explosion even if the planes crashed because the bombs they carried were "not armed." He referred presumably to a technique for fusing the bombs for warfare only at the last minute.

The prime minister said the U.S. Air Force keeps ready a special tanker machine for mid-air refuelling if the plane could not land in Britain.

Them inter-continental missiles may be all right, if y' c'd jist be sure which continents they're headin' inter.

New Move in Race To Catch Russians

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, striving to catch up with Russia in medium range missiles, has ordered two rival types into production. The goal is to have them ready for use in another year.

The Senate preparedness subcommittee, to which defence secretary Neill McElroy made the announcement at a hearing Wednesday, welcomed it as "good news" and termed McElroy a man "with both the power and the willingness to act."

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (Dem., Tex.) said McElroy is the "real czar" in the battle to surpass Russia in missile development, and told reporters he hopes that other decisions which McElroy promised "will come just as soon as possible."

The subcommittee, before recessing its hearings until Dec. 13, also heard Deputy Secretary Donald A. Quarles testify that the United States is running "neck-and-neck" with Russia in developing the intercontinental ballistic missile, and that "as a whole, as of today," the over-all U.S. missile program is ahead of Russia's. (See Page 10.)

DEADLOCK DISSOLVED

McElroy ended an army-air force deadlock with his announcement of production orders for both the army Jupiter and the air force Thor. Both are intermediate range ballistic missiles with a range up to 1,500 miles.

At Redstone arsenal near Huntsville, Ala., where the Jupiter was developed, Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris said the arsenal's production facilities will be used to meet early requirements.

Army spokesmen in Washington indicated production will be gradually shifted to the Warren, Mich., plant of the Chrysler Corporation, which now produces the shorter-range Redstone missile.

An air force spokesman said limited production of the Thor has been under way for some time at the Douglas Aircraft Company.

$1 MILLION EACH

Though there have been varying estimates, the first missiles produced are expected to cost about $1,000,000 each. The cost is expected to drop as quantity production is achieved.

In Albuquerque, N.M., meantime, the [illegible]nergy Commission an[illegible]static tests of propelling rockets by nuclear energy may begin late next year.

ROCKET TO FALL OVER WEEKEND?

LONDON (UP) — British astronomer A. C. B. Lovell predicted today that the rocket accompanying Sputnik I around the earth will not survive this weekend.

Lovell, director of Manchester University's Jodrell Bank Observatory, said he based his forecast on the fact that the third stage rocket had speeded up considerably and cannot go much faster without entering denser layers of the earth's atmosphere.

Sommers Case Remanded Until Dec. 6

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sommers bribery conspiracy case was remanded again today until Friday, Dec. 6.

Crown Prosecutor Stewart McMorran said that if he was to take charge of the case alleging conspiracy to bribe Robert Sommers, former forests minister, by three lumber firms and their officials, he would need the time to consult with Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Nicholas Mussallem, Mr. Sommers' counsel, said, "We don't agree to any adjournment," and added he wished to emphasize delay in beginning the case wasn't the result of any action by the Social Credit member of the legislature for Rossland-Trail.

PUT UP, SHUT UP

"In plain language," Mr. Mussallem said, "the crown should either put up or shut up."

Mr. Sommers was arrested on the bribery charge a week ago.

Also arraigned are C. D. Schultz; the company which bears his name; H. Wilson Gray and the two firms of which he is president, Pacific Coast Services and Evergreen Lumber Sales, and John M. Gray, sales manager of Pacific Coast Services.

One in Four Chances Of Rain for Grey Cup

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—Weather authorities today said the chances of rain during the Winnipeg-Hamilton Grey Cup game Saturday stand at about one in four.

Heavy rain is forecast between midnight Friday and the 1 p.m. kick-off, but weathermen conceded the chances of rain during the afternoon are diminishing.

Meanwhile, "gotta ticket to the game?" was the most frequent question as this city came down with a red-hot infection of football fever.

But the only tickets to be had to the game between the eastern and western football champions were being scalped for as much as $40 for a $10 seat in the 27,000-odd capacity Varsity Stadium.

For the first time since 1953, rabid fans from coast to coast will watch fresh teams battle for Canada's coveted football crown. In heart-stopping regional finals last weekend, the Winnipeg Blue Bombers loosened the Edmonton Eskimos' grip on the western title and the savage Tiger-Cats of Hamilton snatched the eastern championship from the Montreal Alouettes.

The Bombers arrived in town today, headed by coach Bud Grant. The Ti-Cats will lurk in their Hamilton lair until Saturday but will be worked hard by coach Jim Trimble.

Special trains, buses and plane flights brought a deluge of out-of-towners to this city of 1,300,000 inhabitants who talk nothing but "Grey Cup."

NATO Meeting On as Planned

PARIS (AP)—Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, announced today that the "summit" meeting of NATO's chiefs of government will go ahead as planned despite the illness of President Eisenhower.

A communique issued after a meeting of the permanent NATO council said the group had "learned with satisfaction" that Vice-President Nixon will head the U.S. delegation for the meeting.

The decision to go ahead with the three-day, 15-nation session as planned was unanimous, a NATO spokesman said.

The possibility that Eisen- will be able to attend the Dec. 16-18 talks was not ruled out in Washington.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's plans to attend are not being altered, it was announced from Ottawa.

...STRIKE

Vancouver, 120 men will be laid off at the $12,000,000 Hooker Chemical Company plant Monday when it closes down because orders for paper-making chemicals have been cut off by the strike.

Ken Hutcheson, president of the Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce, criticized Labor Minister Lyle Wicks for taking a "wait and see attitude" in refusing to intervene until both sides made requests.

MILLIONS LOST

Mayors of Port Alberni and Alberni, the Chamber of Commerce and Alberni Board of Trade petitioned Monday for government intervention.

More than $2,000,000 in wages and $9,000,000 in production has been lost since the strike began Nov. 14.

John Sherman, international vice-president of the pulp and sulphite workers, said the union's only alternative after the failure of the exploratory talks in Vancouver "is to tighten our lines and be firm in our position."

He said the union was in a position to "continue this strike for a long, long period of time but we want to find a solution. We don't want a bitter fight but we feel we are just in our cause and that the workers are entitled to more consideration."

He said it looked as if the companies "are trying to destroy the unions in this industry."

A meeting was held Tuesday, at the unions' request, which was followed Wednesday by a letter from the companies saying that if employee representatives want to talk about "more money than is set forth in the majority report of the conciliation board," there could be no useful purpose in continuing talks.

HIKE RECOMMENDED

The majority report recommended a 7½-per-cent increase in the workers' basic pay of $1.72 an hour. Management claims that hourly earnings actually average $2.30, not including welfare benefits. The unions are striking for 12-per-cent increases.

Replied Mr. Sherman after receiving the letter from D. R. Blair, manager of the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau which does the bargaining for the companies:

"Mr. Blair indicated the issues actually in dispute would not be discussed. Issues that are unresolved must be discussed. If they can't be, you're at a standstill. That's not collective bargaining."

Hillary Cut Off By Bad Weather In Antarctic

LONDON (Reuters)—A British Commonwealth expedition has travelled about 25 miles in its bid to make a 2,100-mile first land crossing of the Antarctic, its headquarters here said today.

The 10-man party, which left Shackleton base Sunday night, was about 25 miles south of the starting point Wednesday, the report said.

Meanwhile, a report from New Zealand said bad weather had cut air contact with another expedition led by Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mount Everest, who plans to meet the Commonwealth party during its trek.

Headquarters said the Commonwealth team had made a good start. When the trek by snow vehicle and dog team began, it was said expedition leader Vivian Fuchs and his men expected to travel 20 to 30 miles daily.

The group ran into trouble at crevasses but the trip now is going well, expedition headquarters added.

The party hopes to reach New Zealand's Scott base via the Pole by February. The men plan to rendezvous about Jan. 10 with a party led by New Zealander Hillary, who left Scott base Oct. 14.

Officials in Wellington, New Zealand, said bad weather had cut air contact with the Hillary group since Saturday. Supply planes have been grounded.

Hillary is at a base 720 miles from the pole and intends to work with the planes in building up supplies for the Fuchs party.

ZARA NELSOVA

WITH SYMPHONY

'Greatest Cellist' Plays Here

A name and a musical reputation that is known wherever in the world musicians and music-lovers gather, plus a warm, friendly personality, belong to Victoria Symphony Orchestra's guest soloist of this week.

Zara Nelsova is one of the pre-eminent Canadian artists whose return was demanded and eagerly anticipated following her memorable appearance with the orchestra last season.

World's most famous woman cellist and one of the greatest of all living cellists, Nelsova will play with the orchestra at its second Duncan concert, Friday, and at the twin concerts to be given at the Royal Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Music to be performed by Nelsova with Hans Gruber and the orchestra, is Bloch's "Schelomo," Hebraic Rhadsody (which she recently recorded in England) and the Boccherini B-flat Cello Concerto.

Composer Ernest Bloch himself chose Nelsova to record "Schelomo." His comment was: "Zara Nelsova is my music."

The artist's 1735 Guarnarius instrument confronts her with numerous problems when travelling. But as she spends most of the year in her globe-girdling tours, Nelsova has learned to cope as well as airline officials and hotel porters have learned to know the blonde, smiling artist and her bulky but fabulous companion.

MOTHER KILLS CHILDREN

RESIGNATION URGED

Ike's Task Too Great Says U.K. Press

LONDON (Reuters)—Three British newspapers today urge President Eisenhower to retire and focus a searching look at Vice-President Richard Nixon as his successor.

The newspapers — The Scotsman, The Daily Mail and The Daily Mirror—say the burden of the United States presidency is too great for a man whose health is uncertain.

"To demand that the president should carry on is almost too much to ask," says The Daily Mail, Conservative.

"He has earned the rest and the chance of real recovery which complete severance from work and worry alone can give him, and if only in his own interests he should seek release."

NEEDS FIT MAN

The Scotsman, independent, says the work of a president is almost more than a fit man could perform and Eisenhower should resign.

"His duty to America and to America's allies is clear," says the left-wing Daily Mirror. "He should hand over the presidency as promptly as possible and restore some confidence in Western leadership."

The Mirror says no one can tell yet how Vice-President Nixon would shape up as president.

"Too slick? Too much of a salesman? Too inexperienced in world politics?

"Maybe. But Nixon has one supreme advantage. He is only 44. Young enough to learn. Tough enough to stand the strain of the most exhausting job in the world.

"The pace in 1957 is too hot for the old 'uns. This is the year of the Sputniks. Aged minds, tired brains, sick bodies, cannot keep up with the headlong pace of events."

SEES NIXON ADVANCING

The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, says Nixon "seems likely to step out more boldly towards the centre of power."

The News Chronicle, Liberal, says that to much of the world "Mr. Nixon looks almost as small today as Mr. Truman did before destiny swept him to the White House. But destiny can do strange things."

TASTY COOKIES

Ormskirk, an old town in Lancashire, England, for centuries has been celebrated for its output of gingerbread.

ALGERIA STILL FRENCH AFFAIR

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today the responsibility for settling the Algerian rebellion "must rest with France."

He was reporting to the House of Commons on his talks in Paris earlier this week with Premier Felix Gaillard.

Arab Ruler Starts 16-Day Tour of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—King Mohammed V of Morocco ended his three-day visit here with a warm "goodbye" today from Vice-President Nixon, substituting for President Eisenhower.

The king left by air for Williamsburg, Va., starting a 16-day cross-country tour.

Nixon told the 48-year-old Moroccan ruler his stay had further strengthened the ties of friendship between Morocco and the United States.

Nixon presented the king with a Miss America doll, a gift from the vice-president's daughter, Patricia, 11, to Mohammed's 3½-year-old daughter, Amina. The king beamed as he accepted the gift.

Aides said Mohammed was pleased at results of two lengthy foreign policy talks with State Secretary Dulles.

After the king's final meeting with Dulles Wednesday, a joint statement was issued. It said both governments have a "firm attachment" to United Nations principles and will continue to co-operate in advancing the peaceful objectives of the UN.

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Twenty-four warships of Iran, Turkey, Britain, the United States and Pakistan sailed out of Karachi harbor Wednesday for a three-day exercise in the Arabian Sea. The sea and air operation will start Nov. 30.

Art Gallery Low Bid By Victoria Company

Contract for building the new permanent wing of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery probably will go to M. P. Paine Co. which entered a bid of $63,923.

Roderick D. Clack, architect of the one-storey wing to house two galleries and other facilities, said Wednesday that work probably will begin next week.

The gallery building committee is expected to recommend the Paine Co. bid, lowest of four tenders by local contractors that ranged as high as $72,115, when it meets Friday. Final decision will be made by the directors Tuesday.

Some $79,409 is available for the project, supplied by the joint provincial-municipal centennial committees and a special Oak Bay grant.

Some of it will be used for rewiring the present building and providing new facilities such as a pottery workshop, weaving and painting studios and extension of the children's gallery.

$13,000 Intact In Stolen Safe

KELOWNA—A safe containing an estimated $13,000 in cash and cheques, which was stolen from a city department store Sunday night, has been found intact by a duck hunter in nearby bushland.

Hunter Colin Fazan of Okanagan Mission stumbled on the 700-pound safe Wednesday near Mission Creek, three miles south of here. Police said the thieves had attempted to open it by knocking off the hinges.

The safe was taken from the second floor of the Simpson-Sears store and rolled downstairs on a mattress. It contained weekend receipts.

5-YEAR TERM

VANCOUVER — Courtney Galbraith, 30, was jailed for five years Wednesday for drug trafficking. He was the 27th suspect to be sentenced since an RCMP crackdown September 17, found guilty by Magistrate Alexander McDonald on a charge of selling a capsule of heroin to RCMP undercover Constable Harry Oosthoek.

MAIL PILES UP

DAWSON CREEK — Mountains of mail for the Canadian North have been piling up here in recent weeks since bridges along the Alaska highway between here and Fort St. John have been closed or under repair.

An average of 800 bags of mail a week have been arriving here and the rate is expected to reach 1,500 a week before Christmas. Postmaster Frank Riedl said he plans to ship northern mail to Grande Prairie, Alta., to be airlifted to Fort St. John until bridge repairs put the highway back in business.

JOBLESS TOLL UP

PENTICTON — Unemployment totals for the Penticton area continued to increase during November according to the monthly summary of employment conditions released by the Penticton office of the National Employment Service.

At Nov. 25 there were 615 men and 289 women registered for employment with the office compared to 255 men and 369 women at the same time last year.

RULING SET ASIDE

VANCOUVER—Court of appeal Wednesday set aside an order committing a nine-year-old boy to the provincial school at New Denver.

The court ruled that Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes erred in not quashing the order on appeal of Bill Perepolkin, Crescent Valley Doukhobor, whose son had been committed to New Denver by Magistrate William Evans at Nelson. The committal order was made on grounds the boy failed to attend public school.

HUNTING AT HOME

SUMMERLAND—Home is where the Hart is.

C. W. Reinertson of Summerland and son-in-law Carl Jeffreys left home at 6 a.m. Tuesday and drove miles into the Okanagan countryside to hunt deer. They didn't fire a shot.

Arriving home, they were told by Reinertson's two boys that three deer crossed the road near their house a short while before. Reinertson and Jeffreys raced to the scene and bagged one of the critters.

Bridge Opening Plans Complete

Sunshine, rain, wind, snow, hail or high water, Point Ellice Bridge opening ceremonies take place at 2 p.m. Saturday, according to public works chairman of Victoria council, Ald. M. H. Mooney.

A parade will leave City Hall for the bridge at 1.30 p.m. (assembly time is 1.15.) There will be two bands, two drill teams, cars carrying the mayor and aldermen, and two buses carrying district pioneers who were involved or suffered loss when the original Point Ellice Bridge collapsed.

The ceremonies will be held at the east end of the bridge. Brief speeches and selections by the Musicians' Union Band will precede unveiling of a plaque by Mayor Percy Scurrah, and cutting of the ribbon, by former aldermen and Victoria West Community Association president, Charles Banfield.

The pioneers and other invited guests will be entertained, following the ceremony at the Victoria West Community Hall.

CIVIC CENTRE MEETING TONIGHT

A public meeting to hear discussion concerning the proposed new civic centre for Victoria will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Business and Professional Women's Club, 902 Government.

The meeting is sponsored by the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Two Farmers Divide Turkey Show Prizes

Two turkey farmers who swept all 10 prize trophies at the 11th annual dressed turkey show of the Vancouver Island Turkey Improvement Association Wednesday shared their winnings with charity.

About 150 of the best birds among 50,000 being killed on Vancouver Island for the Christmas season were entered in the show at Buckerfields, 2105 Douglas.

Winners were Charles Stronach, Nanaimo, and E. A. H. Mitchell, Metchosin.

Mr. Stronach donated $37 to the March of Dimes, proceeds of an auction for his 34¾-pound bronze-breasted brood turkey which won the Grand Champion award. It was the fourth time he won the award.

Jack Stuart, a butcher who bought the bird, said he would give it to the Protestant Orphanage.

Mr. Mitchell said he would give half of the $30 bid on his reserve grand champion turkey to another charity.

STAPLE FRUIT

Dried apples, of which fewer are eaten nowadays, were a staple commodity centuries ago in warm areas of Europe.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Readers Boost Fund to $768

Generous Victorians have given an additional $234 to the fund to buy "T-bricks" for Korean children, to bring the total to date to $768.04.

The fund hopes to reach a total of $12,000 in the next 27 days. Proceeds will help to build a tuberculosis outpatients' pavilion in Seoul, where the Korean war is taking a belated but terrible toll from the children of the country.

It has been heart-warming to find contributions to the fund coming from those that are rich, and those that are obviously poor. Several have signed themselves, "A Widow," and one lady admitted she already had made a donation direct to Ottawa, but could not resist the appeal made by Bruce Hutchison of the Times, and gave another $10.

Donations may be sent to the Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street, or the Times downtown office on Broad Street. Cheques should be made out to the Unitarian Services Committee "T-Bricks for Korea."

QUEEN, MARGARET COUPLE OF KNOCKOUTS

Most Daring of Royal Careers

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Wednesday night wore a couple of the most daring evening dresses of their royal social careers.

The royal sisters didn't appear together. This was just as well, for the joint effect of their ultra-modern clothes might have been too electrifying.

The Queen's appearance was at a British Museum reception in London.

Princess Margaret was the guest of honor at a students' ball in Staffordshire.

Elizabeth donned a full-skirted dress of white tulle cut low in the front and the back, and precariously held up by two tiny jewelled straps that hugged her trim white shoulders.

She also wore a sparkling tiara and a diamond and ruby necklace.

While the sovereign was appearing barebacked in London, Princess Margaret was doing the same thing in a strapless blue satin gown in rural Keele.

Partial to low-cut dresses, she must have been in love with the one she wore to the students' ball of University College of Staffordshire.

Around her neck she wore a necklace. There were pendant earrings at her ears.

The princess danced waltzes, rhumbas and did a modified jive when the band played the old New Orleans tune, "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Eleven students were selected to dance with the princess. She made it even more democratic, by asking the band leader, Nat Temple, to play three Paul Jones change-partners dances.

The idea was to dance with as many students as possible.

She was still at it at 2.30 a.m.

HOW TO ESCAPE CANCER

...Just Don't Do Nothin

VANCOUVER (CP) — Associate professor of medicine has drawn up a tidy list for preventing cancer.

Dr. Donald M. Whitelaw of the faculty of medicine at the University of British Columbia turned the trick Wednesday night in a tongue-in-cheek speech to the B.C. Cancer Foundation.

The many well-known scientists and doctors who have studied cancer's causes, he said, have made the "mechanical" prevention of cancer "perfectly clear."

"All you have to do to prevent cancer is to carry out the following:

"1. Quit smoking.

"2. Quit drinking all alcohol.

"3. Stop drinking hot fluids (he said there is "some evidence that hot tea poured on the back of the throat" can cause cancer).

"4. Stop going out in the sun.

"5. Have no X-rays taken.

"6. Don't catch worms (no specific kind mentioned).

"7. Don't come in contact with any germs.

"8. Don't expose yourself to coal tars (aspirins, Dr. Whitelaw said, contain coal tar).

"9. Choose your parents carefully (some evidence indicated cancer is carried through heredity).

"10. Avoid growing old."

... EDITORIAL

Many of them have made it possible for their employees to contribute to the Chest through payroll deductions.

Such firms and individuals are the backbone of any community. They are participating properly in the group life from which they obtain their livelihood. They are carrying the burden of those who could give but do not.

Chest officials report that without a heavy flow of contributions within the next few days, the funds for next year will be $30,000 short of what is needed. There will be $220,000 for the work instead of $250,000.

That is not just a bookkeeping item. Translated into reality it means that charitable agencies in this community will have to curb their activities. Here and there a child will have to go without needed attention. Here and there a nurse may have to be laid off or put on part time with the result that some elderly folk will not get the care they should; a few blind people may miss an outing; a cripple may have to wait another year for the help he needs; almost certainly plans for the home for delinquent girls, so badly needed here, will have to be abandoned.

That is not a picture of the sort of community Victorians think they live in, but the facts cannot be dodged.

Of course, there won't be a big hullabaloo. Nobody will die in the streets. Most folk won't even know what is going on. But the social workers will try unsuccessfully to stretch their money to cover a little more than it can, the needy will quietly pull their belts a little tighter—and our town will become a little less the sort of place it should be.

There are 30,000 homes in Greater Victoria. One additional dollar from each of them—and many of them already have given handsomely—would put this year's campaign over the top, would do the job that should be done, would avoid the bad effects that a shortage of funds will cause.

This newspaper recognizes that a failure of the Community Chest campaign would be a serious thing for Greater Victoria. It would mean not only that the community's charities would be short of money—the community itself would be shown to lack the spirit, the group feeling, that any successful city must have.

This editorial is to point out the need to those who have already contributed and to those who have not. It is an appeal to "finish the job" at this critical stage in the campaign.

There is more at stake than money. Let's finish the job.
